There has been a good deal said in the papers recently about Judge Carpenter's order suspending Messrs Pope, Haskel and others from practice in the Circuit and Probate Courts. We have a strong personal and professional sympathy with our brethren of the bar and an equally strong personal and professional respect for the able and independent Judge by whom the order was made Between the two feelings we doen it the best course to make no comments whatever upon the present condition of

[COMMUNICATED.]

Mr. Editor-I hear a great deal o complaint from farmers this year, relative to the cost of fertilizers. I will suggest ta plan by which you can get a good fertizer, very cheap. I have used (very successfully) cotton seed and acid phosphate composted. The cost after composting is about 237 per ton, valuing the cotton seed at 25 c per bushel. And I feel satisfied that a ton of the compost is equally as good as the fertilizers sold in Charleston at from 55 to $60 per ton. I intend to compost the coming season 1 ton acid phosphate, 1 ton cotton seed and I tin stable manure together, which will give 3 tons for about $60, or say $20 per ton. And I feel satisfied that each ton pr perly composted will do as much good as a ton of fertilizers that will cost $60. besides the outlay will not be over $4 for three tons cotton seed and stable manure we have at hone. We can buy the acid just as cheap now as later, and I think the sooner we make our compost heaps, the better.

If farmers will only put themselves to a little more trouble and try this method they will soon find that they will make good crops, and have on hand more money in the fall than those who stick to the old plan of buying at exhorbitant prices because it puts them to no trouble in the spring. (The trouble comes, however, in the Fall.) I feel satisfied that in a few years very little fertilizers will be bought as it is now. Farmers buy acid and compost with it make your manure heaps, and when your crops are made you will not have to give it to advances for fertiliz

[For the "ORANGBBURG NEWS."] The Free School System-Middle Township.

Mr. Editor :- I had hoped ere this to have seen some published report of progress from our wide fiel 1 of Free School operations, but as nothing of the kind has as yet made its appearance, I would in a brief way and by your permis sion introduce the subject.

No obserant friend of the system.

Mr. Editor, will deny that it has already wrought wonders; and, it is also manifest, that the people, many of whom were at first its most bitter opposers, now hail it as the harbinger of a brighter day, and as the heaven blessed means by which the ignorant are to be brought out of darkness and introduced into the marvellous light of cultivation and refinement. True, the system still has opposers. There are those who denounce it as a mere scheme for fraudulently "raising the wind," and in troved. About 5 o'clock this morning close keeping with other legislative en-Mrs. James McGinnis had filled an actments by which thousands of dollars aziline lamp and lighted it, and was in are annually extorted from the people the act of putting on the chimney, when of which no satisfactory account is ever given. But the bare assention of any man to this effect is not sufficient to establish it as a fact, while against this there is a cloud of faithful witnesses ready to present the matter in a very ly. He threw the mother and infant different light. There are those too, daughter through a window into the who are ostensibly thorough going Re girl his clothing caught fire, and he and | a dollar to be made, or, while they are seeking to deceive and entrap the colored laborer, and who, when opportunity offers, say and do all in their power against the education and enlightenment of the African race. Strange that such persons should have been heard to acknowledge that to keep a people Slaves they must be kept in "ignorance" but it is thus that while they congratulate the colored people on their emancipation, and award to them, because they cannot help it, equal rights, they would throw upon them again the galling chains of Slavery. If Mr. Editor, such persons hope that by hindering the education of the colored man, he, the colored man will by reason of his excess through ignorance prove himself unfit for citizenship and so have those cherished rights taken away by the same power that conferred them, they are in dulging in an delusive dream over which Democritees, himself if living, would wildly laugh.

Turn from such dreawns, Mr. Editor and see what has been achieved in Mid dle Township through the energy and persoverance of an able and efficient Board of School Trustees.

Schools have been established, ouses built, by competent, earnest labor ers, and successful teachers employed and the work goes bravely on, looking to and forthshadowing a grand success. Seven full Schools, six colored and one white. (Bethel) are now in fine running order and paying back to the people in tuition dollar fer dollar of all their expenditures on school account.

The Board of Trustees, Foures, Philips and Carn, have, under the most discouraging circumstances accomplished a great work which must stand mount mentum acre perennius.

