

Local Items.

Contractors will not be allowed, under their contracts, to advertise any other than their legitimate business, unless by paying specially for such advertisement.

New Advertisements. Petition to Establish Lien—W. I. Clawson, Registrar.

Personal. We are glad to see among us once more, the Rev. G. R. Brackett, former pastor of the Presbyterian Church at this place, and at present pastor of the first Presbyterian Church at Charleston.

Our old friend Gooding, has received a lot of "No. 1" horses and mules. "Riders" and "drivers" will take notice.

Ginning and Grinding. Mr. O. R. Thompson notifies his friends and the public generally, that he is now prepared to gin Cotton at short notice.

Seed Oats. We would call the special attention of planters to Mr. D. R. Flenniken's advertisement of white and black seed Oats.

Due West Female College. The thirteenth year of this flourishing Institution will open October 2nd, and close the middle of July, 1872.

Sixty Young Men's Democratic Clubs have been formed in Massachusetts. The young men of Pennsylvania are organizing in the same way with great enthusiasm.

We have received the premium list for the annual exhibition of the fair of the Carolinas, to be held in Charlotte, N. C., commencing Tuesday, October 24, and continuing four days.

A number of young men in Charleston have organized a society known as the South Carolina Benevolent Association the object of which is to visit the sick and administer to the needs and wants of the destitute.

A mounted club, to use only sabre and revolver, is to be formed in Charleston.

A cyclone passed over Spartanburg County on the 26th ult. Logs were carried a distance of 150 yards. Negro houses, fences and trees were blown in all directions.

Winnaboo Cotton Market. Our cotton market may be said to have opened in good earnest. On Saturday last, some 30 or 35 bales were on the street; and realized prices which we hope may compensate our buyers for their liberality in bidding.

Watermelons. Messrs. McIntyre & Co., will please accept our thanks for a large watermelon, sixty of which they have on hand. See advertisement.

Agricultural Society. We learn from the Barnwell Journal that Major Thos. W. Woodward, will deliver the annual address before the Barnwell Agricultural Society, in October next.

Attention. We call the attention of the County Commissioners to the two broken gutters attached to the jail; one on the north side and the other on the west. They are making ugly holes in the pavement and should be attended to at once.

Negro Ku Klux. We understand that a party of negro Ku Klux visited Ridgeway, in this County, last week. This, no doubt, is another Radical dodge to bring more troops and put the County under martial law.

Mt. Zion to be Rebuilt. We are glad to state that the Mt. Zion Society have gone earnestly to work to rebuild this ancient institution. The brick for its reconstruction are now being made on the farm of Capt. J. P. Macfie, and we hope ere long to chronicle the commencement of the building.

Will We have Martial Law? The Washington Chronicle, of Monday, says: It is understood that at the Cabinet meeting held on Friday last the letter of Senator Scott, of Pennsylvania, with accompanying documents relative to the Ku Klux disorders in South Carolina, came up for consideration.

The Detroit Free Press takes a gloomy view of things. It says: "No sane man will not set on a journey by rail or water, without first closing up all his business affairs and arranging his papers so that his executors can find them, and kissing his wife and children a last farewell. If he comes back all right, he can claim an interposition of Providence. If he comes back in pieces, his friends can claim that 'they told him so.'"

A Dutchman has got off the best thing on the New York Orange-Hibernian row: "If dey wants some fights, let em go back to de blaides dey cooms from and get all de lightings dey wants. What de tyvil have we Americans got to do mit der oranges and lemons and sich dings."

He is a pure gentleman, a gifted scholar and a disciplinarian of the first water.

A Good Disinfectant. An exchange says an excellent disinfectant is readily obtained by dissolving a bushel of salt in a barrel of water, and with the salt water slack a barrel of lime; which should be wet enough to form a kind of paste.

Something that every Farmer Wants. A copy of the American Stock Journal. The September number contains the usual variety of valuable information, written by the best and most practical writers in the country.

Long vs. Short Lamp Wicks. A correspondent of the Scientific American says: "Allow me to give your numerous readers the benefit of my experience with long wicks: I shall all the wick that I possibly can into the lamp, fill up the interstices with sponge, and saturate the whole thoroughly with kerosene. I have always found the supply sufficient for the longest winter's night; as long as any oil remains in the wick, the lamp keeps burning. I have had this fairly tested. One of my little ones—a two-year old, contrived to upset a small table supporting a lamp. With the exception of breaking the glass, no further damage was done, not even soiling the carpet. In fact my plan was brought about from a similar accident, and a narrow escape from serious damage. As the wick burns away I keep filling up with sponge; and I think I have the safest approach to a safely lamp."

