The Smack in School.

A district school, not far away, 'Mid Berkshire hills, one winter day Was humming with its wonted noise Of three score mingled girls and boys; Some few upon their tasks intent, But more on furtive mischief bent The while the master's downward look Was fastened on a copy-book. Rose sharp and clear, behind his back, A rustling, rousing, cracking smack, As 'twere a battery of bliss Let off in one tremendous kiss, "What's that?" the startled master cries "That, thir," a little imp replies, "Wath William Willith, if you pleathe, I thaw him kith Thuthannah Peathe!" With frown to make a statue thrill, The master thundered "Hither, Will?" Like a wretch taken in his track, With stolen chattels on his back, Will, to the awful presence came-A great, green, bashful simpleton, The butt of all good-natured fun. With smile suppressed and birch upraised, That you, my biggest pupil should Be guilty of an act so rude! Before the whole set school, to boot; What evil genius put you to 't?" "Twas she herself, sir?" sobbed the lad "I did not mean to be so bad; But when Susannah shook her curls, And whispered I was 'fraid of girls, And dursent kiss a baby's doll, thought she kind o' wished me to!" The Wrong Bed.

ow-boo, hoo-I ought to not;

But somehow, from her looks-boo, hoo

I couldn't stand it, sir, at all,

But up and kissed her on the spot,

At a late hour Tuesday night quite a bridal party arrived in the city and put up at one of our hotels. The bride was accompanied by two of her young lady friends and the groom by two gentlemen. The names were registered in the usual way, but in some way a mistake was made in reference in the identity of the bride. The hours sped on toward the dawn and the bride in her silent chamber waited the appearance of her lord. Yet he came not. Surely, he was not sitting up all this time. The rest of the party had retired she was c rtain, since she had heard them in their apartments.

What had become of him. Impatience gradually grew into terror. She rang her bell, and the servant knocked at the door

"Do you know where my husband is?" she inquired.

"Aint he in here, mam ?"

"No?"

"Maybe he stepped out into the city, mam, and will be back directly." "I'm afraid; oh, do inquire at the office, and see if there is any intelligence about him."

The servant retired, and in a few moments returned with information that there was none. The wife was now alarmed in earnest. She never had a husband before, and like the man who drew the elephant in the lottery, scarcely knew what to do with the animal.

In her anxiety she went to the room of one of her bridesmaid's and knocked at the door.

"Who's there?" was inquired in accents unmistakably masculine.

"Me, Mary; but mercy, who are you ?"

There was a sudden stir and the sound of feet falling heavily on the carpeted

"Who the Jevil am I in bed with, then?" she heard the man say, as the door swung open and her husband's face peered out.

"Oh! I'm distracted about you; where have you been?"

"I've been here in bed; but, dense take me, I thought you were here, too." "Oh! James, it wasn't me."

"Who is it, then?" "Why it's Sarah."

"The devil."

"Oh! no, James, it was Sarah. Didn't you know it, James ?"

THE ORANGEBURG NEWS I crept into bed and went to sleep," replied James, evidently impressed with the idea, that he had a difficult case to "Is she asleep yet James?"

"Why don't you hear her snore?" But just then Sarah waked up, and seeing a man in her room set up a succession of screeches that soon filled the hall with people.

And now the bridegroom found himself in a delicate position. In the hurry of explaining the matter to his wife, he had neglected to put on his pants; and now in his eager search for them he was dancing around the room like one possessed; now and then imploring Sarah

"I'm going, Jon't you see!" (But Sarah was seeing too much, and she wouldn't hush; and the wife in the hall, hemmed in by the eager crowd, had tried to explain; but failing in this, had leaned her head against the wall and was enjoying a hearty cry.

At last however, the pants were found and put on, and the husband and wife escaped to their chamber, whilst Miss Sarah double-locked her door against all further intrusion. The next morning explanations were gone into, but there's no use denying that both the ladies were the least bit incredulous, and it is said a perceptible coldness has grown up between them, whilst the unintentionally offending bridegroom walks about a good deal, his head down, and evidently indulging in unpleasant meditations.

A PORCINE JOKE .- Mr. Sayre, of Lexington, Ky., lisps a little, and a good and potatoes; keep your conscience clear, story is told of him, the better for its truth. Some years since an overseer of one of his farms told him he needed some hogs on his place. Says Mr.

thouthand pigth right away, and put them on the farm."

The man, accustomed to obey, and that without questioning, asked:

"Shall I take the money with me to purchase with?" "No thir! They all know me. Thend them here-I'll pay for them, or give you the money to pay when you get them." The overseer went his way, and in conversation took place : "Well, Mr. Sayre, 1 can't get that many pigs. I have ridden over the country, all about and can buy but between eight and nine hundred." "Eight or nine hundred what?"

"Eight or nine hundred pigs." "Eight or nine hundred pigth! Who told you to buy that many pigth? Are you a fool ?" "You told me to buy them two weeks since. I have tried to do it."

