POETRY.

The following is a gem, and what is remarkable, we find it in the columns of an exchange without the name of the auther. No one need be ashamed to affix his signature to such an effusion .- Savannah Republican.

The Sea Boy's Farewell.

Wait, wait, ye winds! till I repeat A parting signal to the fleet Whose station is at home:
Then waft the sca-boy's simple prayer,

And let it oft be whispered there, While in far climes I roam. Farewell to Father! reverend hulk,

In spite of metal, in spite of bulk Soon may his cable slip; But while the parting tear is moist, The flag of gratitude I'll hoist, In duty to the ship.

Farewell to Mother, "first class" she!
Who launch'd me me on life's stormy sea, And rigged me, fore and aft; May Providence her timbers spare, And keep her hull in good repair, To tow the smaller craft.

Farewell to Sister! levely yacht! But whether she'll be "manued" or not, I cannot now foresee! May some good ship a tender prove, Well found in stores of truth and love, And take her under lee.

Farewell to George! the jolly boat! And all the little craft affoat ! In home's delightful bay; When they arrive at sailing age. May wisdom give the weather gauge, And guide them on their way.

Farewell to all! on life's rude main Perhaps we ne'er shall meet again. Through stress of stormy weather; But summoned by the Board above, We'll harbor in the port of love, And all be moored together !

The Cotton Trade-Southern Pros-

The cotton trade on both sides of the Atlantic continues in an anomalous condition. Stocks are everywhere 'running low, with no prospect of replenishment till another crop shall be ready for market, as there is a progressive decrease of receipts at our own ports, while the Indian supplies promise to fall materially below those of last year, and the minor sources of Egypt, Brazil, &c., afford only a bare average quantity. Although prices are about three cents per pound below the highest point of the season. the staple is still much higher, relatively than goods, many kinds of which are quite as low as before the war, on a gold valuation. With no abatement in the cost of producing goods, it follows that manufacturers must be working without profit if, indeed, they are not losing money. In the manufacturing districts of England a good many failures have lately occurred, and the rate of consumption is fully ten thousand bales below what it was in January. Under a normal condition of trade the price of cotton could hardly fail to materially appreciate, as spinners were rarely ever so bare of supplies, but as the case now stands, they find it almost impossible to get back a new dollar for an old one, and hence they are reduced to the necessity of the most rigid economy, in order to make ends meet.

The high prices of cotton during the past six months have stimulated the this he succeeded. The same current of planting interest South, and no doubt as air goes through the "blower" repeatedly. large a breadth of land will be seeded as In a temperature of forty-five degrees. can be afforded under the necessity of in a room sixty-six feet long, thirteen an increased devotion to food crops. In high, in eight minutes, the thermometer view of the many difficulties which sur- went below zero twenty six degrees. round cotton culture, the leading South-With the aid of this machinery the ship ern journals are giving the farmers and planters the very practical advice not to place all their trust in the great staple. is claimed, 400 tons of fresh beef. The There is an abundance of land in the value of 400 tons of beef in the New South to raise an abundance of food for home consumption, and cotton enough to supply the whole world, but, unfortunately, there is an inadequate supply of the right kind of labor. Still, competent Southern authorities are of opinion that, with an ordinarily favorable season, the next crop will not unlikely reach 3,000,000 bales, and may go to 3,250,-000 bales. Southern opinion with regard to free labor, too, has been very sensibly modified of late.

Thus, Mr. Henry A. Wise, of Virgina, lately remarked that the South has tries of the South and the inauguration of new ones is of the highest importance, and the quicker they become vitalized and quickened, the sooner will national, financial and commercial prosperity be reached. Enabled to commence the new year with handsome results of the produce of last year's business, the South may well in 1869 grow crops and raise the necessaries of life in such abundance as to place it in independent pecuniary circumstances. The idea has taken firm hold of the planters that under the new land better cultivated must be the order of the day. Again, it may be fairly astofore, while the planters will have learned that fair wages are, in the end, more profitable than the cost of labor under the old regime. While the cotton crop will be the great product of the South, there will be increased manufactories erected, and with them will spring up innumerable towns and villages, bringing in their train, without doubt, a higher state of prosperity inevitably than has ever hitherto been reached .- New York

Scientific Meat Packing.

The ship William Taber recently left

New York for Texas, with a view of bringing home a cargo of fresh beef.

Previous to sailing the ship was visited paratus which is designed for the preservation of meat and other perishable substances used for food. The invention is based on the principle that when a substance passes from a denser to a rarer state cold is produced. The substance used to effect this change of temperature gas. Having reduced it to a liquid form

The inventor's first idea was to utilize carbonic acid gas for the production of ice. One of the principal features in the apparatus is an iron case lined with copper and through which are copper tubes set in the top and running clear through. This case is surrounded with wood and well packed by other material to prevent it from receiving caloric from the outside. The tubes are filled with water, which soon becomes converted into ice. Another novel feature in this invention is that after the gas has performed its office of converting the water into ice once, it is allowed to escape into gas again. It is now ready to be reliqui-fied and to go over and convert another quantity of water into ice. The expense is limited to the interest upon the apparatus used, the cost of a given quantity of carbonic acid gas, and the cost of running a steam engine to liquify it and turn it into a gaseous form again. The two great principles, then, in the mechanism of the affair, seem to be, first, the of carbonic acid gas; and, second, remakapplication of pumps to the liquid action

On experimenting, the inventor also found that the passage of a current of air through the tubes produced an intense degree of cold, and the idea occurred to him that he could by means of a

'blower," make a current of air available to cool a room of any given size, and in
