

Humorous Department.

ONE OF THE FAMILY.

Ezry married a woman with the most tartation tongue you ever listened to.

As a result of this treatment at home, Ezry was inclined to spend overmuch of his time at the tavern.

One night his wife sent her brother out to "play ghost" and scare the drunkard into reform.

Ezry came up the road—across the road, too—and he was trolling one of the lusty old songs of Revolutionary days.

"Dev'nin'," said Ezry, cheerfully. "Listen to your doom," solemnly and in deep tones quoth the specter.

"I'm a spirit." "Glad to hear 't, ol' f'ler, glad to hear 't. Goo' sp't, I suppose? If you're good sp't I mus' stan' clever wiz you."

"Sp't evil! Don't shay sho. Wal, p'rhaps you're the devil himself." "Pu' 'er there, ol' boy, pu' 'er there. Come up t' house. Zhe'll be gla' to seee ye, that zhe will. S'pose ye know, of course, that I'm married to yer sister, Nancy."

A DROP IN PRICE.

"These fabulous stories your hear," said the Colorado man, "of the wonderful discoveries made and the prices received for claims in the mining regions bring back to my mind a story that used to be told in the earlier days of Colorado."

"A young chap had there located a claim in which he had every confidence that ore existed; but try as he would, he was unable to locate the precious metal, and little by little he became sicker and sicker at heart until at length there came a day whose closing was marked by clean discouragement on his part."

"The stranger slowly gathered up the reins. 'I'll give you $8,' he said tentatively. 'All in cash?' queried the late prospective millionaire eagerly. 'Yep,' was the response."

"The claim's yours," on the part of the mine owner closed the transaction. "New York Tribune."

MAKING HIM WHOLE.—"It takes the glorious old west to do business," said the man with the alligator grip as he boarded the train at St. Paul.

"Anything to relate?" queried one of the passengers as he woke up. "Just a few words. I traveled from New York to Chicago with a staving-looking girl. At Buffalo I was gone on her. At Detroit we were engaged. As we reached Chicago she had set the date. I returned home, wrote her 320 love letters, and came out here to get married."

"And what?" "She decided that she would marry another. She estimated the value of my time at $500, the worth of my letters at $300, and my broken heart at $200, and drew me a check for a thousand dollars, and here it is. Gave her a receipt in full to date, kissed her good-bye, and there you are and here I am. There's but one way to do business, and the west knows all about it. Yes, check for a thousand, and how many of you gentlemen will smoke a Henry Clay at my expense?"

A GRATEFUL PORTER.—Senator Clark, of Wyoming, Senator Shoup, General F. C. Ainsworth, Governor N. O. Murphy, of Arizona, and representatives and railroad men went on a tour of inspection a short time ago. They had a private car which was presided over by a porter named Johnson.

When the car got back to Washington the men made up a purse for Johnson, and Senator Shoup was selected to make the presentation. Johnson was called into one of the staterooms where the men had assembled. Senator Shoup scolded Johnson for his many delinquencies, but finished by saying:

"Notwithstanding all this, Johnson, we have decided to make you a little present, which I now take pleasure in handing you."

Johnson took the money and smiled. "Gem'men," he said, "I shore is grateful for this yer gif. You is all gem'men. Yas-ir, I kin shorely say you is all gem'men from Senator Shoup up."

Summary of the News That Is Being Published by Exchanges.

CLEVELAND — King's Mountain Oracle, April 11: We think it would be a surprise to the farming community if they could only see the large quantity of hay that is shipped here to be sold by our merchants and liverymen.

And lots of it is sold to farmers, too. Mrs. Dave Beam, of Shelby, was taken suddenly and violently insane on Saturday of last week. The first that was noticeable in her loss of mind was some strange actions with her little child, which she began to pinch and to make cry.

A physician was summoned, and it was decided to remove her to Morganton for treatment. On Sunday morning, about 3 o'clock, Angeline, the daughter of Mr. James McGinnis, peacefully fell asleep and her spirit quietly took its departure from his home of clay and winged its flight to keep company with the departed ones of earth.

