"PAY WHAT THOU OWEST."

Is a solemn scriptural injunction, but with all reverence we say, this is a time when a large majority of the people, in this section, at least, cannot comply with it; but we think there are but few if any who cannot pay at least one-half of what they owe us.

We are scarcely muster up enough hard-ness of heart to dun our patrons, but it has to be done. We must raise a considerable sum of money between now and the middle of January, and we have no other way of getting it than through those who owe us for subscription, advertising and job work. It is hard times, we know, but we must pay our debts or be paid by the board, when one-half of what is due would set us up all right and leave a balance of one or two in our pocket which is more than can be found there now. Pay this Editor what thou owest.

The Bank of Greenville, Mississippi, suspended on the 22d Dec. It was considered the soundest Bank in the State, and its failure caused universal surprise.

We are told that a blue streak of sulphurous utterances was plainly visible in the Governor's office, when the Legislature refused to pass the Railroad bill, the night before that body adjourned. It was a pet measure of the Governor's.

The Legislature adjourned on Thursday, the 24th, and we are told that one or two of the Columbia Banks were kept open to a late hour the night before, cashing the members' checks for services at $5 a day.

Popkin Chewing Gum, for Dyspepsia. Something new. For sale at H. F. SCAIFE & SONS.

The Grippe is prostrating a number of our citizens. For nearly a week they have been standing at their cases when they should be in their beds, under medical treatment; but they are bravely battling with the disease, at their desks of business, doing all they can to get out a paper of some kind, this week, to give the consecutive number of issues necessary to make the Master's and Sheriff's sales.

They have had a sad, sick Christmas, but we hope they will be paid for their devotion to duty by a bright and happy year in 1892. They deserve a pension.

Mr. George W. Barnett, a farmer living about four miles from here, came very near being killed last Saturday by an accidental discharge of a gun in the hands of Bob Mitchell, a colored man, while out hunting.

It appears that Mitchell had joined a party of white gentlemen on a hunt, and when near a swamp he attempted to shoot a rabbit, but his gun hung fire, and in taking it from his shoulder it went off, the load striking Mr. Barnett, who was not seen by Mitchell. Many of the shot struck Mr. Barnett in the pit of the stomach, some struck him in the arm and one struck him just below the left eye. Mr. Barnett was taken home and has not been out of bed since, but is getting better, and it is not thought that the wounds will cause any serious results. Had the shot been larger the wound in the stomach would, no doubt, have proved fatal.

Death of Mrs. Hattie Miller.
Mrs. Hattie Miller, wife of Rev. W. H. Miller, died at her residence in this town, last Sunday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, after a painful illness of about three weeks, from rheumatism of the heart, superinduced by a severe attack of influenza, or grippe.

Mrs. Miller was emphatically a working member of the Methodist Episcopal church, and in her death the church in this town has lost its most earnest, constant, influential and consistent member. Truly it can be said of her, "a mother in Israel" has been taken from our midst. Her religion was of the heart—pure, lowly and humble—without show or ostentation, and always lovingly flowing from her to those around her, in tender admonition and pious precept and example. Surely her pure spirit is now "safe in the arms of Jesus."

She leaves a devoted husband and two interesting children—a girl and a boy—to feel and mourn the loss of a true and loving Christian wife and mother, while all the people of this community join in their sorrow and extend to them their tenderest sympathies.

Killing of Robert C. Bishop.

About 9 o'clock last Monday night, a difficulty occurred between Thos. A. Murrah, and Robert C. Bishop, both white men of this town, in which Murrah shot and killed Bishop.

Coroner Gregory empaneled a jury, and an inquest was held the next morning, and the following is a synopsis of the testimony adduced:

The testimony of Elias Bomar, co'rol, was that Bishop and Murrah were in his store, and the first thing he knew of any difficulty between them was, he saw Bishop with a long sharp-pointed butcher knife cutting at Murrah. The men were parted and Murrah was put out of the back door and Bishop out of the front door. In a short time Murrah came back and shot Bishop; the ball entering just above the nipple. Both men seemed to be intoxicated. Heard no threats from either man during the difficulty. As the pistol fired the men clinched, and both went into the front door, where Bishop fell and died in ten or fifteen minutes.

Warren Slou, colored, was in Bomar's store when the difficulty commenced. Murrah and others were talking when Bishop came in, Murrah told Bishop that he had cursed him during the day, and said, "Bishop, you have been in the penitentiary and worked like a d—n nigger." At that Bishop caught Murrah and jerked him about the store with a knife in his hand and cutting at Murrah. I caught Bishop's hand as it was raised to cut Murrah. Charles Jones took him by the other hand. We got them apart and put them out of the store. Bishop soon came back cursing Murrah, threatening to kill him, waving his knife. As I was turning to the counter to get my change from Mr. Bomar, Murrah jumped into the store and shot Bishop. The men then clinched and went scuffling out of the front door where Bishop fell. Murrah then called for the police, saying, "I have killed the d—n s—n of a b—h." It was ten or fifteen minutes from the time the men were first put out until Murrah returned and shot Bishop.

