A Juror Challenged Because a Confederate.

The animus of this Corbin presecution of his political opponents in the Ellenton riots, was manifested yesterday in his challenging Major Hutson Lee as a juryman, on the ground that he was in the Confederate army. We have seen different courts of the United States, sitting in the South, and have noted the organization of the juries, but we have not observed the sold. the juries, but we have not observed the challenge of jurymen on such a pretext before.— There are some men with whom the war will never be over—to whom peace would be a misfortune. The warfare of peace, co-called, carried on through the halls of legislation and the courts of law, backed by officers and soldiers, is their hearts desire—a warfare still rife and attractive. Spoils and honors are sought with less risk and more comfort to such warriors against a defeated and down-trodden people. The rooted sentiment of their aspiring souls is we witted.

It seems that while the war was going on, June 17, 1862, an act was passed in Washington making it a cause of disqualification and challenge in the courts of the United States for grand and petit jurors to have adhered to the Confederate cause, or have given aid and comfort, directly or indirectly, to any engaged in it. And this act, adopted during active hostilities, is now trumped up to preclude men of the South from serving on juries in a United States Court twelve years after the cessation of the war, when every-body has been accorded amnesty and disabilities have otherwise been all removed. As a matter of curiosity as well as profound indignation, we produce from the Revised Statutes the passage on which Major Lee was yesterday deemed disqualified to serve:
"Sec. 820. The following shall be causes of disqualification and challenge of grand and petit jurors in the courts of the United States: With-out duress or coercion to have taken up arms or to have joined in any insurrectian or rebellion, giving it aid and comfort; to have given, directly or indirectly, any assistance in money, arms, clothes, or anything whatever, to or for the use or benefit of any person whom the giver of such assistance knew to have joined, or to be about to join, any insurrection or rebellion, or to have resisted, or to be about to resist, with force of arms, the execution of the laws of the United er Sewing Machine Company were the first to take the lead in the reduction of the price, and on day before yesterday telegraphed Mr. James Miller, their agent in this city, to lower the scale of prices. The Singer Machine which for-merly sold for sixty-five dollars, can now be tates; or to have counseled or advised any peron to join any insurrection or rebellion, or to esist with force of arms the laws of the United

"Sec. 821. At every term of any Court of the United States, the District Attorney, or oth-er person acting on behalf of the United States in said Court, in their discretion, may require the Clerk to tender to every person summoned to serve as a petit juror, or venireman or tales-man in said Court, the following oath or affirma-tion, etc.: That you have not, without duress and constraint taken up arms, etc."-Journal of

WHY FARMING DOES NOT PAY.—The reason why so many men fail to make farming a success is simply because they fail to make it a business. They at once conclude that farming doesn't pay, and then ge to work in such a way as to utterly exclude the possibility of its ever paying. 's a rule, the successful merchant follows no other pursuit but that of his trade.— The lawyer or physician who attains to eminence in his profession devotes his time, energies and talent to that profession. Not only does this theory hold true of all other branches of business, but it holds true of farming. The successful farmer does nothing for a livelihood but farm. If he has money to invest he should invest it to improve his farm. He should inform himself as to his business, and go to work in an intelligent manner. Upon such farms weeds do not stand as high as a man's head; nor are fences neglected, buildings dilai idated, farming implements left exposed to the weather, and stock unsheltered and uncared for, but everything denotes thrift and enterprise. It is really painful as we go around the country and observe the number of neglectel farms. Pigs, geese and cattle are allowed almost unlimited range.— Weeds render the door yard, the orchard and meadows unsightly. The good wife, in addition to her household cares, must milk the cows, feed the pigs, and do the chores generally. But where is the owner? Where and how does he spend his time? He is access the saw here. spend his time? He is across the way, hanging on his neighbor's fence, talking politics; or is in the nearest store or blacksmith shop talking gossip. Perhaps he is inspired with a desire to some money and is out huckstering, or, what is less laudable, selling a patent right that may be useful or not, just as it happens; but while he is earning a few dollars away from home, many dollars are being lost at home, beeause it is time to do spring planting, summer harvesting, or fall sowing. Thus the years are passed, and sympathizing ones remark, "he is a clever man, but somehow don't get along in the world;" and all because he owns a farm, has a business, and yet fails to attend to it .-Cincinnati Grange Bulletin.

following is a copy of the bill of fare for dinner, made out by his own hand on the morning of his execution. The sheriff supplied every article: A Home Paren.—An exchange says, we like see a man refuse to take his local paper, and all the time sponge on his neighbor the reading one fruit pudding, one large pound cake, and of it. We like to hear a man complain when we ask him to subscribe for his home paper, that he I wish prepared for my dinner on the 27th day of April, A. D. 1877." takes more papers than he reads now, and then go around and borrow his neighbor's or loaf about him until he gets the news from it. We like to see a man run down his home paper as not worth taking, and every now and then beg the editor for a favor in the editorial line. We like to see a merchant refuse to advertise in a to greater prosperity than ever before. While property in other States is depreciating, Florida home paper, and then try to get a share of trade which papers bring to town. But, above all things, we like to see a rich, miserly man, who cannot pay for his local paper always manage to he around in time to read the paper, at the ex-pense of a friend not worth the tenth part of hat he himself is. It looks so economical, thrifty and progressive, you know.

EDUCATIONAL FACILITIES. - We are glad to see that our Legislature is moving to have a thor-oughly digested scheme for the higher education of the youth of the State. This is a subject of great interest among the colored people, as well as the white, and they are watching anxiously to see what we will do in fulfillment of the promises held out during the political campaign of last summer. It is for us to show that we do not intend to have the funds for education pocketed as perquisites by official thieves, and mean to secure every practicable advantage to those who can use the opportunities. Perma-nent and well organized institutions are needed and will we trust be instituted next winter .-Journal of Commerce.

WHY THEY ARE BRUSHING UP GIBBALTAR .-The present strengthening of Gibraltar means that England does not intend to be "caught napping," and that the government does not know how soon this matchless citadel may be needed as a base of active operations in the Mediterra-nean and the further east. Louis XIV threat-ened to turn the tideless sea into "a French Jake;" Alexander, if he had the opportunity, would gladly make it a Russian lake; but as long as England holds Gibralter—the key of the Western door—the Mediterranean is, to all in-Western door—the Mediterranean is, to all in-tents and purposes, an English lake. And Eng-land will keep that key while she has a man and a musket to defend it.

SUDDEN DEATH .- Colonel J. H. Vandike was Sudden Death.—Colonel J. H. Vandike was found dead in the road near Crawfordsville, one mile and a half from his residence, on Sunday Inst about twelve o'clock. He had been that morning sisiting Ms. Turbyfill at the residence of Mrs. Bivings, and left there apparentle in good health shout eleven o'clock on horselviding in the direction of Crawfordville. Dr. A. J. Nesbitt, the family physician of the deceased, made a post mortem examination, giving as his opinion that his death was caused by appendixy, stating that he had been previously threatened with that disease.—Spartanburg Herald.
