

LOCAL.

J. FELDER MEYERS, Assistant Editor.

SATURDAY, AUG. 22, 1874.

Cool weather Monday and Tuesday.

Deaf John politicians has no reference to Kort-John.

The treasury office is closed up. There is no money there. What a pity!

Hon. S. L. Duncan was in town on Monday last.

County Auditor Van Tassel closed the assessment of property on Thursday last.

The recent wind completely destroyed the corn and cotton crops of several farmers near Branchville.

The editor of the Free Citizen is fond of "night meetings." Look out, old fellow, we intend to watch you hereafter.

Hermann Walkers says his Rozinante must carry him through this campaign "all setten up."

Moses says he will metamorphose himself into a whole Jew should he be defeated. He doesn't like to be called a hybrid.

The Georgetown Times will come out in an enlarged size next week. It is one of our most valuable exchanges.

The first deed recorded in the Clerk of the Court's office after the war was as early as September, 1865. It is from Mrs. Diana Beach to Dr. E. J. Oliveros.

There is a large Sunday School picnic to-day at Hebron Church, at which the young folks will have a lively time. Several have gone from our Burg.

Judge A. B. Knowlton, School Commissioner F. R. McKinlay and R. R. Duncan have been appointed Commissioners of Elections for this county.

Dr. J. T. Butler has been elected an honorary member of the Athletic base ball club of Blackville. Where are the Carolinas?

Captain Briggmann is improving his property behind the Lutheran Church. Several tenements have been erected.

Dr. Webster has issued the prospectus of the new religious paper he proposes shortly to publish at this place. It will supply a want long felt.

Augustus Fischer will accept the thanks of this office for favors. He is a prosperous merchant, and can well afford to be mindful of the printer. Success to him.

The Free Citizen has some facts it wants to give to the public. Why not, everything is quiet back of the Court House Square now.

Mr. Riggs' cotton patch, planted with an eye to the Fair, heads anything in this County. One stalk of it is a good load for an ordinary man. Truth.

PERSONAL.

Judge T. H. Cooke was in town on Wednesday last, looking well. The Judge reports the up country for Chamberlain. Poor Judas.

The thermometer reached 102 degrees in the shade at Aiken on the 14th inst. So says the Tribune. Sparnick couldn't trust the sun on that day. Where was Cammack, the Journal man?

The Edisto base ball club of this place whipped out the Independents on Tuesday afternoon last by 42 to 28. The former club is jubilant over their victory, and means to continue in the championship.

It is said that his Excellency preached at Hopkins on Sunday last to a large and enthusiastic crowd. What is it that this wily devil won't do? "Go to Heaven," says Riley.

General Elliott, it is said, will run for the Legislature from Aiken County, and designs wresting the Speakership from Lee. The General seems to be master of the situation wherever he goes.

We hear the Hon. W. H. Reedish spoken of for the Legislature by many of his friends. Mr. Reedish has been a faithful and consistent worker in his party, and is the leader of the lower portion of our county.

LYNCH LAW.

Capt. A. F. Butler was killed at Augusta, on Saturday last, by one Michael Murrell, and the murderer was condemned by lynch law, and shot and killed on the same evening. He deserved death, but we do not approve of lynch law, which is a most dangerous precedent to establish.

We regret to hear of the death of the eldest daughter of our fellow townsman, Mr. P. V. Dibble, who died on Sullivan's Island on Thursday night of this week. Our sympathies are tendered the bereaved family.

The Branchville delegation composed of Hon. W. H. Reedish, Jas. Van Tassel, Esq., Rev. E. Green, Andrew Pickney and Mr. E. T. R. Snook was one of the most active and influential ever sent from that place.

The new depot is progressing finely. Orangeburg deserves this recognition by the Railroad Company and we are quite glad to record it. With Mr. Dawson as our agent, and a commodious depot, our merchants and traveling public will get along swimmingly.

Hurley gave a picnic to the poor colored children of Charleston last week which was a brilliant success. Timothy is a brick and did all he could in the last Legislature to stem the tide of corruption inaugurated by Moses.