A Mountain of Jasper. The Concord (N. H.) Patriot states that Professor Hitchcock's geological surveying party have discovered one of the Twin Mountains to be a solid mass of jasper. A few lake about the size of Plover Lake has been found upon Mount Kinsman, between the flume and Landaff, 3,800 feet up the mountain. In Waterville, Prof. Hitchcock made a discovery which he regards as not only interesting, but extremely important; gold far to determine the age of the mountains of the State. He found the Labrador spar formation, which is next to the oldest rock in ledges. This rock has never been found in New England, but is that which is found in connection with the rth ores of iron among the Adirondack mountains of New York. No iron was found, but strong indications of it. The party is now engaged in fixing the limits of this formation.

No Yellow Fever in Beaufort. The rumor has been circulated to the effect that the yellow fever was prevailing as an epidemic at Beaufort, and the report is published in one of the Savannah papers, which says: "We were informed last evening, upon very reliable authority, that the yellow fever has broken out at Beaufort; and that it has assumed an epidemic form. The report may be exaggerated; but that the disease exists there does not seem to admit of a doubt."

Parents are particularly cautioned not to allow their children to be waked up in the mornings; let nature wake them up, and will not do it prematurely; but have a care that they go to bed at an early hour; let it be earlier and earlier, until it is found that they wake up themselves to full time to dress for breakfast. Being waked up early, and allowed to engage in difficult or any studies late and just before retiring, has given many a beautiful and promising child brain fever, or determined offhandy ailments to the production of water of the brain.

A terrible kerosene accident occurred in Altoona, Pa., on Tuesday last. A woman named Mrs. Brown, in replenishing a lamp with oil while the wick was burning; caused it to explode; scattering the burning fluid over herself and sister. She then ran up stairs, communicating the flames to her husband and also everything in the house. The house was burned down, the woman and her sister have died; and the husband's recovery is doubtful. When will people learn the dangerous nature of kerosene oil.

The Detroit Free Press takes a gloomy view of things. It says: "No sane man will not set on a journey by rail or water, without first closing up all his business affairs and arranging his papers so that his executors can find them, and kissing his wife and children a last farewell. If he comes back all right, he can claim an interposition of Providence. If he comes back in pieces, his friends can claim that 'they told him so.'"

A Dutchman has got off the best thing on the New York Orange-Hibernian row: "If dey wants some fights, let em go back to de blaides dey cooms from and get all de lightings dey wants. What de tyvil have we Americans got to do mit der oranges and lemons and sich dings."

Flowers teach; as the teacher of God's character. If He had made nothing of this kind, if His works had been for bare utility, and had consisted of coarse and more substantial creations only, the tender side of the Divine character would have failed of the revelation it now has in nature.

A Babbridge student at Oxford college who wore his hair too long, was Ku Kluxed a few weeks ago when he was returning from interviewing the "light of his eyes," and brutally sheared, without the least regard to the prevailing mode of hair cutting.

A narrow gauge railroad from Chester, S. C., to Hickory Tavern, N. C., is being talked of in the Chester Reporter and Yorkville Enquirer.

Exuberant Health. It is a blessing vouchsafed to few. Even those who have been favored by nature with strong constitutions and vigorous frames are apt to neglect the precautions necessary to preserve these precious endowments. Indeed, as a rule, the more healthy and robust a man is, the more liberties he is inclined to take with his own physique. It is some consolation to the naturally weak and feeble to know that they can be so invigorated and built up by proper use of the means which science has placed at their disposal, as to have a much better chance of long life, and exemptions from disease and pain, than the most athletic of their fellows who are foolish enough to suppose themselves invulnerable, and act accordingly.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value. It is a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

Flowers teach; as the teacher of God's character. If He had made nothing of this kind, if His works had been for bare utility, and had consisted of coarse and more substantial creations only, the tender side of the Divine character would have failed of the revelation it now has in nature.

A Babbridge student at Oxford college who wore his hair too long, was Ku Kluxed a few weeks ago when he was returning from interviewing the "light of his eyes," and brutally sheared, without the least regard to the prevailing mode of hair cutting.

A narrow gauge railroad from Chester, S. C., to Hickory Tavern, N. C., is being talked of in the Chester Reporter and Yorkville Enquirer.

Exuberant Health. It is a blessing vouchsafed to few. Even those who have been favored by nature with strong constitutions and vigorous frames are apt to neglect the precautions necessary to preserve these precious endowments. Indeed, as a rule, the more healthy and robust a man is, the more liberties he is inclined to take with his own physique. It is some consolation to the naturally weak and feeble to know that they can be so invigorated and built up by proper use of the means which science has placed at their disposal, as to have a much better chance of long life, and exemptions from disease and pain, than the most athletic of their fellows who are foolish enough to suppose themselves invulnerable, and act accordingly.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach, the stomach, that a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts strength to the weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have introduced adulterations, which, as far as the blood is concerned, are of no value.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy life of the day. It is in the stomach, the stomach