Two white Schools, "Indian Camp" and "Four Holes," gave way on the first quarter, and were discontinued. There was no money in the Treasury, and the teacher of the first mentioned school not being able to obtain from any of his patrons advances to most liablities. withdrew. The teacher, first grade, of the second named school, after a short but successful run, was basely calumniated by some Puritan or other, who had optics sufficiently keen to see the mote hat was in his brothers eye, whilst he very carefully neglected to consider the cam that was in his own eye. The fact is the teacher alluded to was too much of a Republican and not enough of a hypocrite to suit some persons, and so at their request he was removed by the Trustees and placed in charge of the large and flourishing colored School at Bethel Church ..

Mr. Editor, the Trustees of Middle Township are in "labors abundant. The faithful teachers now employed find their positions no sinecures. Will not the people sustain these earnest laborers for the common weat? The Free sent generation. Let the storm beat ; ply well the oars-"we'll anchor bye

A Card From Senator Andrews. Mr. Felder Answered.

To the Editor of the Daily Union Herald: The following extract is taken from a Card to the Taxpayers of Orangeburg, under the signature of Mr. P. S. Fel-

"At a meeting called on last sales day, I recommended to the taxpayers not to pay until after the meeting of the Taxpayers' Convention. At that time I expected this convention to be immediately called together, and some action taken in relation to this grievance. The convention is ordered for the 17th of February, which will be too late, I fear, for any practical result, because most of the taxpayers who can pay will have done so, and the treasury of the ring will be at the flood tide. I notice, also, that, with but one exception, no other county kas given the same advice, and many of the taxpayers of this county are paying, It would be useless for only a few of us to hold off. The taxpayers of South Carolina have a breat lesson to learn, and until that is learned nothing can be accomplished."

(The italies are mine.) The distinguished egotism of these entences commands my profound admiration. Mr. Felder recommends at the meeting of taxpapers that the people should not pay their taxes, and he goes on to say in this card, for he speaks

by the card, "I notice also that with but one exception no other county has given the same advice." I respectfully succumb, after the man. ner of the ancient Chinese salaam in the sublime ignorance that Mr. Felder con stituted in himself the whole county of Orangeburg. If so, then it is time for me to resign, as I am utterally unable to represent Mr. Felder as a county; and still less so as an individual. I have to state that, with one or two exceptions, every person present at the meeting referred to paid his taxes on the first day that the tax office was open, and am did likewise-a curio us discrepancy between word and deed. "Oh! consistency thou art a jewel ! Respectfully, THAD. C. ANDREWS.

A Double Death.

A dispatch from Greensboro, N. C. gives the announcement of the sulden death of the Siamese Twins on Saturday morning last, at their resi lence, Mount Airy, Surrey County, N. C. There are no details further than the fact that Chang was paralyzed last fall, since which time he has been fretful, very much debilitated and strongly addicted to drinking liquors as a means alleviating his sufferings. He had been quite feeble for several days, indeed so much as to confine both brothers to bed, but his illness was not so great as to cause any anticipation of the catastrophe that was to follow. On Friday night they refired to bed as usual, but during the night Chang became worse and expired suddenly about four o'clock Saturday morning. As soon as it discovered that he was dead Eng became so terribly shocked that he raved wildly for a while at times exhiting signs of great mental aberration. This attack was follow by what seemed to be a deadly stupor. In two bours it is supposed from the death of Chang, Eng breathed his last.

THE NATIONAL FINANCES.-The discussion of the finances has not been resumed in the Senate for several days past. The understanding sems to be that an opportunity shall be offered to the entire body of the Senate for a full ventilation of financial views. Members of the Senate have been reading the reports of the proceedings of the National Board of Trade at Baltimore, and have regarded with interest the remarks of business men upon the financial condi tion. But the most experienced members of the Senate have about come to the conclusion that nothing in the way of legislation can be looked for at this session. The general sentiment is that the House will pass some measure, direct or indirect (most probably the latter), looking to inflation of some sort, and that it will certainly not receive the sanction of the Senate. Many are of the opinion that now it is wise to let well enough alone.

CORNS - Hall's Journal of Health which ought to be authority on such matters, publishes the following as a cure for this torment :

"The safest, the most accessible, and the most efficient cure of a corn on the toe, is to double a piece of thick, soft buckskin, cut e hole in it large enough to receive the corn, and bind it around the toe. If in addition to this, the foot is seaked in warm water for five or more minutes every morning, and a few drops of sweet oil, or rather oily substance are patiently rubbed in on the end after the soaking, the corn will almost infalliby become loose enough in a, few days to be easily picked out with the finger nail. This saves the necessity of paring the corn, which operation has sometimes been ! followed with painful and danger ous symptoms. If the corn becomes inconvenient again, repeat the process

