FINIS.

With the expiration of the year 1893 my labors as editor of the SENTINEL end. The lease was for one year from the first of last January. In laying down my pen as editor of this paper I cannot refrain from expressing my sincere thanks to the people with whom I have come in contact and with whom I have had dealings, for the many kindnesses and expressions of approval by them. My work at best, has been poorly done, but I retire with the consciousness that I have done what I conceived to be my duty and have expressed my opinions in my own way unrestained by public sentiment or of individuals. I leave the paper without any remorse of conscience and feel and believe that the principles adhered to will ultimately prevail throughout this whole glorious land of ours that we will ere long be a united, happy and prosperous people. At least I express my earnest wishes and desires. With the first of January next I surrender the paper to the proprietor, J. E. Boggs, Esq., with my best wishes of continued success and prosperity.

At present I do not feel that I will ever return to the journalistic field, because I propose to stick my first bush—the practice of law—to which I will hereafter devote my whole time and energies.

My relation with the brethren of the press has been very pleasant, though I have had several little tilts with some of them over the Reform persuasion, for which I hope they will in due time repent. In thanking my friends and patrons for their party support and many other kindnesses and wishing everybody a happy prosperous and future prosperity, as editor of the SENTINEL, I write finis.

Respectfully,

CHARLES E. ROBINSON.

PUBLIC PRINTING.

The Refawm Legislature has greatly reversed the motto: "Equal rights to all and special privileges to none." They make it read: Equal rights to the reformers and special privileges to the faithful coat-tail swingers. The great anti monopoly administration not content in monopolizing the whiskey trafic makes a still further corner on public printing. Heretofore the law has been to advertise for bids for the public printing so as to give every printing office in the State a chance to bid for it and to secure for the tax payers the benefit of competition. It was just like the law which authorizes the County Commissioners to let the building of bridges to the lowest responsible bidder. But the Refawm Legislature steps in and says this is not right and at once passes a law which gives all the public printing to the Columbia Register people at a rate which will cause the tax-payers of the State to pay several thousand dollars more than they would under the old law. It shuts out competition entirely and makes a monopoly of the State printing for the benefit of the Register. Reform comes high but let us have it.

In this connection it would be very timely if the Greenville Democrat reprint its editorial of last week and insert instead of city council the State of South Carolina or rather the Legislature and instead of the Greenville News put Columbia Register. The Democrat, like other Reform organs, is submissively mum when pap-suckers are involved.

DISPENSARY PUDDLE.

Constables L. S. Gaillard, C. B. Swan, R. H. Pepper and C. B. McDonald, of the dispensary force are in the soup. They entered the store of Annit Cantini in Charleston on the 3d of October last and searched for liquor, which they failed to find. On the same day they entered his residence and premises, with threats of violence, and carried away a number of bottles of wine, the private property of the plaintiff, not offered for sale and imported before the passage of the dispensary law.

The [illegible] was absent at the time and was frightened and from the fright suffered a miscarriage. Upon reading the complaint Judge Simonton issued the following order:

"It appearing to me by the affidavits of A. Cantini and Ellen, his wife, and Barney Geraty, and by the affidavits of W. F. Jordan, Doctor Lane and Mullaly and by verified complaints in this action that a sufficient cause of action exists in favor of the above named plaintiff, against the above defendants, and the cause mentioned in the code is civic procedure, and that the action for the recovery of damages in a cause for action for an injury to person and for wrongly taking, detaining and converting property, and the plaintiff giving the undertaking required by law, you are required to forwith arrest L. S. Gaillard, C. B. Swan, R. H. Pepper and C. B. McDonald, the said defendants in this action, and hold each of them to bail in the sum of $5,000, and return this order with your proceedings by law."

Comptroller-General Eberbee has issued a circular letter of instructions to county auditors in which he calls to their attention, and urges upon them as their duty, the importance of having all property returned at its true market value—not at 66⅔ cents of its value—and he also calls to the attention of auditors the fact that millions of dollars worth in credits, such as bonds, mortgages, notes, accounts, cash, etc., are not enrolled on the tax books.

If this is done we look for some high kicking. But when we remember that this is a reform administration, that they want all the money they can get to pay lawyer fees, that the railroads and other corporations are assessed their full value, we cannot object to other property being put on an equal footing. Let us have equal taxation. Return everything at just what the owner would take cash for it.

Reform! Reform! Reform! Let us have Reform!

President Cleveland continues to do the right thing. The Tillman administration punished Charleston by putting her in the Black district because Congressman Brawley beat J. William Stokes for Congress and because the City would not bow the knee to Baal. The President comes in, however, and does the Democratic act by appointing Maj. Brawley to be U. S. District Judge for South Carolina to succeed Judge Simonton who was appointed circuit judge in Judge Bond's place.

Congressman Brawley's term does not expire until March 1895, but he will have to resign in order to begin his duties as judge and an election will be held to elect his successor to fill out his unexpired term. Judge Izlar has been named as his probable successor and the voters of that district would do themselves honor and the State credit by electing him.

If nothing happens the people will soon get a dose of the present administration. The new county government bill is just the thing to give it to them. It provides for one supervisor who is to take the three County Commissioners. Then in each township this supervisor appoints three men who are to look after the roads and bridges, have control of the overseers and many other things and get no pay whatever. There is no law to compel any man to work for nothing and we do not believe that there will be many men in this State who will be willing to serve in this capacity without remuneration. The Supervisor will expect his subs to do all the work. Its a daisy.

We wish the Legislature while they have the Reform ball in motion would pass a law to have the blue ridge mountains moved out of the way so we can have an easy passage into North Carolina. It's hard on the apple and cabbage wagons every fall to have to contend with such outrageous hills as we have got. Give us Reform.

Washington Letter.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D C., Dec. 24, 1893.

Secretary Carlisle proved himself during his long service in Congress to be one of the ablest legislators the country has produced, and his annual report, submitted to Congress this week, places him in the front rank of national financiers. Even a cursory glance over his report, which makes a pamphlet of sixty-two pages, will show the enormous amount of study ing he was compelled to do in order to familiarize himself with the more or less complicated subjects with which it deals. He strongly commends the Wilson tariff bill and puts forward strong arguments to show that it will greatly benefit the country and reminds the majority of the House that it was especially elected to reform the tariff. He shows the financial condition condition to be such that immediate relief by congressional legislation is necessary and points out that this may be by authorizing the issue of five year 3 per cent bonds, or by authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to use a 3 per cent note to run one year, to pay those creditors of the government who may elect to receive them in lieu of cash.

The predominating trait in the character of President Cleveland is his manliness in assuming responsibility for all his acts. And it was brought prominently to the front when he sent for some of his friends in the Senate and House, while the republicans were engaged in trying to make political capital in both bodies by distorting the facts concerning his Hawaiian policy, and told them that it was his desire that the democrats should place no obstacles in the way of the fullest investigation of the whole matter. The reason the republicans were so anxious to get in their speeches before the recess was their fear that the whole business will be entirely settled before congress meets again.
