

LOCAL.

J. FELDER MEYERS, Assistant Editor.

SATURDAY, NOV. 14, 1874.

The fair is over and the election over, and now comes the circus. What next?

Divine services at the Episcopal Church to-morrow by Rev. Wm. H. Johnson.

Give us that new street. Cotton's coming in. Why not?

The Hook and Ladder Company meets on Monday night.

Yesterday morning was cloudy but about 10 o'clock the sun came out, and things looked more cheerful.

The weather changed considerably on Thursday last. Fires were necessary to one's comfort.

"My daughter, you are getting to be a naughty girl." "Yes, sir. I can't help it, papa, I've been wid dan ma."

A Philadelphia officer got up a jury of twelve cross-eyed men, and even the judge laughed. What would he have done had they been twelve scolding mother-in-laws?

The Aiken Courier-Journal, a new weekly published at that place, is upon our table. It is edited with much ability but decidedly democratic in tone.

We call attention to the raffle of a fine French Clock now to be seen at Mr. Eckel's store. It is to be raffled for twenty-five dollars less than cost. A pretty piece of furniture for two dollars for the lucky winner.

The Lutheran Church at this place will be dedicated to-morrow morning. Rev. W. S. Bowman, of Charleston, will preach the dedication sermon. The public are invited to attend.

AN OMISSION.—In our premium list, a diploma to Messrs. J. E. Adger & Co., for superior plows, "farmers friend," and the best and largest collection of agricultural implements, was omitted.

CAROLINA'S FAVORITE SHOWMAN.—Old John Robinson with his vast Show, comprising the greatest number of animals ever congregated together, will visit our Town on Wednesday December 2d. Don't fail to see the greatest Show in the world.

A protest has been entered against the election of the Democratic ticket in Lexington. Hays wants to be School Commissioner, but the Dispatch is inclined to throw cold water on his aspirations. Who cares? Robinson's circus is coming.

MR. CORNELSON.—The never-tiring merchant of Orangeburg, is doing a stunning business. His store is full of everything that one could want; and you can get some of them all for a little money. He pays, always, the highest market price for cotton, and he believes ships a larger quantity to Charleston than any of his competitors.

"Jones," of the Union-Herald, is now engaged in writing up the Columbia Fair. Some one compared him to a big Buffalo bull, and "Jones" got mad. He went home, he says, a "wiser man" than he ever was, or ever thought he would be. He wound up at Pollock's in the evening, and began to sing "Wearing of the Green." Where was Kennedy?

G. W. BAXTER.—Is in a receipt a new supply of groceries, such as flour, sugar, coffee, lard, bacon, salt, &c. He has received also a new and select assortment of whiskeys and wines, all of which he proposes to sell cheap. He gives good prices for cotton, produce of all kinds and buys all the poultry that is brought to him. Call and see him at his cheap cash store, North of the Corner.

THOS. CARTMILL.—That sterling son of Erin, and thorough-going merchant of our own good Burg, advertises anew to-day. Those of our readers who are fond of reading advertisements which promises good bargains, will do well to turn instanter to Mr. Cartmill's. He offers everything cheap, guarantees satisfaction all around and a happy life on new year's to all his customers. What more do you want?

C. D. KORTJOHN.—Did not vote the regular ticket on election day, but it cannot be disputed that he keeps a regular assortment of the best groceries and liquors in town. John is with him and a better hearted specimen of the Father Land never lived. Go to Kortjohn's if you want good bargains. He can sell you anything in his line that you want, and cheap for the money. Dick is still trotting in single harness.

Dr. Muokenfuss is the man to take care of teeth. No pain where he puts his hands. Over Capt. Briggmann's.

Dr. Dukes has just received a full stock of Christmas goods and presents in the way of toys and other articles too numerous to mention. Sherrol will be pleased to wait on all his old customers and the public generally in his usually accommodating manner.