Her death was attended by many sad circumstances. A young woman of 23 years, she had during the past few months assisted in the care of the sick in her father's family, of whom there were six sick in bed at one time, and finally herself was stricken with fever from which she was partially recovered when she took pneumonia, from which she never recovered.

She was buried Monday in the cemetery at Long Creek. Shelby Aurora, April 11: Mr. William A. Wray, of Carolee, N. C., died last Wednesday morning after a lingering illness, aged 61 years.

He had been a great sufferer for several years with rheumatism, but he bore his suffering with great fortitude. He was, for a number of years, a worthy and valued citizen of this county, high toned, honorable, quiet and law-abiding, the county mourns his death.

For several years he was engaged in the mercantile business in Shelby; but owing to ill health was forced to remove to quiet, country life. He was a brave and gallant Confederate soldier—loyal and steadfast—and his many old comrades in arms, will drop a tear upon his grave.

He was also a worthy and consistent member of the Baptist church, true to his church and his Master. The remains were brought to Shelby for interment on Thursday, and were laid to rest in Mountain View, under the sod of the country he loves so well.

A widow and six children survive him as follows: Mrs. Kate Elam, Mrs. S. W. Whisonant, Miss Annie Wray, David, William and Charlie Wray. He was also a brother of our townsman, John S. Wray, and Mrs. Jane Harrill, Mrs. M. L. Carroll, Mrs. Kate Borders, of this place, and Dr. James Wray, of Henry, N. C.

To the bereaved ones we tender our deep sympathy in their hour of sad affliction. CHESTER—The Lantern, April 10: Yesterday Walker-Gaston camp held its regular quarterly meeting. Delegates to the Lewisville reunion, as follows: W. H. Hardin, G. D. Heath, J. M. Brawley; alternates, H. W. Hafner, J. M. Grant, W. H. Hood.

A resolution was adopted thanking General C. I. Walker for the honor conferred upon the county and city of Chester in the appointment of Miss McFadden as state sponsor. We learn from W. H. Newbold, Esq., that it was Mr. J. J. Stone and not Mr. E. C. Stahn that swore out the warrant against W. S. Atkins on the charge of obtaining goods by false pretences.

On Friday, Chalmers Gaston was found guilty of assault and battery and sentenced to $35 or 30 days. Caldwell and Gaston for defendant. Coleman Lynn was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to four years. W. H. Newbold for defendant. Henry B. Howie pleaded guilty of assault and battery of high and aggravated nature, and the sentence of the court was that he pay a fine of $50.

It is understood that he pays all expenses of Mr. Jos. A. Walker, on whom the assault was committed, amounting to $75. Civil cases were taken up yesterday morning, the first being that of Sarah P. Carter against H. Coleman Jeffries. Verdict $50 for plaintiff.

CHEROKEE—The Gaffney Ledger, April 10: It pains us to chronicle the death of Mrs. Newberry, wife of Rev. J. J. Newberry, of this city, which occurred at her residence in this city yesterday. Mrs. Newberry was in her 66th year.

The people of Blacksburg were shocked when they learned, Thursday night, between 9 and 10 o'clock, that D. L. Brown was dead. It had been known for several days that he was sick; but no one thought that there would be such a fatal termination.

Fayette Brown, as he was called by his many friends, was born on Paoclet river, Spartanburg county, May 7th, 1856. He was the son of the late Wm. Brown and the youngest of seven boys. Early in life he married a Miss Lizzie Gregory, of Charlotte, N. C.

For a time he was engaged in business in Gaffney with his brother, and later on, in Charlotte, N. C. In 1887 he came to Blacksburg, and engaged in the mercantile business. He was an energetic and progressive citizen and took an active part in building up the town.

