Both the white and colored who were sent open that occasion deserve all the praise that can be bestowed upon chose who waiving prejudices and sel fish interest, were willing to unite for a common and mutual benefit.

. Up to the day of the election, no ticket had been nominated; neither party understanding the course of the others. The polls were opened and no ticket was out. At this juncture of affairs several gentlemen present, suggested to all who were present assembled, a concert and unity of action. The idea was greeted and welcomed by all present, and very soon, all were attentive and interested en bitting upon some plan of united 12 was proposed that party politics should be forgotten for the time, and that a committee of five white and five colored should be selected to nominate a "Citizens Ticket." This arrangement was carried out, and the following Ticket for Township Officers was nominated by the Committee, and approved by the voters present.

James R. Cox. For Selectmen .- John S. Bowman, John C. Reeves, James Melvin.

For Surveyor .- Willie C. Rives. For Constable .- George Gavin.

This ticket was balloted for during the day without a dissenting vote being cast against it, receiving 98 votes, the whole number cast, and was unanimous-heartily congratulate the citizen of this Township upon the happy result obtained by their unity of effort. In deed it was a practical exemplification of the course advised by the ORANGEBURG Maws, and this has been the result.

As we looked upon that scene of unity in which the white man lost none of his dinity, and the colored man any of the advantages of his freedom and his citiwenship, the thought arose in the mind that many, many of the elections in the past, marked by wild collision and conflict, mght have been thus conducted and have so happily resulted!

We hall the occasion as the initiation of a new era in our politics, when the white and colored may unite for the interest and benefit of both !

The Great Collapse.

The chief business of the New York Herald now-a-days is to prophecy "the inevitable collapse of the whole radical concern." Day by day the inconstant Bennet foretells the doom of the Republican party, and seems to chuckle mightily over his prognostications. A sharp old man is Bennet; and we chuckle with him right heartily.

But a greater source of comfort to us still, is the language lately used by Mr. Bana of the New York Sun. His words are all the more worthy of consideration from the fact that they come from a writer who has ever been the most dangcrous, because the most insidious, foe of the Democracy. Mr. Dana speaks more of the Republican party in the Southern Mates. And it is indeed time for organization and action among us of the outh, when the New York Sun gives mee to such strong and pointed ords as these which follow :

"We do not for the present question. and we do not promise to discuss, the intrinsic wisdom of this policy. We deigo simply to call attention to the prospeet which it opens to the Republican wheever suppose that the money and the brains of the white rebels will not he more than a match for the negroes and the few scattering white Republicans in the former slave States, has a confidence which we do not share. These Brates may be expected to vote solid, or nearly so, for a Demogratic candidate for guano, or Cox's phosphate. He that himself subjected to such rough treat-President at the next election. And we doubts, come and sec.

also doubt whether a large majority the Democratic party in the free States rt E. Lee to Gen. Grant for President to-day.

Just so, Mr. Dana. South Carolina a Democratic State, and we believe that, uneer all circumstances, she will remain a Democratic State. If the vote of the blacks is not hereafter controlled by the respectable whites whenever and wherever the whites shall so choose then it will be the fault of the lattermost wretched and ignominious fault! The Radicals have had their day in South Carolina, and in the South generally, and a long and terrible day it has been, but we believe its baleful sun is declining towards the West.

Two or three years more, and the Scotts, and the Platts, and the Pilsburys. will have returned to their "native mour tains of Hepsidam," or else have sunk down, down into ignominious obscurity among the people they are now so vulgarly and shamelessly outraging. And as for the wretched native scalawags, their very names will be ever mentioned with reproach and spitting, and their children and grand children, and great grand children, will curse them to the latest generation .- Edgefield Advertiser.

Phew! Did you ever. "He rolls it under his tongue as a sweet morsel Now let us make a prediction. One year from next November R. K. Scott will be re-elected Governor of South Carolina, until then he will 'run the ma chine as he has been doing for the past year, with honor to himself and constituency, and after that date continue to do the same thing. Gen. Robert E. Lee. has come out in favor of the Conservative Republican candidate for Governor of the State of Virginia and advocates his election. Why don't you Scalaway him! We don't mind being called scala wags in company with such men as Gen. Lee, Gen. Longstreet, Judge Orr, Judge Carpenter, and a host of others, too numurous to mention.

Last year I came out very well, and in January had about $1600 in my factor's hands in Charleston. This season I hope to do better still, for I have put au equal quuntity of land in corn and provisions as last year, and about fifty acres more in cotton, making two hundred acres in this crop, but I have used more fertilizers and have applied about three hundred pounds of the same to each acre, which I think will increase the yield fully fifty per cent., and well repay

I do not think the cool spring has injured my crop at all, but rather did it good, for it kept it back until it gained strength and the hot sun has made it shoot up splendidly, and I now have as seventeen years of planting.

Astounding Discovery.

o examine the most wonderful and awful discovery ever made by man, a community of microscopic human beings!

The gentleman who made the discov ery is a well-known citizen of Mobile. whose name we are not at liberty to reveal, but whom for the sake of convenence we shall only Mr. A.