She was expecting him Sunday night. The parlor curtains were down, the old folks noticed that it was healthy to go to bed at 8 o'clock and Johany, bribed with a cent, permitted himself to be tucked away at sundown. He sneaked up the path, one eye on the dog and the other watching for the "old man." who didn't like him any too well, gave a knock at the door, and he was escorted into the parlor. He said he couldn't stay but a minute, though he didn't mean to go home for hours. She winted to know how his mother was, if his father had returned from York State, if brother Bill's rheumatism was any better, and he went over and sat down on the sofa so as not to strain his voice. Then conversation flagged and he played with his hat and she nibbled at the sofa tidy He finally sa d'it was a beau tiful evening, and she replied that her grandfather predicted a snow storm. He said he guessed it wouldn't snow, as the moon wasn't crooked enough to hang a powder horn on the end, and she said she didn't believe it would, either. This mutual understandi g seemel to give each other courage, and he wanted to know if she had seen Bill Jones lately. She hada't, she said, and she didn't want to. Then they went to talking about the donation visit to b: given to Elder Berry, and he carolessly dropped his hand on hers-his right hand-while his left arm sneaked along the sofa, to get behind her shoulders. She pretended not to notice it, and he looked down at his boots, and wanted to know if she thought mutton-tallow rotted out boots faster than lard or lampblick. Sie couldn't say, but she had an idea that it did. He had just commenced to lock fingers with her, when she discovered semething ailed the lamp. She rose up and turned the light down a half, mak ing the room look dim. It took him five minutes to get hold of her fingers again, and she pretended to want to draw her hand away all the time. After a long pause, he lowered his voice to a whisper, and said he didn't see what made folks love each other. She bit Christian duty, from morning till night her handkerchief and admitted her dozen young men who were going to | nerve to help all who n.e i it. get married right away, and his left arm fell down and gave her a hug. Then he went over, and lookel out the window to make sure that it was or was not going to snow, and coming back he turned the light down a little mo e. and then sat down and wanted to know if she didn't wan't to rest h radif by leaning her head u; on his shoulder.

Ah, me! we have all been there, and who of us cared a cent when the old clock struck twelve, and we five miles from bome? The old man was fast asleep, the watch-dog gone a visiting, and the hand-omest girl in the county din I't see why we need be in a hur

Perhaps I shouldn't have written of this, but, as I was going by Saunders' the other day, thinking of the night, I heard him whisper in her ear at spell ing school, that he'd love her very shulow as long as he lived, he raised the window and called to her, as she was picking up chips in the road:

"Sue Saunders, come in here and find the ba'r's grease for my heel, or I'll break every bone in your coly!"

How to Cook a Turnip.

I will ask the readers to cook two turnips in two different ways. The first is to be pecled and sliced, and left to soak in cold water for an hour or more. The slices are to be boiled until quite tender, and then are to be drained, and nicely mashed with butter. This is the most common method of cooking, and it has the demerit of washing out the gum and the sugar and the other finer constituents of the root, and consequently the flavor is very much reduced. The other root is to be washed quite clean; but it is not to be pealed, or cut or soaked. Boil it whole in its "jacket." It will take twice as long to cook as the one that was cut. When, by trying it with a fork, you find it quite tender, take it up, peel it, press it moderately, and mash it with butter. You will be surprised at the difference. Instead of being, as perhaps you will expect, "strong," "rank," or "bitter," it will be deliciously full flavored, and will contain all the nourishment that was in it before it was cooked.

A Trying Moment.

What a terrible sensation it is to get down from some elevation, where your desent depends upon making a connection with your feet, and fail to find the proper fosting. Perhaps you are a large man, and are getting down from a shed roof. Your stomach is pressed against the caves, and your elbows are dug into the shingles. You have got down too far to crawl back, and are perfectly unable to see your legs or any thing near them, and in this condition of complete helplessness, and perspiring

How He "Set up With Her." at every po re, you deploy your feet in agonizing apprehension. Despite the danger of your position, you cannot help but realize the awfully grotesque spectaele you are unavoidably making of yourself, for the benefit of prejudiced observers, and the sensation intensifies, in stead of relieving, the misery. It is at such a time as this that a man under stands the worth of a true wife to steaddy his legs and point his feet. But she is neither in sight nor hearing, and after waving and flouncing his legs until evory blood vessel in his head is on the point of bursting and the pressure on his stomach threatens his spine, he either makes the connection, or, what is more probable, lets go his hold in the mad ness of despair, and comes down on the hard earth as if it were an ottoman.