The corner stone of the old Court House lays in the Clerk's office. We can now account for the honesty of G. B. That mute sentinel guarded him against mischief. Would that our prodigal and saturnalian Governor had been given a piece of it six years ago.

The fines of at the Mayor's Court this morning amounted to fifty-one dollars.—Chronicle.

We trust that the city council will vote it to DeLano, at their next meeting, with instructions that he shall get out a decent paper once in his life.

The Charleston Sun credits us with having had a huge fracas here on Monday last a week ago to which impeachment we pleaded not guilty. There was a little matter attended to by the School Commissioner, but no one knew anything of it except the fighting editor of a belligerent contemporary.

Henry Livingston was the first foreman of the grand jury after the late unpleasantness, which presented the "moral commissioners" for neglect of duty, and the commissioners of the poor for remissness of duty. This was under good old democratic rule.

Solicitor Buttz left here on Friday last, entered a boat, went to James Island, made a speech, whipped his opponents out and returned to Charleston with the Bowen crowd on Sunday morning. Buttz means business.

The other side of the railroad doesn't look like itself. The fine residence of Mr. Willcock presents a really aristocratic appearance, and adds to the beauty of that neighborhood to a wonderful degree. Other improvements are being made "over there" which should spur our side up.

In consequence of Mr. Boliver, the Clerk of the County Commissioners, having been called away on official business the largest part of this week, the statement promised in our last issue in regard to the County finances, could not be had. Mr. Boliver will have it ready for our next issue.

E. EZEKIEL.—Has moved into his new store on Market Street at which place he offers the highest cash price for rough rice, corn, peas, eggs and rags, &c. Mr. E. is a go-ahead gentleman and we predict for him a success never before achieved, at his new store. See advertisement in another column.

The fighting editor of the Union-Herald is off on a trip to Long Branch, and will not be back until after the 8th of September. Then Chamberlain will have been nominated for Governor, and said editor will be protected in the full enjoyment of free speech. Moses can't go for him then.

Editors must have good olfactory organs, and be able to scent danger afar off, otherwise they may drive right into the arms of an offended reader. It is safe for them to keep in view the law of safe distances as applied to projectiles. This "plug ugly style" is not at all refreshing at the beginning of the week.

Mr. L. C. Northrop publishes a card in the Union-Herald stating that he is not the editor-in-chief of that paper now. We have thought for some time that the keen and incisive pen of Northrop was absent from the columns of said paper. However it is a lively journal, and calls our "native young Governor" licentious. Pretty hard on a man who preaches.

"The man who does his whole duty, without fear or favor, is the rising man for Congress."—Free Citizen.

To which we add, it seems the man who "writes without fear or favor," must fall or beat a retreat. Where's the fighting editor? His services are needed on Saturdays and Mondays, and Girardeau's on Tuesdays. Nuff sed.

A protracted meeting will commence in this place at the Baptist Church on this evening which may continue the whole of next week. We trust it will be a successful revival in religion here, and that the distinguished pastor of that Church will find a better reward for his labors than that which he received over two years ago. Let the meeting be well attended, as prominent ministers of other churches will assist.

Judge Hoge says the man who calls him a Moses man is a liar, and writes himself down as nobody's man. He says with emphasis: "What I desire is a good, honest administration by the 'Republican party' of the State government. I am opposed to the election of any dishonest man to the position of governor, whether he is a native of South Carolina, Massachusetts or Ohio."

According to this, then, poor F. Judas has no State office at his back.

TWO ELECTIONS.

Jas. D. Treadwell, Esq., has given a legal opinion to Frank Moses, Jr., to the effect that under the law there will have to be two elections held this fall—one in October for County Officers, and the other in November for Governor, Lieutenant-Governor and members of the Legislature. What Judas leasart wants with a double election we are at a loss to understand. It was our impression that one would be enough to fling him in the Penitentiary.

