SOUTH CAROLINA NEWS.

Murphy Escapes From the Pen. News and Courier, Friday: D. C. Murphy and W. H. Collins, two life convicts, escaped from the penitentiary last night by means of an ingenious They were both in the same cell and they sawed away the hinge of their cell door, which is situated on the third tier of the prison building. After crawling along the corridor they let themselves down to the yard and in the shadow of buildings in the yard got to the wall next to the canal and escaped. Both are white men; Murphy being the convicted murderer of Treasurer Copes, in Orangeburg. Collins is a man sentenced for life for burglary and compound larceny in 1895, in Pick ens county. The two men were em-ployed in the hosiery mill, Collins being in charge of the yarn "district" in the mill, and Murphy being a hose inspector. The men have been confined in the old prison ward while the new building is being erected. They evidently concocted their scheme and secreted a small five-inch saw when they had the opportunity, as well as som products of the hosiery mill. The es cape was discovered in the morning and Superintendent Griffith immediately sent out armed mounted guards or each side of the river to capture them Collins is a man of some intellect and he has a sense of humor and sarcasm which is well shown by inscriptions left on the wall of the cell. One was: "In God we trust. God be with us 'til we meet again." Another is: "Out for South America. W. H. Collins, D. C. Murphy. Good-bye, for we are gone. On the wall where the door had been On the wall where the door had been torn off was this: "God will deliver peace and good-will to all men." Murphy tried to escape once before; but was caught and closely watched. While in the penitentiary he pretended to be very ignorant; but after his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment by Governor Ellerbe he got much more in-telligent and has been a convict who has been generally watched. The then City Attorney Carroll, of Augusta, who believed honestly in Murphy's innocence, made a number of trips here and had more to do with the governor's action than any other man. Militia at the Fair.

Adjutant General Floyd has sent out the following to the captains of the various militia companies throughout the state: "Sir: Arrangements are now being perfected, to have during fair week in Columbia, a grand parade and review of the State volunteer troops by his excellency, the governor and his staff, and also for a competitive prize drill contest between infantry companies composing the state volunteer service. Both are to be held during the week of the state fair—the drill contest on Wednesday, October 31, and the parade review on Thursday, November 1. Six hundred dollars in money prizes will be awarded by competent judges to the three companies showing the greatest efficiency—$300 to the first; $200 to the second and $100 to the third. It is also contemplated offering a handsome silver souvenir, as an individual prize, to the man showing the greatest proficiency of drill in the manual of arms. Tents will be pitched and camp made ready to receive the troops as soon as they arrive, and meals will be provided for the men while in camp free of charge. Therefore the only expense to be incurred by the companies is the railway fare to and from Columbia. I earnestly urge that captains exert themselves to bring as nearly as possible the full strength of their commands—not only that they may reap the benefits of camp experience—but to swell the disease, and therefore requires constitu-number and add to the appearance tional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, of the parade and review as well. Cav-manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co. welcomed in the encampment and parade, though no prize drills can be arranged for those branches of the service this year. A squad of 21 men, rank and file, will be required from each company entering the prize drill contest. I desire to impres upon you the necessity of assembling your company at once, and advising me at the paradel of the service of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. Murder In Columbia. Columbia correspondence News and Courier: Howard Allen, a well-known young man who has for sometime beer engaged in 'sporting life," was tonight shot and killed by Ed Smith, a visit-ing and unknown "sport." Allen was popular young man and lived here all his life. He was about 26 years of age, married, and leaves a wife and three small children. His father was a well-known engineer on the Columbia. Cheraw and Anderson railroad. When a lad Allen played baseball for the Mechanics and other teams here; generally he pitched. Later he was time-keeper at the Southern Railway, and two or three years ago he went into the "sporting" business, and was a manager or assistant in one of the gambling places here. He was a clever, open-handed and well mannered young man. He never drank or showed any bad habits, ex-cept that he made his living out of the card room; but he had the reputation of being a straight player, and would allow no underhand business about his place, and it was because of his ordering Smith to keep away from his place that he was killed. Smith has been in Columbia for some little time. He is of a rather florid complexion and wears eye-glasses. The story of the killing is that Allen met Smith at the door and told him that he was not wanted in the place, and to get away. They had some words when Smith started down the steps. He called back at Allen and Allen said something to him, whereupon Smith fired on Allen. The bullet struck Allen in the stomach with deadly effect. Smith in turning around on the steps lost his balance and fell. He jumped up and ran down the street without his hat, and, going down Plain street turned into Assembly and soon caught a hack. He made the hack-man take him, at the point of a pistol and was going down Assembly street, when intercepted by Policeman Dowle. The police station had been advised of the shooting, and telephone messages had been sent out to all the men to keep on the lookout for Smith, and when Policeman Dowle saw the hack coming at full tilt, he ordered it stop-ped at the point of his pistol, and Smith_surrendered and was taken to jail. He made no statement tonight.
Allen lived for awhile. Dr. Kendall and Dr. Gibbes were called in and did what little could be done, and Mrs. Allen was sent for and reached the scene just as the young man was dy-ing. In his dying statement Allen said that he had been shot by Smith. When the doctors came to him he was told that he could not live, and when told that he could not live he said that it was awful and spoke to his friend, Mr. Brooks Harley, and begged him to take care of his wife and family. Allen was conscious to the very last, and spoke to his friend, Mr. Harley, and when his wife came, spoke to he and told her that his end was near and embraced her. Mr. Harley in talking about the affair said that ne had received a letter several days ago warning him against Smith, Sims and Mc-Elroy. It was stated that the three men were crooks, and were coming here to go into the policy business and to beware of them. The three went to the place together; but Smith was GROCERY'S FREE CHINA COUthe place together; but Smith was ahead of the others, and the encounter was between him and Allen Sims and McElroy being further down the stairs, and all of them were denied admission to the rooms. The mother of Allen was sent for; but arrived at the rooms after the death of her son.

The police tonight arrested a young man named Langford, who is held to await developments and will be asked to quit the city.

crop. Everything he sells must be at a certain per centage of profit higher than it would be if he sold for cash. For instance a merchant sells $100,000 worth of goods in a year on "papers." When fall comes, and bad crops have been made, he experiences trouble in making collections. Suppose he fails to collect $5,000 of his accounts. And also finds it necessary to take in 25 or 30 mules on mortgages. The $5,000 he fails to collect is a dead loss unless he tacks t on in small per centages to the cash buyer.
