And the children to fix away
To school, and the milk to be skimmed and churned, And all to be done that day.

It had rained in the night, and all the wood ... Was wetus it could be:
And there was pudding and pies to bake,
Beeides a loaf of cake for ten.

The day was hot, and her aching head
Throbbed wearily as she said—
"If maidens but knew what good wives know They would be in no hurry to wed."

"Jennie, what do you think I told Ben Brown?" Called the farmer from the we'l; And a flash crept up his bronzed brow, And his eye half bashfully fell, "It was this," he said, and coming near, He smiled, and stooping down, Kissed her cheek-"twas this, that you the best And the dearest wife in town!"

The farmer went back to the field, and the wife, In a smiling and absent way. Sang snatches of tender little songs She'd not sung for many a day.

And the pain in her head was gone, and the clothes

Were white as the foam in the sea; Her bread was light, and her butter was sweet,

And golden as it could be. "Just think," the children all called in a breath, "Tom Wood has run off to sea! He wouldn't, I know, if he only had

As happy a home as we."

The night came down, and the good wife smiled To herself, as she softly said: "Tis sweet to labor for those we love.

Tis not strange that maids will wed!"