The verdict of the jury was: That Robert C. Bishop came to his death from a gunshot wound, inflicted at the hands of T. A. Murrah.

Bishop was a desperate and dangerous man when under the influence of liquor. He killed the Marshal of Gaffney City, at Blacks, some years ago, and served three years in the Penitentiary for that crime. His violent death was not a surprise to many who knew him; and has been, sooner or later, the fate of all such desperate characters that we have known. Murrah is in jail, and will apply to Judge Wallace for release on bail, under a writ of habeas corpus.

For the Times.

Mr. Editor: We are enjoying Christmas holidays, but must say they are duller than usual. I will not say anything about the hard times as they have been enough already, but I will say something about the future, and what I think will be the result if certain things take place.

Some time ago the people of Union County voted to subscribe $150,000 to the Spartanburg and Asheville Railroad. A meeting was held, and the subscription was held, and there has been some calculation of that it is costing the taxpayers of Union county. I have calculated the interest at 50 per cent per annum, compounded, and find at the end of the fifteen years, we have paid in round numbers ($21,000) three hundred and thirty-one thousand and nine dollars, and we will have paid at the end of twenty years, when the bonds will be due, in round numbers, ($597,122) five hundred and ninety-seven thousand, one hundred and ninety-two dollars and will not be a cent of those bonds paid—his amount being only the interest on them compounded.

Now, if the Treasurer of Union County, at the end of twenty years, had this amount on hand the County could build a splendid cotton mill, at Union or some other point in the County, but, alas, it is gone forever. I also calculated the interest on the bonds up to forty years, and since the whole amount ($4,189,558) four million one hundred and eighty-nine thousand five hundred and fifty-eight dollars, which, equally divided among the ten townships, would be $418,955, to each township, enough to build a good cotton mill in each township, or build a Railroad from Union or some other point to Lookhart Shoals, or build the largest cotton mill in the South. Tax payers of Union, read these figures and think for yourselves. It is no wonder taxes are high in Union; and to add more burdens on the tax-payers of Union, some interested parties are getting up a boom for a branch railroad from Jonesville to Lookhart Shoals, and asking the taxpayers of Pinckney and Jonesville townships, each to subscribe twenty thousand dollars to help build it. Of course they don't expect that Jonesville will vote the tax, but they are hoping that Pinckney will.

To the tax payers of the townships of Pinckney and Jonesville, I say, vote this tax on yourselves, then my advice to you all will be to sell out as soon as possible, for in a short time if the Sheriff does not sell your property the treasurer will. I know it will raise the value of lands near the Shoals, but are all the rest of the townships to pay tribute to a few who happen to live near the Shoals?

But they tell us it will raise the price of cotton. Well, if it was to do so it is more than the mills in Spartanburg have done, unless it was at certain times. Last Winter I hauled cotton to Union and got the bayers to bid on it. They offered me only 83 cents for the best grade. I shipped it to Charleston and got 95 cents, a clear profit of over one cent per pound above what was offered right here at the mill.

No, my friends, local mills can't pay a high price for cotton. The price is set by the market, and the price is set by the market, and the price is set by the market.

When the patronage we have received has, with close economy, barely enabled us to "keep our heads above water," leaving no surplus, we will not complain, for we are consoled with the belief that a better and able man could not have found truer or more generous friends than we have, with all our imperfections and shortcomings. FIGURES THAT WISLED.

EX-SAYE TREASURER, E. R. McIVER, CO-RECORDS GOV. TILLMAN'S FIGURES.

To the Editor of The State: Is an official document read to the Legislature on the 24th instant. I find the following statement, viz: The following is a comparative statement between 1890 and 1891 as to cash on hand: 1890. Cash balance October 31, $1,000,000.00. Outstanding warrants, 41,802.82. Net cash balance, $958,197.18. Received money, 50,500.00. Overdrawn on banks, 22,800.00. Due by State October 31, $73,200.00. Less cash, 38,141.11. Leaving net debt, October 31, 1890, $35,058.89. Cash on hand October 31, 1891, $64,616.02. Less outstanding warrants, 16,250.88. Net balance, $48,365.14. Add balance paid for 1890, $7,158.89. Difference in favor of 1891, $55,524.03.

I have carefully examined the State Treasurer's report for year ending October 31, 1891, and I have been unable to find any entry to show that he paid overdrafts amounting to $22,800. I am therefore correct in asserting that no such debt contracted by the previous Administration was paid out of the receipts of the treasury during the fiscal year ending October 31, 1891. Deducting the $22,800 mentioned from the difference in favor of 1891, which is $87,523.08, we find the result, $64,723.08.

Now, it is well known that the South Carolina Railway did not pay any part of its taxes that were due from 15th October, 1889, to February 1, 1890, but that said taxes were paid after the session of the Legislature in December 1890, under a joint resolution authorizing the several county treasurers to receive same, with interest added. These taxes amounted to $17,719.59, without interest, and should rightfully be deducted from the balance as above—$64,723.08 less $17,719.59=$47,003.49, which is all the difference that can justly be claimed in favor of the fiscal year ending October 31, 1891.