He was successful and accumulated considerable property. Wherever he went he made friends. He was frank, generous and with a lovable disposition. Never during the stay of your correspondent at this place has he seen such an outpouring of people—white and black—when he was buried. The services were very touching and as the body was lowered, tears not only came to the eyes of the women but to the men.

Blacksburg has lost one of its best citizens. He leaves a widow and five children. He was insured to the extent of about $11,500.

LANCASTER—Ledger, April 11: On Sunday morning last, Guy Lumpkins and Bob Brown, both colored, had a difficulty at the latter's home in Cedar Creek township, with the result that Bob emptied the contents of a double barreled shotgun loaded with buckshot in Guy's face and shoulder.

The trouble was about an ox that had been trespassing on some wheat. Guy's wounds are pronounced serious. Mrs. Beulah Truesdel, wife of Mr. Lem Truesdel, of Kershaw, and daughter of Mr. J. F. Cauthen, of that town, died last Thursday night at 11 o'clock.

Her husband and two children survive her. She was an estimable Christian woman and died in the full hope of enjoying the reward of the faithful. Miss Hattie Brooks, daughter of William Brooks, aged about 16 years, died at the Camden cotton mill the past week.

She was a native of this county and her remains were brought to Flat Creek church and interred. Married, on Sunday last, at the home of the bride's father, Mr. J. D. Hinson, near Primus, by Rev. Judson Blackmon, Miss Leslie Hinson and Mr. Marshall Fullerton, of Junction, Arkansas.

A remarkable appearance was observed high up in the heavens last Wednesday afternoon by the family of Mr. A. P. Robinson, who lives about two miles north of town. Their attention was first attracted by the shroudings of a negro woman in the yard.

She had discovered a large bright star in broad open daylight. Then two distinct moons appeared, and something like a large kite came in sight. But this was not all. A distinct full-sized windmill was seen floating through the air with a large dog following.

All these appearances had enormous tails as if to balance them and all were traveling westward. Mrs. Robinson watched the apparition, or whatever it was, as long as it was visible. The old colored woman was too frightened to observe long and put in the time by singing, praying and shouting.

We have several times urged the building of a cotton seed oil mill at this place. At last the project begins to take definite shape. Major E. F. Miller and Mr. W. J. Cunningham are interesting themselves in the enterprise, and all who expect to be fortunate enough to secure stock in it should notify one or the other of these gentlemen at once as to what amount of stock he wishes to subscribe for.

The capital stock will probably not be more than $25,000. Married, on Monday night, April 9th, 1900, at Mr. W. B. Knight's, by Rev. W. C. Ewart, Mr. Barber Hoke, of Spartanburg, S. C., to Miss Rosa Patton, of Catawba, S. C.

The announcement of the marriage was quite a surprise to the friends of both these popular young people. The groom is a brother of Mrs. W. B. Knight, and a prominent young lawyer of the firm of Sease & Hoke, at Spartanburg, and the bride is one of the most competent and popular teachers in the Lancaster graded school.

When the announcement was made it was feared that the school would lose her; but she has announced her intention of remaining and teaching out the term. Mr. Hoke will return to his business at Spartanburg in a few days.

GASTON—Gastonia Gazette, April 12: Dr. Henry Gleun, who has just graduated from the Atlanta Medical college and took third honor in a class of 71, was in town Friday.

The noon train yesterday was crowded with ministers, who came to attend the Mecklenburg presbytery, which meets at Olney church this week. Those who came in yesterday were Revs. R. A. Miller, W. O. Sample, Roger Martin, D. E. Bridges, Jonas Barkley, Stinson Temple, James Dorrittee, J. E. McMurry, S. A. Cathey, J. J. Harrell, A. A. Little. Several others are expected today.

This presbytery comprises the churches of Union, Anson, Stanley, Mecklenburg, Gaston, Lincoln, Cleveland, Rutherford and Polk counties. The foreigner who wandered off from the depot last week, an account of which appeared in our last issue, was found near Stanley, on last Thursday morning, by Messrs. Brown Peterson and Will Richards. They put him in a buggy and brought him to Gastonia.

