Exuberant Health Is a blessing vouchsafed to few. Even those who have been favored by nature with strong constitutions and vigorous frames are apt to neglect the precautions necessary to preserve these precious endowments. Indeed as a rule, the more healthy and robust a man is, the more liberties he is inclined to take with his own physique. It is some consolation to the naturally weak and feeble to know that they can be so invigorated and built up, by a proper use of the means which science has placed at their disposal, as to have a much etter chance of long life, and exemptions from disease and pain, than the most athletic of their fellows who are foolish enough to suppose themelves invulnerable, and act accordingly. It is not too much to say that more than half he people of the civilized world need an occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, upaxciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy millions, and they have the article in Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It is a medicine, i. e. it imparts permanent strength to weak hyproms and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have stendily increased. Competitive Upreharations have been introdued ad libitum, andas far as the public is concerned, ad nauscum, in the hope of rivaling it; but they have all either perished in the a lempt, or been left far in the rear. It has been the great medical success of the present contury, and it is quite certain that no proprietary medicine in this country is as widely known, or as generally used.

Ten lightning presses, running incessantly (Sundays excepted,) the whole year through, barely supply the demand for the Illustrated Almanac, in which the nature and uses of the preparation are set forth, the circulation nov being over eight millions a year. ... sti wi