Jones and Bowley of Georgetown had a fight in that place several days ago, which resulted in the former being wounded in the thumb and the latter going to jail. It is said that Bowley called the Committee of ways and means together, while in the cell, but no one answered. Wonder whether he thought he was in a committee room or not? Probably so, and desired to devise ways and means to rid himself of the Sheriff. Fight it out, Jones, you and Bowley, for it's dog eat dog in our opinion.

S. A. Swails, a big radical light in Williamsburg County, and editor of the Republic, in speaking of a deceased friend says, "he had no peer and but few equals." In the simplicity of our education we were under the impression that "peer" meant "equal" and "equal" meant "peer," but the Honorable Swails contends that while these words belong to the same "class" of speech, they do not represent the same thing. He would, therefore, be substituted for each other. "He had no peer and but few equals." Are there any dictionaries in Williamsburg?

FRANTZ BRIGGMANN.

Has just opened a new supply of fresh family groceries. Such articles as hams, breakfast strips, butter, lard, flour, molasses, canned fruits and oyster, Northern cabbage, Irish potatoes &c., he offers for sale at the very lowest prices. Besides the above, Mr. Briggmann keeps constantly on hand the finest brands of wines and liquors to be had. House keepers who are fond of clean and fresh groceries will find it to their interest to give Muller's old stand a call.

Wednesday last several gentlemen started from here bright and early for a chase after the fleet footed deer of Great Branch. Among the number were Messrs. W. E. McMichael, Willie Baxter, James Cannon and Johnny Meroney. From the account given us of the drive, a lively time was enjoyed. Johnny was the lucky boy and killed a young buck. It being his first he jumped three feet in the air, crowd and cut up all the gyrations of a victorious knight of the forest. The day's sport was wound up by a shooting match in which Willie Baxter shot the heart out of a black jack, ten inches in diameter, seventy-five yards. Bully gun, that of Willie's.

STATISTICS WORTH STUDYING.

In 1868 the Republican vote in this State for President was 62,910; the Democratic vote was 42,237; Republican majority 17,673. In 1870 the Conservative vote was 51,437; the Republicans counted 85,071—13,000 more than was ever cast before or since. In 1872 Moses received 69,838 votes. The Union-Herald places the full Republican vote at 73,000, and says:

"The census shows that the white vote ought to be, if all brought out, 58,000. Taking this into consideration, it is unsafe to suppose that a full Conservative vote is less than 55,000—a majority for the Republicans of only 18,000."

Beecher has made his statement at last. He charges Tilton and Moulton with an attempt at blackmail. Beecher, if he knew it at all, knew four years ago what he now states. It is almost impossible that one should believe that a Christian minister could carry such a secret, for such a length of time, wrapped in the silence of his own bosom. We believe Beecher guilty of the charges made against him, and in this desperate straight resolved to lie out of it.

Hence his attempt to ruin the characters of Tilton and Moulton. If Beecher has spoken the truth, then he is not fit to preach the Gospel, for one so weak as he must be, morally and otherwise, cannot lead people to a proper appreciation of Christ.

Cardoza has given bond in the United States Supreme Court at Washington in the case of the Certificates of Indebtedness. It will be remembered that our Supreme Court decided that the Treasurer was compelled to issue them. Cardoza refused to be governed by the law as set down by the Chief Justice and Wright. We hope the Supreme Court of the United States will reverse their decision, and that that stupendous fraud, the Republican Printing Company, will thus be shorn of its power to take more of the people's money. They get a large pay to do the work of the State and yet there are some members of the Legislature who fail to get copies of the journals &c.

C. D. Kortjohn thought of going to Saratoga to spend the summer, but upon his numerous customers hearing of his contemplated trip, and coming to the conclusion that no one could supply Dick's place, or sell them as sound and cheap groceries, they drew up and forwarded in regular style, a petition praying said Dick to remain in his store. He kept the matter under advisement until this morning when he announced to us that he had concluded not to go back on his customers. Considerate man. He never forgets the interest of the farmers and offers them fine groceries, wines, liquors, ales etc., at the lowest prices. Dick's health should be taken care of now by his customers since he has given up so much pleasure for their sakes.

STRAUS & STREET.

