

Bill Arp on George W. Williams of Charleston.

Bill Arp has been to New York, met Mr. Williams and writes to the Augusta Chronicle and Sentinel, Bill tries hard to be funny.

"Greatly to my delight I met with my old friend, George Williams, on his way down William street. He was just from the city of Charleston, where he rains as a king, and was in a very happy frame of mind, I mean financially. I know George in Nacoochy some thirty years ago, when he used to work like a nigger in a little corn patch on the side of the hill and carried water in a big soap gourd to keep his truck from burning up with the drowth. He was always hard working, and a mighty liberal man according to his means. He is liberal yet, but, in spite of all he can do, his money will accumulate faster than he can give it away. I'm afraid this worries him, and it does look like a pity to a man so discomfited with money in his declining years. Considering that he is a Georgy Methodist I have thought he might build on a college in Nacoochee just to spite old Vanderbilt in Tennessee. I've no doubt he will do it if he ever thinks of it. I noticed that he was quite thin in the flesh and remarked that it was a favorable circumstance for he could come nigher goin through that needle-eye the scriptures tell about when the time cometh. The thing has bothered me so all my life I've been afeared to lay up any money. The truth is however, I have never had a chance as yet and prospects for the future is morfol dim. George says that money is all vanity and vexation of the spirit, and the way he talked about the trouble and the care that it brings I know he would have cheerfully given me a few thousand dollars if he had had such a big regard for my family. He was afeared it would prove a burden instead of a blessing. He said that when he was up on a visit to his Nacoochy farm last summer, he put on some old clothes and an old hat, and started on a tramp around the plantation. Gettin tired after awhile, he set down on a log by the side of the road and a man cum along with an ox wagin, and sees he: 'Mornin, sur.' 'Good mornin, ses George. 'Do you work for Geo. W. Williams?' 'Yes, sir,' says George. 'How much does he give you a year?' 'My vittles and clothes and tobakker and says my doktor's bill,' says George. 'How long have you been workin for him that way?' 'About 30 years,' says George. 'Well, you are an old fool, and that's jest the way the stingy old cuss has made all his money. Good mornin, sar,' and he popped his bark whip and drove on.

How would you express, in two letters, that you were twice the size of your companions? I W (I-double you.) A cloth saturated with chloroform and applied to the wound, is said to be sure cure for a rattlesnake bite. A schoolmaster, on being asked what was meant by the word "fortification," answered: "Two twentyfications makes a fortification."

Beast Butler's favorite exercises are said to be walking for his health and running for office. It is said he is gone to Fire Island to get acclimated, as his chances appear good for a warm latitude eventually. Mrs. Thompson, who died near Glasgow, Scotland, recently in the eighty fifth year of her age, was the daughter of the poet Burns.

The Australians never sue for a divorce. When a husband gets discouraged, he takes his wife to the brow of a cliff to view the gorgeous sunset, and over she goes. A Georgia woman is credited with raising a large family although not out of her teens. It was her mother in law's family, and she did it with a keg of gun powder planted in the cellar.

A young man who was asked by his sweetheart what phonography was, took out his pencil and wrote the following, and said it was phonography: "U R A B U T, L N."

Fever and Ague,

From which mankind suffer over a large part of the globe, is the consequence of a diseased action in the system, induced by the poisonous miasm of vegetable decay. This exhalation is evolved by the action of solar heat on wet soil, and rises with the watery vapor from it. While the sun is below the horizon this vapor lingers near the earth's surface, and the virus is taken with it through the lungs into the blood. There it acts as an irritating poison on the internal viscera and excreting organs of the body. The liver becomes torpid and fails to secrete not only this virus, but also the bile from the blood. Both the virus and the bile accumulate in the circulation, and produce violent constitutional disorder. The spleen, the kidneys, and the stomach sympathize with the liver, and become disordered also. Finally, the instinct of our organism, as if in an attempt to expel the noxious infusion, concentrates the whole blood of the body in the internal excretories to force them to cast it out. The blood leaves the surface, and rushes to the central organs with congestive violence. This is the crisis. But in this effort it fails. Then the fever follows, in which the blood leaves the central organs and rushes to the surface, as if in another effort to expel the irritating poison through that other great excretory—the skin. In this also it fails, and the system abandons the attempt exhausted, and waits for the recovery of strength to repeat the hopeless effort another day. These are the fits or paroxysms of Fever and Ague. Such constitutional disorder will of course undermine the health if it is not removed.

Ayer's Ague Cure,

which neutralizes this malarious poison in the blood, and stimulates the liver to expel it from the body. As it should, so it does cure this afflicting disorder with perfect certainty. And it does more; or rather does what is of more service to those subject to this infection. If taken in season it expels it from the system as it is absorbed, and thus keeps those who use it free from its attacks; keeps the system in health although exposed to the disease. Consequently it not only cures, but protects from the great variety of affections which are induced by this malignant influence, such as Remittent Fever, Chill Fever, Dumb, or Masked Ague, Periodic Headache, or Biliousness, Bilious Fevers, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Blindness, Toothache, Earache, Catarrh, Asthma, Palpitations, Painful Affections of the Spleen, Hysteria, Colic, Paralysis, and Painful Affections of the Stomach and Bowels, all of which, when arising from this cause, will be found to assume more or less intermitting type. This "Ague Cure" removes the cause of these derangements, and cures the disease.

This it accomplishes by stimulating the excretories to expel the virus from the system; and these organs by degrees become habituated to do this their office of their own accord. Hence arises what we term "acclimation." Time may accomplish the same end, but often life is not long enough, or is sacrificed in the attempt, while this "Ague Cure" does it at once, and with safety. We have great reason to believe this is a surer as well as safer remedy for the whole class of diseases which are caused by the miasmatic infection, than any other which has been discovered; and it has still another important advantage to the public, which is, that it is cheap as well as good.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral
has won for itself such a renown for the cure of every variety of Throat and Lung Complaint, that it is entirely unnecessary for us to recount the evidence of its virtues, wherever it has been employed. As it has long been in constant use throughout this section, we need not do more than assure the people its quality is kept up to the best it ever has been, and that it may be relied on to do for their relief all it has ever been found to do.
