

SATURDAY, NOV. 29, 1873.

Divine Service to-morrow in the Episcopal Meeting House. No Bishop, though, we are sorry to say.

Viewing the "List of the Loyal" the wonder arises. "How the deuce was the old State ever got out of the Union, anyhow!"

Dr. A. C. DuKes has just received a fine assortment of pocket cutlery and razors, all of standard make. Also a fine stock of drugs, medicines &c.

J. W. Patrick & Co, have a lot of ladies fine trunks, shoes, gaiters, &c, which they offer very low for cash. Now is the time to get bargains.

There is but one handsome lawyer at the Orangeburg bar. And we hasten to add that he does not edit a newspaper. (Neither does he) But we won't say any more.

A meeting of the depositors of the Orangeburg branch of the Citizens Saving Bank is called for to day at 12 M at the Elliott Hook & Ladder Hall. It is important that all interested should attend.

No wonder that South Carolina casts such a heavy Republican vote now-a-days, when such a tremendous "loyal element" existed within her borders even during the hottest days of the late war.

Lawyer X. of our bar has a dry way of his own. Those who know him will know precisely how he said, a few days ago "There are but two classes of people who have not yet been emancipated—the lawyers and the doctors."

There were some rough customers among the employees of the Great Eastern Circus. It gives us pleasure however, to say that Mr. J. S. Totten the Treasurer, was a marked exception to the rule. He is one of the most courteous, pleasant and affable gentlemen we have had to deal with for a long time. Success to him in all his travels.

Our friend Frank at Muller's Ad stand called us into his store the other day and presented to our view one of the finest assortments of groceries we have seen in so long a time, including bologna sausage, dried tongue, beef and well its no use, we saw so much while there we cannot think of all that came to our view, but simply say, go and see for yourself.

On Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock the subject of this notice was released by death from his suffering. Dr. O'Casey was a citizen whose merits were hid from public view, and only to the intimate friend, or the long acquaintance were they discovered. Courteous and affable, honest and kind, he won a large circle of true friends. In the word of a neighbor "His was the pure gold, the dress of pretense was sifted out" "Peace to his ashes."

Mr. J. Belton O. Betterson is one of the most persevering and enterprising of our younger citizens. He has just shown conclusively that he knows how to build a good building, and how to rent it, too—even though tin cups and sick like domestic jewelry are the only ornaments bestowed upon him in the nightly games with ring and lance. Nevertheless we must say that the rear end of his new store is as unhandy, out-of-the-way, lop-sided place for the Post Office.

Mr. Jacob Carroll, a well known and popular merchant, died of pneumonia, at his residence near Fort Motte, on the 17th instant, in the forty-first year of his age. Mr. Carroll had been a resident of this County for more than twenty years, during the last eight of which he had been engaged in merchandising at Fort Motte. His genial manners, his close attention to business, and other amiable and excellent qualities, had made for him many warm friends who will learn of his death with unforgotten and sincere regret. He left a widow and two sons to whom we extend our sincerest sympathy.

Do not run in debt to the shoemaker. It is unpleasant to be unable to say your sole is your own.

[COMMUNICATED.] GRAHAM'S November 25, 1873.

Editor News: As I was going over to Gramahs this morning I came in contact with the accompanying victim perched in the top of a tree. I dismounted and located myself about twenty feet from the root of the tree and held him in dreadful durance, until a colored man could go about two miles back and bring me a gun. Upon his return I killed him (the Cat.) and send him to "Riley" as "A Gift" with a few rythmical lines on a piece of paste-board.

Yours, W. A. EASTERLIN.

"A GIFT FOR "RILEY." FROM W. A. EASTERLIN.

I'll give thee not a charting hat, Nor necktie more in fashion, I'll give thee something nice to eat, More ferocious than civil: I'll give thee ah! my old vertebrate, I'll give, I'll give thee to the "DEVIL."

[FOR THE ORANGEBURG NEWS.] The Factor's Lien.

A factor to a farmer said Come trust me for your daily bread, I'll crown your table with a feast At which a king might sit as guest. Your daughters and your sons shall wear The finest silk or cassimere, With colors of the richest dye That with the tyrian purple vie. All things shall come and go at ease, With naught to mar, nor to displease. A plenteous feast shall ever reign As when the fatted calf was slain, Nor shall you sigh for aid in vain If you will give a Factor's Lien.

The farmer listened to each word And pondered well what he had heard, Felt thankful for the proffered aid, And thus unto himself he said: "I like the counsel of friend B. His offer suits me to a T. His fertilizers which are cheap Will make me in abundance reap. To have free access to his store, My cup I dare say will run o'er, I'll borrow money of him too, And pay it when the lien comes due."

His fancy saw no cloud in sight, The man forsook his reason quite. No article was deemed too high That on a credit he could buy, So price his thirst for trade could dash Unless the factor whispered "cash."

At length the lien was over-run, The factor then complaint began: The smiles that once his features graced By stern demeanor were replaced: A coldness now between them grew Whose friendship once seemed warm and true, And when the day of reckoning came That equity remained the same The farmer came with deep regret, His cotton failed to pay his debt, An execution seized his grain, And still the factor held the lien: Next went his silver and his gold, His houses and his land were sold, And he who once had means to spare Now languished on a beggar's fare.