The account we published last week was the means of setting the old man on his road again. He was probably a Hungarian; but his name could not authentically be ascertained as he could speak no word of English. He had lost his ticket in his wanderings. It is presumed that his people, to whom he is going, live out in the country, and he thought this was the station to get off at.

When his valise and bundle were given to him, he picked up the book—supposed to be a Bible—and kissed it. He came very near escaping the second time to Spartanburg. We hope he has reached his people by this time and is contented. It would be interesting to know his opinion of the treatment he received on his journey, and the account which he gave his daughter.

Sheriff Rhyne passed through the city Tuesday with Perry Williams carrying him to the penitentiary. Williams was sentenced to 13 years last fall for the murder of Roland Tate; but took an appeal. He has since decided to abide by the sentence, and goes to serve out his time.

One of the most prominent colored citizens of this place died last night at his home in the western part of town. John Blake Elder has lived in Gastonia about 20 years, and in that time has accumulated a considerable amount of property. His estate is estimated at between $2,000 and $3,000.

He was a member of the A. M. E. Zion church and also a prominent member of the Masonic and Odd Fellows orders. The funeral will be today. Rev. Cottingham will officiate, assisted by resident ministers. He will be buried by the fraternities of which he was a member.

to help the starving will please hand their contributions to Mr. J. A. Page, at the Gastonia Banking company.

RELIGION AND POLITICS.

In the Dewey Family They Constitute a Curious Mixture.

Washington Dispatch.

"Do you want to see a confessional in the White House?" A circular headed with the words quoted made its appearance at Chicago in July, 1896. It was scattered by thousands in the hotels and parts of the city where delegates to the Democratic national convention would be reached.

The circular made its appearance almost simultaneously with the arrival of the Ohio delegation and John R. McLean as the Ohio candidate. It was directed against the nomination of Richard P. Bland on the sole ground that Mrs. Bland was a Catholic.

Missouri friends of Mr. Bland, in charge of his interests, attributed the failure of his candidacy largely to the insidious appeal to religious prejudice against him. The Ohio delegation, more than any other, made use of it.

This reminiscence of the religious issue at Chicago in 1896 for the benefit of John R. McLean is recalled by the announcement that Mr. McLean's sister, Mrs. Admiral Dewey, has given up her pew in a Catholic church and has declared her intention to attend the Episcopal church with the admiral.

The members of the admiral's family refused today to discuss the report; but it is generally believed. The McLeans were not Catholics. In Cincinnati they were considered Covenanters, attending the church of their Scotch ancestry.

Mrs. Dewey has had a rather peculiar spiritual experience. After settling in Washington she became interested with a number of other ladies in theosophy. She was understood to be a believer in the doctrines of the adepts. Some years ago she gave up theosophy and took a pew in the Catholic church.

After the marriage last fall it was announced that the admiral, who had been an Episcopalian, would give up his pew and attend services at the Catholic church where Mrs. Dewey belonged. This was promptly denied, and it was officially stated that the Deweys would continue to hold three different church connections.

Now, with the admiral's political debut comes the withdrawal of Mrs. Dewey from the Catholic church. Admiral Dewey refuses to affirm or deny the report that his wife has left the Roman Catholic church and joined the Episcopalians.

He declines to let any one interview Mrs. Dewey on the subject. The admiral declares that it is nobody's business what religion Mrs. Dewey chooses to embrace, and he claims for himself and wife the right to worship as they please.

The admiral says he has no prejudice against any one on account of their religion or curiosity as to their church affiliations, and he asks for his family relief from a curiosity which he deems impertinent.

The subject of Mrs. Dewey's conversion or renunciation, has created an immense amount of talk everywhere in the national capital. The rumor was not started in the idleness of gossip; but came from sources known to be entirely friendly with the Deweys.

