How She Saws Wood.

Did you ever see a woman undertake to saw wood? It is always a little while before dinner, when the pies won't bake, and the potatoes absolutely refuse to come to the boiling point, and the only stick of wood is exactly three inches too long. After vain attempts to prove the elasticity of matter by putting a two-foot three-inch stick into a two-foot stove, she goes out to the saw horse puts her knee on the refractory stick in the very way she has seen some men do.

Didn't Take Any Interest in it.

While still a very young man, on account of his uncommon ability and legal acquirements, Mr. Richard Bolman was made judge of one of the eastern circuits of Virginia, in the year 18--. Having hitherto led the life of a student and a scholar, he had no extended reputation except among his brethren, and had never yet been in politics.

A Visit to Stokes.

Edward S. Stokes is still in the Sing Sing prison hospital, with asthma, and chills and fever. When he arrived at the prison he was assigned to duty as clerk in the cigar manufactory, but on the following day he was taken to the hospital upon the recommendation of Dr. James R. Wood, of this city.

Has he a Call to be a Husband.

Has he a call to be a husband who thinks more of his horse than his wife? Has he a call to be a husband who spends six evenings out of the week away from home, and complains because his wife will go Thursday evening to prayer meeting?

Defrauding Insurance Companies.

Aron Harris, who kept a cigar store in New York, was, last week, upon conviction of perjury, sent by Recorder Hackett to the State prison for ten years. The crime which led to the punishment of this prisoner was one which has of late been not infrequently attempted by defraud an insurance company.

Submarine Landscape.

When the sea is perfectly clear and transparent, it allows the eye to distinguish objects at a very great depth. Near Mindoro, in the Indian Ocean, the spotted corals are plainly visible under twenty five fathoms of water. The crystal clearness of the Coribbean Sea excited the admiration of Columbus, who, in the pursuits of his great discoveries, ever retained an open eye for the beauties of nature.

Perhaps you will reply that there are cases for cigar holders—I know it. Then you must have in your pocket, A cigar case, A cigar holder, A case for the cigar holder, A box of matches.

PUFF XII. The Cigar is Man, I smoke—therefore I am. The cigar distinguishes man from the brute. Tell me what you smoke and I will tell you you are. As the master, so the cigar.

Who has smoked, will smoke. Nothing is better than the first cigar of the morning—unless it be the last pipe of the evening. There is a God for smokers. No atheist smokes. Could woman smoke she would be the equal of man.

Who smokes, prays. Happiness is like the cigar—there should always be a store in reserve. A free translation of donec eris felix: Cigars are plenty when the sky is fair, When clouds obscure they become more rare.

The smoker is master of the situation. In vain attack or combat it—the cigar pursues it onward way, throwing aged, 21, in a drunken street fight. During a drunken row at Dorchester, Ontario, on Christmas, between colored and white men, one of the latter, named Bell, was stabbed and killed.

The wholesale drug house of Mc Culloch, Hager & Co., Nashville, Tennessee, was burned on Christmas. Loss $20,000; insurance $4,000 in the Franklin, of Philadelphia.

A false alarm of fire on Christmas night in Buffalo, New York, caused a panic among a crowd of persons engaged in a dance at Keller's Hall, and in the rush to escape from the building several persons jumped from the windows of the second story, and were seriously injured.

Early on Christmas morning in Boston, Massachusetts, Antonio G. Huettle was shot and terribly mutilated by Joseph Q. Hegner, both young Germans. Hegner confesses committing the murder.

At a shooting match on Christmas day, at Riga, a village near Dayton, Ohio, two brothers—John and Henry Stowe—quarreled about loading a gun, and John called Henry a liar, when Henry drew a revolver and shot John, killing him instantly.

James Gallagher, of No. 30 Pearl street, Brooklyn, returned home drunk early the morning after Christmas, and assaulted his wife, dragged her from her bed and threw her down a second flight of stairs. Supposing he had killed her, he returned to his room, took an Enfield rifle, and shot himself in the stomach, inflicting a wound from the effect of which he died in forty-five minutes. His wife was severely, though not dangerously injured.

mon necessities of life. In his pockets were found an empty purse, an empty tobacco pouch, and four postage stamps. He said he was unmarried, had no friends nearer than Lower Canada, and was endeavoring to reach Saint Louis.—Exchange.

The Man Who Knew Exactly What to do in a Fire.

There might have been a disastrous fire on Fourth street on Saturday but for the heroism displayed by a man named Sweetman. He was passing along when he saw little flames creeping around the chimney, and he dashed into the house. He shouted "fire" until the house rang, while he seized a bureau and threw it over, he called to one of the family to go and sound the alarm. The bureau gathered up a table and ran into the yard. He sent a small boy to sound another alarm, and ran in and began racking a bedstead to pieces, at the same time ordering the women to throw everything out of doors. He got the bedstead down and ran out doors and rushed a third boy to a fire-alarm box, then went in and carefully brought out the wood-box and a floor-mat. The women were meanwhile shoving the parlor furniture out doors, and as soon as Sweetman had flung the looking glass through the back window, and torn the baby's crib to pieces, he ran in and helped them while another messenger was sent to jerk an alarm out of a letter-box on the lamp post.

A man in Orange County, Vermont, has published the following: Whereas the Old Woman known as my Wife, in consequence of attending the Powwows of the Jumpers and the Howlers and the Cat Burners, has become so tired, Senseless Crazy and Reckless and does nothing but run up and down the road and Circulate the Most Infamous Lies Concerning myself and others thus accomplishing my Ruin, therefore I forbid any one to harbor or trust her on my account.

A New Orleans jurymen was asked by the judge if he ever read the papers. He replied: "Yes, yer honor; but if you'll let me go this time I'll never do so any more,