On page 24 the treasurer's report for the year ending October 31, 1891, he enters $21,427.88 as received for back taxes, which, I suppose, covers the amount received from the Carolina railway for past due taxes, with interest added.

Thus there is a discrepancy of about $40,000 between the statement of the document mentioned above and the official report of the State treasurer, which I will not attempt to explain, nor will I make any comment thereon, but leave your readers to form their own conclusions.

It is said that comparisons are odious, but I fear neither comparisons nor investigations honestly conducted of my management of the office of State treasurer, feeling sure that the State treasury will not be had the honor to be associated with not suffer thereby.

E. R. McIVER, Ex-State Treasurer of South Carolina, Palmetto, S. C., November 26.

DR. BATES INTERVIEWED.—A representative of The State called on State Treasurer Bates last night and asked him for a statement concerning the card from Col. E. R. McIver on the subject of the Governor's message, which appears above.

Dr. Bates said that the figures used by Governor Tillman, and quoted by Col. McIver, form no part of his (the treasurer's) report, and that he was in no way connected with them.

"The table," continued Dr. Bates, "must have crept into the Governor's message by some mistake, as the figures never appear on my books." He said that the figures recently printed in the papers, and that it had most probably come from the comptroller general's office, being given out prematurely.

When asked if the figures were correct, the treasurer replied that he would prefer not to express an opinion.

JENNIE AND HER LITTLE SLIPPER.—Miss Jennie Eveline Foster, of No. 217 Division Avenue, Brooklyn, has achieved distinction as a young woman who first used a slipper on her father, James Anson Foster, because, she caught him, so she alleges, beating her mother, and her father, and she was afterwards fined for resisting the slipper strokes by striking her. Miss Foster is a large-eyed, ruddy-lipped brunette of stately form and fashionable attire. Her home is in one of the best residential sections of the eastern district and the family motto is good cheer.

She is about twenty years old. According to Miss Foster's story, told in the Lee avenue police court yesterday, she and her younger sister were asleep in their room at 1 o'clock yesterday morning, when they were awakened by an uproar in her mother's room. The youngest girl said in a terrified whisper: "It's father come home drunk and beating mother."

"I'll soon stop that," said Miss Jennie, and slipping lightly from the bed she stooped to pick up her slipper and threw it at the door. A moment later a tall white robed girl, slipper in her hand, entered her mother's room and saw, she says her father, James Anson Foster, beating his wife.

Without a word of warning the girl sprang at her father, twisted his head under her left arm and then, with three administered clivestment of a nature which must have made him feel that childhood's happy days, with all their tingling memories, had come again, for the slipper was plied vigorously and the head with every stroke left an impression. Foster broke away from the angry girl as soon as he could. Then, she says, he struck her, and then she renewed the attack on him he rushed downstairs to get a carving knife, as the only suitable weapon with which to defend himself. When he returned the younger sister had also entered the room and in the ensuing melee, it is said, she too was struck by her father, who, however, was soon disarmed and subdued by his athletic daughters.—New York World.

ONE OF MISSISSIPPI'S SOUDEST BANKS BROKE.—Vicksburg, Dec. 23.—The Bank of Greenville, Miss., has suspended. The first intimation of suspension was the following notice posted on the door of the bank: "Closed by order of the chancery court of Washington county. Bank in the hands of a receiver."

THE LEGISLATURE'S ONE LAUDABLE ACT.—The only laudable act of general importance passed by the Legislature is the anti-free pass bill. This was a bitter pill to swallow, but Mr. Woodward in the Senate and Mr. Haskell in the House forced it down their throats. We have had Democratic Legislatures to do very little, but this is the first time that we have ever had a Democratic Legislature to do almost a thing, and the little that is done tending to injure the State.—Darlington News.

THE "MAILED HAND" LOSES ITS GRIP.—Tillman has not presented the Legislature to such a degree this year and very few of the measures which he recommended in his message have become laws. What does this forebode? A year ago it would have been considered treason for any of his followers to have refused to obey his orders. It begins to look as though something else is going to take the place of Tillmanism next Fall.—Cherokee Reporter.

REDUCING ADVANCES TO FARMERS.—Savannah, Ga., Dec. 23.—Cotton factors here and elsewhere in the South have practically determined to reduce advances to planters in the coming spring, and in this way force down the production of cotton. They regard it as absolutely ruinous for the South to have another such enormous crop as those of this and last year. Concerted action may be taken to this end.

The Spartanburg Herald, says: "The junior Senator from South Carolina has not yet learned the ropes. Of the whole number of United States Senators who answered the New York Herald's questions as to their attitude towards free silver, Senator Irby alone answered by his private secretary." NOTS VERNON'S QUE NOTS VERNON'S.—We have that the Senator's bill will be allowed to vote. If they are not permitted to cast their ballots at the primaries there will be the biggest rumpus and the biggest split in South Carolina that we have ever yet seen. The attitude towards free silver is not carrying everything before them either.—Alliance Monitor.