Mr. A. is a gentleman in easy circumstances, who has devoted much time to scientific pursuits, particularly to experiments with the microscope. It was while examining with this instrument specimen of moss or lichen taken from the roots of a live oak tree near the Spring Hill road, that Mr. A. made his astounding discovery. He saw clinging to the minute branches of the lichen that he had been turning about so unceremoniously, a human being, perfect in form, and with a countenance revealing the wildest terror. The microscope man Mr. A. it is doubtful which of the two at the unexpected discovery, or his

"One look was enough," said Mr. A. I laid aside the specimen, and for weeks I did not venture to use the microscope again. Was it really true that I had seen a sentient being, where I expected to see only the lower orders of animal life; or had I fallon a victim to my enthusiasm in the prosecution of discoveries in the microscopic world? Had ny mind become deringed? I kept my serible secret to myself, for I could not ear the thought of being laughed at bout a matter that had such sensations in my mind. At last I determined to make further examination of the specimen of lichen. It remained as I had at first examined it. The microscope was adjusted over it. I looked again, with what interest may well be imagined, and there lay the man that I had seen before but living no longer. He had died, probably of exhaustion, and there he lay clinging with a death grip to the lichen boughs, whither he had doubtless ventured in search of game.

Further examination convinced me of he truth of the hypothesis. I discovered everal animalcula recently slain. As well as could be made out by the magniying power of my microscope, the legs f the animalculæ were tied together as visible boys tie squirrels and partridges. The microscopic man evidently wore lothes, but of what material or how formed it was impossible to determine Convinced beyond a doubt by what he and seen, of the existence of a race of microscopic human beings, and some what familiarized with the idea that so revolted him at first, Mr. A., continued his researches with the greatest zeal.

The examination of several more specmens of the lichen, and the soil on which it grew, revealed a few more indiiduals like that mentioned above. Mr. A. was careful not to treat them so roughly as he did the first one discovered. for the thought of having inadvertently killed a fellow-creature has greatly disturbed him.

After a long and careful search of the lichens and the space occupied by them, Mr. A. had the gratification of making his great and crowning discovery, the capital city of the microscopic nation.

This he carefully removed with the four ations on which it stood and transferred it to a flower pot in his back yard It was there that we had the pleasure of beholding the worderful and minute

The portion of the city so far examined contains a population of probably three millions, or a number about equal to that

The streets appear under the microscope to be about a quarter of an inch in width, and thronged with people burrying to and fro, whether in the pursuit of commerce or on account of the late shocks their city experienced during its transfer. not, cannot, of course, be ascertained.

The pursuer was soon joined by the rowd in the street, and after an exciting chase of about the twentieth part of an inch, measured by the naked eye, the good a stand as I ever had during my thief, for such the first mentioned individual must have been, surrendered himself, evidently exhausted by his long

He was taken away by persons seeming to have authority. What the stolen property was that he held in his hand to the last, the microscope was not powerful enough to determine. During the pursuit of the thief the people showed every symptom of excitement common with the larger species of human beings, We accepted an invitation yesterday They clapped their hands, thrust their neighbors rudely aside, and showed by their gesticulations the deepest interest in what was going on, and curiosity concerning it. Their shouts and screams on the occasion were doubtless deafening to one another, but of course they could not be heard by us.

Want of space compels us to bring this subject to a close for the present, although we have recorded but a small fraction of the interesting incidents that came under our own observation, and the more numerous ones that were observed from time to time by Mr. A. When the more powerful misroscope ordered by that gentleman arrives, and the expected results are obtained by observations with it, we shall lay the facts before our read-

The use of a more powerful micros will lead to the verification of such as hythothesis, or prove its fallacy.

As the matter stands, all who are in erested in the progress of science, and in the spread of Christianity, will feel the deepest solicitude concerning the possibility of communicating with these newly discovered sentient beings in the microscopic world.

How is that to be accomplished ?-Their voices cannot reach our ears, and o them our voices must be what the music of the spheres is to us. Worlds go whirling through space with a clatter that fills the universe and becomes to mundane cars the equivalent of silence Such must be the hum of the visible terrestrial creation to the microscopic. JUDGE ORR AND THE HOMESTEAD LAW .- A Greenville correspondent of the Charleston Courier, says: His Honor Judge Orr has written a long argument sustaining the Homestead Act. As regards liens existing prior to the Act he says, 'If the Homestead provisions had been objectionable to Congress. applying to existing liens at the date of the adoption of the Constitution, it would doubtless have been excepted to in the Act admitting the State to representation, as was done by Congress with reference to certain features in the Constitution of Georgia.

"It is said, again, that if the dwelling house and out-buildings are not excluded from the estimate, that an unfortunate debtor whose dwelling and outbuildings exceeded one thousand dollars in value would be excluded from all scuefit from the Act. It is conceded that the legislation on this point is defective, and that ome provision should be made when the debtor's dwelling is worth more than on thousand dollars, to retain for him in rust that sum when sold, to purchase homestead; but this argument cannot be allowed to withdraw and defeat the plain provisions of the Constitution and

Act already quoted. "It may be that appraisers would be authorized on examining a dwelling and out-buildings, and concluding the same to be worth more than one thousand dollars, that they would be authorized to appraise only, and assign only a part of the dwelling and out-buildings, or even certain rooms as a homestead."