There are many who believe that the story was put out deliberately to relieve the admiral's candidacy of what was considered a handicap. The result is entirely different from that expected. It has not pleased the members of the Protestant churches, and it certainly has produced no satisfaction among the Romanists.

Mrs. Dewey has not attended the church of the pastor of which married her, since that interesting event. She had a pew in St. Paul's Roman Catholic church, but it has not been rented by Mrs. Dewey since January, the beginning of the quarter year, which is the time for pew rentals. It is said that the admiral's wife has been attending the Episcopal pro-cathedral occasionally.

Admiral Dewey is an Episcopalian, and his parish is the fashionable one of St. John's which has been attended by presidents and distinguished people for nearly 100 years. To go to St. John's church would have attracted immediate attention to Mrs. Dewey, so she has visited the church of her husband's faith out of the center of fashion.

TUBERCULOSIS IN CATTLE.

An Important Bulletin Just Issued From Clemson.

A bulletin of considerable interest to stockmen has just been issued from the South Carolina Experiment station. It is on the subject of tuberculosis (consumption) in cattle and deals with the subject in such a way to make it clear to any intelligent reader.

The bulletin is divided into three parts. Part 1 is a general discussion of tuberculosis, showing that it is a contagious disease, affecting mostly men and cattle, and may be transmitted through air, water, food, milk, or flesh.

It is most dangerous in close barns where sanitary conditions are poor, especially bad ventilation. A table is given showing that out of 87,000 head of cattle in 20 states, 22 per cent, or nearly one in every four animals were tuberculous.

Of this number, however, only 200 head were tested in South Carolina, so that no conclusion as to its existence here is reached, more than that several tuberculous cows were found in one herd.

Part 2 describes the tuberculin test showing that tuberculin is a laboratory product made by growing the germs of the disease in a special beef tea culture medium, and then extracting the poison toxin separate from the germs.

This is the first attempt at a systematic test in this state.

Part 3 deals with legislation with a view to controlling the spread of disease. Special mention of the "Danish System" of quarantine is made and this course is recommended instead of such radical measures as slaughter.

Municipal meat and milk inspection is briefly discussed. Copies of the bulletin may be had by addressing the S. C. Experiment station, Clemson College, S. C.

UNCLE SAM'S SURPLUS.

Annual Revenues More Than Eighty Millions In Excess of Expenditures.

The secretary of the treasury on Tuesday sent to congress his reply to the house resolution of April 2d, which called for information as to whether, in his opinion, the present revenue laws are creating and will continue to create a surplus in the treasury, and if so, to what extent at the end of the current fiscal year, and a like report as to the next fiscal year, also his estimates of the probable receipts of the treasury from all sources of revenue for those years, and also the amount of internal revenue taxes received under the war revenue act upon articles not heretofore taxed.

The secretary in his reply estimates the surplus for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1900, at $70,000,000 as follows: Receipts—Customs, $233,000,000; internal revenue, $292,000,000; miscellaneous, $35,000,000. Total, $560,000,000.

Expenditures—Civil, $14,000,000; war, $135,000,000; navy, $55,000,000; Indians, $11,000,000; pensions, $143,000,000; interest, $42,000,000. Total, $490,000,000.

The surplus for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1901, is estimated at $82,000,000, as follows: Receipts, customs, $240,000,000; internal revenue, $300,000,000; miscellaneous, $37,000,000. Total, $577,000,000.

Expenditures, civil, $115,000,000; interest, $40,000,000. Total, $495,000,000. Total internal revenue taxes received under the war revenue act upon articles not therefore taxed was $79,055,249.

This amount includes $45,724,541 for the fiscal year 1899 and $33,330,708 for the first nine months of fiscal year 1900. Under schedule "A" $38,618,081 is given for 1899 and $37,439,622 for first six months of fiscal year 1900; under schedule "B" $5,219,727 and $3,403,800; legacies, $1,235,435 and $1,660,372; excise tax, $643,446 and $820,010; mixed flour, $7,841 and $6,314.