"Eight or nine hundred pigth! I never told you any thucth thing." "But you did-you told me to go and buy four or five thousand pigs." "I didn't do no thucth thing ! I told you to go and buy four or five thows and their little pigth, and you have done it I should think."

Mr. Sayre had pork to sell the next

BRICK PCMEROY ON DEMOCRATIC CORRUPTION .- "If buying and selling. if fraud and corruption, if double-dealing and trickery, dishonesty and a love for gain, is to mark the course of the leading Democrats of New York, I just ask God to spare my life for the next two years. I shall not go up into the buying and selling business, but if the Democratic office holders, elected by the people, who stand by me as they do, ignore the one who has stood by them, and insult the people by urging them to support an organ in the pay and interests of the people's enemies, then may I rot in the earth, be damned in the hereafter, if I don't warm it to the ones who thus by their own signatures, and by autograph letters, indorse corruption. If forced to it, I can sit down to my desk, mix sarcasm, satire, potash, invective, thunder and lightning, with a little argument and illustration, in such manner as to make the Democrat interesting, if not profitable." PLANTERS BE WARNED .- The Columbus (Ga.) Enquirer says: The last monthly report of the Department of Agriculture contains some facts that should be a warning to our planters not to neglect the raising of corn and pork and depend on buying meat with the proceeds of their cotton. The statistics called show a marked reduction in the number of hogs in the great pork producing regions. In a large portion of the Ohio Valley, the reduction is reported at 15 per cent. and prices have increased 35 to 50 per cent, in consequence of this ascertained deficiency. There is every prospect that meat will be high next Winter, and should cotton then bring less than 20 cents (of which there is strong probability,) the farmer who sells cotton will count his gain by

The Ladoga (Indiana) Herald says:-There lives near Billville, Hendricks county, a peculiar family-three boys and three girls. The oldest girl is about twenty-four years old, weighs about two hundred pounds, is a very intelligent lady, but we noticed one peculiar feature not common among the fair sex. She had a heavy beard (minus the mustache), which is about two inches long and of auburn color. The beard on the chin of the lady is the heaviest. We did not perceive any on her throat, nothing but regular side and chin whiskers. We were informed that her beard has grown more rapidly during the past year. The next girl is seventeen years old, born blind, and is an idiot; the next is a girl fourteen years old, born blind. The three boys are all intelligent young men. The parent of this family is one of the wealthiest men in Hendricks county.

GOLDEN ADVICE .- About three years ago, a young man presented himself to Mr. Corwin for a clerkship. Thrice was he refused, and still he made a fourth attempt. His perseverance and spirit of determination awakened a friendly interest in his welfare, and the secretary advised him in the strongest possible manner to abandon his purpose and go to the West, if he could do no better outside the departments.

"My young friend," said he, "go to the North-West, buy 160 acres of government land-or, if you have not the money to purchase, squat on it; get you an ax or mattock, put up a log-cabin for your habitation, and raise a little corn and live like a freeman, your own master, with no one to give you orders, and without dependence on any body. Do that, and you will be honored, respected. influential, and rich. But accept a clerk-"Very well, go and buy four or five ship here, and you sink at once all independence; your energies become relaxed, and you are unfitted in a few years for any other or more independent position. I may give you a place to-day and I can kick you out to-morrow; and there's another man over there at the White House who can kick me out, and so we go. But if you own an acre of land, it is your kingdom, and your cabin is your castle. You are a sovereign, and you will feel it in every throbbing two weeks returned, when the following of your pulse, and every day of life will assure me of your thanks for having thus advised you."

If the thousands who ardently strive for places under government would ponder well these words, and execise a sound discretion in their application, many a young and gallant spirit would be saved from inanimation, and it would be source of joy rather than a grief to its poss ssor.

Honesty .- An instance of the finding of money was told to us a few days ago. A lad named Johnny Black, twelve years old, picked up on the street pocket-book containing evidently a large amount of money. He put it in his pocket and turned back to walk in in opposite direction to that in which he was going when he found the pocketbook, in expectation of meeting the loser on the hunt for it. He had gone but a block when, sure enough, he met a man very excitedly searching the pavement, and walking quite hurriedly. Johnny went up to him and touched him. "Have you lost any thing, sir?"

"What was it ?"

"A pocket-book with a large amount of money in it." "Come in here with me "

And the two walked into a store where, in the presence of the proprietor. he man named the amount of money and gave a list of papers contained in the pocket-book Johnny had found. It contained $16,000 in bills, the amount named by the stranger, and all the papers he had mentioned; when the little fellow, without any apparent emotion, handed the stranger the pocket-book with its contents.

"Now," said the stranger, "you come with me!"

And he took Johnny to a clothingstore, and fitted him out with a nice warm suit of clothes; thence to a boot and shoe-store, where his pedal extremities were adorned with an elegant pair of calf-skin boots; then to a jeweler's they went, and the boy was presented with a fine gold watch and chain, the former bearing the inscription, "Presented to John Black (aged 12) for his ionesty in returning a lost pocket-book entaining $16,000. By the Loser.

Will not Johnny be happier and beter all his life, than if he had kept, or tried to keep, the money ?"-Exchange
