

THE FAIRFIELD HERALD:

WINNSBORO. R. MEANS DAVIS, Editor.

Wednesday Morning February 10, 1875.

Three of the President's Cabinet, Bristow, Jewell and Delano, conspiring to discharge the New York Times and Evening Post as advertisers, because they differed in politics with the President and Cabinet.

Wherein does their case differ from that of Conservatives who discharged employees for political differences? And why may not Grant and his Cabinet be indicted for conspiracy under the enforcement act?

Gov. Chamberlain has addressed a letter to Senator Nash, the chairman of the Senate Finance committee, entreating him to reduce appropriations to within the amount realized by the taxes. If the Legislature passes an exhibitant appropriation bill it will be the duty of the Governor to veto it.

The Grand Jury of Charleston County have found eight true bills against the proprietors of the News and Courier for libel against the infamous Bowen and his crew. The News and Courier merely made a truthful exposition of the character of the knaves who had conspired to ruin Charleston County.

The Senate investigating committee reported that Senator Thad Andrews of Orangeburg has been guilty of conduct unbecoming a senator in combining with Humbert to shave county claims, and Smalls, Duncan and Jeter commend expulsion, while Whittemore and Smith recommend merely censure.

Judge Mackey has done a good work in Edgefield. His report to Gov. Chamberlain is able, exhaustive and we firmly believe, entirely correct in every particular.

The House of Representatives at Washington passed the civil rights bill on Friday by a vote of 162 to 100. The clause including schools and cemeteries was first stricken out.

The bill will not harm South Carolina as a more sweeping law is in existence here. But it will be productive of antagonism between the races in other States, and inasmuch as the black race is in a very small minority, it will suffer in the end.

We concur in the remarks of Mr. Crittenden, of N. Y., given below: Mr. Crittenden, (Ind.) said that he had been in full communion with the republican party, ever since there had been such a party in the country.

We submit that any man, who, in the midst of such harrowing scenes, and knowing that the verdict will be a death knell to himself or his opponent, can thus choose his word so as to make a pleasant jingle of sounds by the use of alliteration, is a hardened graceless sinner, and should be condemned forthwith.

real sentiment or passion displayed. In this connection, since Mr. Beecher appears more solicitous of acquiring a reputation for rhetoric than for chastity, we would suggest "slippery slimy" instead of "slimy slippery," as having a more "slippery slimy," and therefore Beecherian, twang about it.

The National Grange.

The National Grange met in Charleston on Tuesday, and will remain in session about a week. It is an important body, representing the agricultural interests of the entire Union.

The meeting of the Grange may be followed by important results. Rapid transit and cheap transportation are topics now of vital importance. The Great West is seeking an easy outlet to the Atlantic Ocean.

A Fence Law.

Notice has been given in the Legislature of a bill to submit to the people of each county the question of repealing the existing fence law. We trust that the bill will pass.

The Civil Rights Bill.

The House of Representatives at Washington passed the civil rights bill on Friday by a vote of 162 to 100. The clause including schools and cemeteries was first stricken out.

The bill will not harm South Carolina as a more sweeping law is in existence here. But it will be productive of antagonism between the races in other States, and inasmuch as the black race is in a very small minority, it will suffer in the end.

the same as in South Carolina. He believed the bill to be impolitic, and to be an offence to the dominant race. He regarded it as a cruel oppression to the weaker race at this stage of its struggle for a higher civilization.

We clip the following from the News & Courier.

"On Wednesday last the committee appointed by the stockholders of the Charlotte, Columbia and Augusta Railroad to consider the proposal of the South Carolina Railroad to lease the B. & A. road, met in Columbia, and after a lengthy session finally agreed to reject the proposal. The committee consisted of Mr. James H. R. on, of Winnsboro, Mr. J. B. Palmer, of Columbia, Mr. B. F. Newcomer, of Baltimore, Mr. B. D. Townsend, of Darlington, and Mr. W. H. Brawley, of Charleston.

As we are not behind the scenes we know nothing about the workings of this mysterious Southern Security Company. We do know, however, that no dividends have been paid the stockholders for many years, and that shares in the C. C. & A. R. R., are worth not more than ten cents on the dollar.

These two roads have been constantly at war, when all the interests of the State imperatively demand harmony of action between them. Charleston and the up country must be brought into intimate connection to insure the prosperity of the State.

A Defunct Triumvirate.

The great tidal wave of November, in its sweeping destruction of old landmarks, overwhelmed three notable characters in American politics, Ben Butler, Zach Chandler and Matt Carpenter. Ben was defeated overwhelmingly at the polls; Chandler and Carpenter have each been defeated by liberal republicans supported by democrats and independents.

The article of Union Herald is apparently a confession of past error. Let it wisely refrain from mistakes in the future. "When I put my foot down, I'll have you to understand said Mrs. N. J. Baker, 'that there's something there.'" On investigation, it was found to be a No. 11 shoe.

Conservative Sentiment.

We clip the following from the Union Herald: "Our exchanges and reports show a remarkable change in the public sentiment of the up country. This was the field where the red right hand of political disturbance had to be arrested by the national power.

This was the section where most of the troubles that afflicted the State existed. And yet now the most casual observer, traveling through that portion and conversing with the leaders of the people, finds a genuine pacification and a real satisfaction with the present republican administration. The fact is evident that Governor Chamberlain has already vindicated his patriotic resolution to become the governor of the whole people.

This article admits all that the conservatives have ever claimed. For the past several years the position assumed by the minority is that they recognize the validity of the amendments and are perfectly willing to accord to the colored man political equality. They have steadily maintained that they demand merely an honest administration of government; and their protest has been raised against knavery and corruption.

But it has been customary for vile radical organs and vile memorial committees to stigmatize the conservatives as blood thirsty ironcoated. The Union Herald itself has frequently proclaimed that the "democrat" grows not from any injury received but merely from hatred to republicans and hunger for office; and that no republican can live in the State without suffering ostracism.

The article of Union Herald is apparently a confession of past error. Let it wisely refrain from mistakes in the future. "When I put my foot down, I'll have you to understand said Mrs. N. J. Baker, 'that there's something there.'" On investigation, it was found to be a No. 11 shoe.