These gentlemen have made wonderful improvements upon their rice and grist mills. Having heard so much about their establishment we gave them a call the other day which well repaid our visit. Their new building is large and roomy, in the lower story of which are their rice and grist mills. We examined the rice turned out by them and never saw wholer grains from the best mills in Charleston. Their grist and meal are the very finest to be had. Near the engine shaft, a fine stream of water runs down the side of the mill, and is conveyed through a pipe into a tank, and thence into a large reservoir, filled with water. In case of fire in that neighborhood, this will be found very useful as there is no fire well in that section. In a word, Messrs. Straus & Street may well be proud of their success, and the community proud of them.

LEWISVILLE AND MOSES.

At a meeting of several Lewisville politicians the other night, H. P. Cooke, Esq., was called upon and got off the following impromptu rhymes. We suggested to Mr. Cooke that his effort was an imperfect attempt at doggerel, to which he replied, "I know it, but its claim to the dignity of poetry consists in its truthfulness." "All right," we replied; "it is our desire to get at the truth of all things, terrestrial and celestial, and especially at the shining moments of the Commander-in-Chief of the army of South Carolina." Let us read:

TO MOSES.
Gov'nor, without a straight or flush
You have stolen without a blush,—
You have lied with wicked frowns,
And longed for women, mink, and gowns.
You look for a re-election,
And depend upon deception;
But you will surely be deceived,
And our impov'ish'd State relieved.
Your time to fall has come at last,
Your victories numbered with the past;
Your efforts, all, will be in vain,
For we must have our Chamberlain.

TO CHAMBERLAIN.
Don't be discouraged, let your spirits be good,
Your friends are alive and in a working mood;
Your chances are two to Frank Moses' one,
While chances for all others are few or none.
You're our choice, in the coming election;
Never mind Moses and the 'News' deception;
We shall not tire until you are elected
As Gov'nor—the man we've proudly selected.
H. POWELL COOKE.

THE LUTHERAN CHURCH.

This beautiful edifice will soon be completed. Situated in a central portion of Orangeburg, it is destined to be one of our most popular and fashionable Churches. When finished its capacity will seat over three hundred persons. The Altar is one of the most exquisitely arranged we ever saw and the pulpit is equally as pretty. The top is supported by scrolled brackets, and covered with velvet. Behind the pulpit against the wall is a large false panel with a circular head, containing two smaller ones in which it is intended that the Ten Commandments shall be painted in bronzed letters. The Altar is protected by a railing of beautiful design and finish. The seats are comfortable, the backs and fronts of which are painted white and the tops mahogany. There is one large half circular window over the door of entrance, on either side of which is a stupendous bull's eye, set in with blue glass. These glasses impart a soft and delicate tint to the gallery and everything in the Church. In fact, the Lutheran Church is one of the living religious edifices of Orangeburg now and its popular pastor, the Rev. A. G. Hough, will make it a blessing, we trust, to many a thirsty soul.

DOYLE'S CARRIAGE SHOP.

We paid a visit to this establishment one day this week and were shown through it by its industrious and courteous proprietor, Mr. P. Doyle. The lower story of the wood shop was the first place visited and we must say that we were struck with the style and amount of work carried on in this department. There were about six hands here hard at it, each doing his own part, and turning out different kinds of work. Mr. R. H. Wiles, one of the finest wood workmen in the county, was engaged on a body for a carriage, every part of which was put together so well that the joints were scarcely perceivable. We examined several specimens of wood work which had not been painted. They were made from the best materials and carefully put up. From this place we went up stairs where that indefatigable and model painter, Mr. James A. Williams, was at work with his brush. Mr. W. showed us a number of buggies and wagons he had painted, which for smoothness and exquisiteness of design are hard to beat. We took a look at the buggy which Mr. Doyle put in the last Fair. It is, indeed, a gem, and although Mr. D. didn't get the premium he has the name of building the finest buggy ever put up in these parts. His shop has turned out sixty-five wagons already this year. In a word, he has just as much work as he can do, and a reputation which will make it necessary for him to enlarge his shops in order to keep up with the demand made upon him. We wish him all the success that honest labor deserves.