NEW STREET—

That new street is a thorn in the side of those who love a plenty of ground to walk on. And our Town Council promised it to their constituents. Come gentlemen! Let us have that street. You see, we dislike to accuse you of breaking faith, because we don't want to accuse you (and we wouldn't for the world) of being like our native young Frank—our last, our present Governor of South Carolina. You had better keep a keen eye out. He's out of office now, and rumor has it that he will oppose you all here next time for Mayor. Mr. Larkins will be his private secretary.

AN UNSURPASSED BREECH LOADING GUN—

We received a few days since a double barreled breech loading shot gun from the large establishment of James Bown & Son, 125 & 129, Wood Street, Pittsburg, Pa. It is the most exquisitely finished thing of the kind that we ever saw. The carving upon it is superb, while its shooting qualities cannot be excelled. Mr. Peter Carson, our well known and skillful gun smith, after looking at it for some time, said "I declare it is the prettiest gun I ever saw." See the advertisement of Messrs. Bown & Son in another column.

M. ALBRECHT—

This name will strike our readers as a familiar one. Well it may, for Mat as he is familiarly known, is one of those few men who go to make up the best part of a community. But he is known fellow-citizens, that on this, the 14th day of November, 1874, it is our pleasure to announce to you the fact that Mat is playing a new role. And well does he fill his new place. His shoe store has been metamorphosed into a neat grocery, to the rear of which he dispenses that which Byron said made the best of life—good whiskeys. Mat took many of his friends by surprise, for if he had been the possessor of Aladdin's lamp, he could not have changed appearance more mysteriously. He sells first class groceries of the very best qualities at the lowest figures. We wish him success.

TRIAL JUSTICES—

Now that we have elected our Governor, and made great improvements in our County, let us turn our eyes to something else. We believe that our County affairs will be conducted for the next two years with honesty, economy and fairness to the people. But as it is within the power of the people, with the consent of our Senator (whom we know to be desirous of doing all in his power to better the condition of this County) why not let there be some changes made in the rank and file of the above named officers. Reports come to us of certain ones, which, if true, should never hold office under D. H. Chamberlain who said he "would not vote for a dishonest man if his name were on a hundred regular tickets." If he could not vote for them, can he retain them in office. We don't believe he will, and opine that before the 15th of December others will think with us.

SIG. SALVINO—

This gentleman assisted by Prof. Maurice and the Royal M. arrionets will give five of their popular entertainments at the Elliott Hook & Ladder Hall, commencing on Monday night next. That the entertainments will prove attractive and interesting, we judge from the following extract which we copy from the Abbeville Mail.

Knox's Hall, during the past week, has been the scene of more gay assemblages than were ever before known in Abbeville. Signo. Salvino, the Champion ventriloquist Nestor of art and ancestor of the world of magic, exhibited his wonderful performances to large attentive, appreciative and intelligent audiences for five successive nights. He pleased and profited all, who attended his exhibitions, and goes from Abbeville with a better and more brilliant reputation than any of his profession. The exhibitions of the Signor were excellent, and there was no vulgar or immoral feature connected with any part of them. A paying feature of the entertainments was the large number of costly and valuable presents given away to the audience. Hundreds of dollars were paid out in this place by the Signor in the purchase of gift articles and our community have received some benefit from his visit in the increased circulation of money. Most showmen take all the money with them—Silvano has left something behind. The Signor's tricks were new, and his precision and rapidity of execution were indeed wonderful. He is a prodigy in his art and we hope will not forget to visit Abbeville on his next great annual tour.

W. K. CROOK—

Is a prince of good hearted fellows, and has one of the prettiest little groceries in Orangeburg, to which is connected a bar in which he keeps liquors like unto those Noah got lively on, when the Ark rested on Mount Ararat. He sells everything of the best quality and at figures to suit his customers. Mr. Ed. Bizard is with him and endeavorers to excel many in politeness and energy. Mr. Crook has some of the finest segars we ever puffed.