And here the bitter fruit is seen Of living by a Factor's Lien. The farmer never had been told "That all that glitters is not gold!" Nor thought the prospect once so fair Would prove, alas! a hidden snare.

My inconsiderate friends, come view The picture I have painted true. Mark well the silly farmer's plan, His weakness and his folly scan, Learn wisdom from the fall he fell And let the factors go to h—ll.

Save your Doctor's Bill.—When Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry will cure coughs, colds, bleeding at the lungs, and arrest the fell destroyer, Consumption, it does more than most physicians can do. The use of a single bottle, costing one dollar, will satisfy the incredulous that they need look no further for the required aid.

MONEY CANNOT BUY IT! For Sight is Priceless!! BUT THE DIAMOND SPECTACLES WILL PRESERVE IT.

Fever and Ague, from which mankind suffer over a large part of the globe, is the consequence of a diseased action in the system, induced by the poisonous miasm of vegetable decay. This exhalation is evolved by the action of solar heat on wet soil, and rises with the watery vapor from it. While the sun is below the horizon this vapor lingers near the earth's surface, and the virus is taken with it through the lungs into the blood. There it acts as an irritating poison on the internal viscera and excreting organs of the body. The liver becomes torpid and fails to secrete not only this virus, but also the bile from the blood. Both the virus and the bile accumulate in the circulation, and produce violent constitutional disorder. The spleen, the kidneys, and the stomach sympathize with the liver, and become disordered also. Finally, the instinct of our organism, as if in an attempt to expel the noxious infusion, concentrates the whole blood of the body in the internal excretories to force them to cast it out. The blood leaves the surface and rises with the central organs with congestive violence. This is the CHILLS. But in this effort it fails. Then the virus follows, in which the blood leaves the central organs and rushes to the surface of the body in another effort to expel the irritating poison through that great excretory—the skin. In this also it fails, and the system abandons the attempt exhausted, and waits for the recovery of strength to repeat the hopeless effort another day. These are the fits or paroxysms of Fever and Ague. Such constitutional disorder will of course undermine the health if it is not removed.

We have labored to find, and have found, an antidote.

Ayer's Ague Cure, which neutralizes this malarious poison in the blood, and stimulates the liver to expel it from the body. As it perfects, so it does cure this disorder with perfect certainty. And it does more, or rather does what is of more service to those subject to this infection. If taken in season it expels it from the system as it is absorbed, and thus keeps those who use it free from its attacks; keeps the system in health although exposed to this disease. Consequently it not only cures, but prevents from the great variety of affections which are induced by this malignant influence, such as Remittent Fever, Chill Fever, Dumb, or Masked Ague, Periodical Headache, or Bilious Headache, Bilious Fevers, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Diarrhoea, Toothache, Earache, Catarrh, Asthma, Palpitations, Painful Affections of the Spleen, Hyeternosis, Colic, Paralysis, and Painful Affections of the Stomach and Bowels, all of which, when arising from this cause, will be found to assume more or less the intermittent type. This "AGUE CURE" removes the cause of these derangements, and cures the disease.

This it accomplishes by stimulating the excretories to expel the virus from the system; and these organs by degrees become habituated to do their office of their own accord. Hence, whatever we term acclimation. Time may accomplish the same end, but often life is not long enough, or is sacrificed in the attempt, while this "Ague Cure" does it at once, and with safety. We have good reason to believe this is a sure, as well as a safer remedy for the whole class of diseases which are caused by the miasmatic infection, than any other which has been discovered, and it has a still more important advantage to the public, which is that it is cheap as well as good.

PREPARED BY DR. J. C. AYER & CO. LOWELL, MASS. PRICE ONE DOLLAR PER BOTTLE.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has won for itself such a renown for the cure of every variety of Throat and Lung Complaint, that it is entirely unnecessary for us to state the evidence of its virtues, wherever it has been employed. As it has long been in constant use throughout this section, we need not do more than assure the people its quality is kept up to the best it ever has been, and that it may be relied on to do for their relief all it has ever been found to do.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills, FOR ALL THE PURPOSES OF A PURGATIVE MEDICINE.

FOR CONSTIPATION; FOR THE CURE OF DYSPEPSIA; FOR JAUNDICE; FOR THE CURE OF INDIGESTION; FOR HEADACHE; FOR THE CURE OF DYSENTERY; FOR A FULL STOPPAGE OF THE BOWELS; FOR THE CURE OF RHEUMATISM; FOR ALL SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS; FOR THE CURE OF BRUISES; FOR DISEASES OF THE SKIN; FOR THE CURE OF LIVER COMPLAINT; FOR THE CURE OF TETTER, TUBERCLES AND SCALD HEAD; FOR THE CURE OF GOUT; FOR A DINNER PILL; FOR THE CURE OF NERVOUSNESS; FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

They are sugar-coated, so that the most sensitive can take them pleasantly, and being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

Price 25 cents per Box; Five boxes for $1.00.

Great numbers of Clergymen, Physicians, Quakers, and eminent persons, have sent their names to certify the unparalleled usefulness of these remedies, but our space here will not permit the insertion of them. The Agents below named through grants our AMERICAN ALMANAC in which they are given; with also full descriptions of the above complaints, and the treatment that should be followed for their cure.

Do not be put off by unprincipled dealers who sell cheap imitations, and take no others. The stick mark the best and there is for them, and they should have it.
