Later Hill bought it at a much lower some replanting with cotton, others sowing food crops. Cotton seed is scarce, nearly all of it having been sold price than that originally contracted for. The suit was for a difference. The scarce. to the oil mills, and at this late season fury found for the plaintiff in the sum t is expensive to plant cotton, as grass of $54.35. omes up with it.

The greater portion of Wednesday and until Thursday morning, was de-voted to the case of W. Brown Wylie, trustee, against the Commercial and Farmers' Bank of Rock Hill. This case is a most interesting and important one, involving the fortunes of several prominent and highly esteemed citizens of Rock Hill. It grew out of the fail-ure of the Commercial and Farmers'

Bank of Rock Hill. R. Lee Kerr, as re-ceiver for the Rock Hill Cotton Manu-facturing company, had deposited the funds realized from the sale of the mill in the Commercial and Farmers' Bank. Alleging that the Commercial and Far-mers' Bank was in imminent danger of mers' Bank was in imminent danger of insolvency, the creditors of the mill pe-titioned the court to transfer the deposit to the National-Union, or some other bank that would be safer than the Commercial and Farmers'. In order to circumvent this move, the Commercial and Farmers' Bank, gave a bond in the sum of $50,000, guaranteeing the pay-ment of all the checks drawn upon the funds of the cotton mill by R. Lee Kerr, receiver. The bond was made to W. Brown Wylie, and was signed by A. E. Smith, A. H. White, W. C. Hutchison, V. Brown McFadden and R. Lee Kerr. When the bank went into the hands of a receiver, Judge Benet issued an or-der instructing R. Lee Kerr, receiver, to draw his check for the mill's bal-ance in the bank, in favor of W. Brown Wylie, trustee, and instructing W. Brown Wylie, trustee, to present that check to the officers of the bank. R. Lee Kerr, receiver, drew his check for a balance amounting to $26,200, and W. Brown Wylie, trustee, presented the check to D. Hutchison, receiver of the bank, who claimed that he had no authority to pay. Then, following the fur-ther instructions of the court. W. Brown Wylie, trustee, immediately brought suit against the signers of the brought suit against the signers of the guarantee bond referred to. Thos. F. McDow, Esq., brought the suit, after associating Mr. W. B. Wilson. The de-fendants were represented as follows: Major James F. Hart for the receiver; C. E. Spencer, Esq., for A. H. White: Finley & Brice for V. Brown McFad-den. W. C. Hutchison, R. Lee Kerr and A. E. Smith failed to put in answers. A. E. Smith failed to put in answers. The defense put up no testimony, al-though most of the defendants were put on the stand by the plaintiffs. The bond was there to show for itself. The shown that the alleged witnesses had not really witnessed the signing of a single name. Mr. V. Brown McFad-den testified that he had not read the signatures of the defendants were all right; but among other things, it was den testified that he had not read the bond, but had signed it under the impression that it was a mere petition to the court to allow the mill receivership funds to remain in the bank. The jury took the case at 10 o'clock Thursday towns. The health of the place is good, of the jurors in the room gave rise to the opinion that there would necessarily be a mistrial. Yesterday it developed that when the jury first went into the room there were two for the plaintiffs and ten for the defendants. The ten were confused by the fact that the al-leged witnesses of the bond had not certurally coord the room and content of the room and defendents. actually seen it signed. The presbytery of Enoree, which met at Lockhart last week, was a decided success and the presbyters are loud in their praises of the cordial welcome extheir praises of the cordial welcome ex-tended them by the people of that mod-el mill town. Quite a large congrega-tion from the town and surrounding country attended the night meetings. The people of the different denomina tions took great interest in the visitors and tried to make each enjoy them elves.

Among the many attractions of the town, we find they have a first class band, which was taught by that most proficient musician, Prof. Herndon, of Yorkville, than whom we know of no one better qualified to teach them. They play well and I only regret I could not have heard more of them.

The Salem Sunday school speaks of getting them to play at their Children's Day about the first of August, if everything is favorable. We find that THE ENQUIRER has a very large circulation at Lockhart. In fact, I understand it has more subscribers than any other weekly or semi-weekly that goes to that office.

The Presbyterians have just completed a beautiful brick church at Lockhart. It will comfortably seat perhaps 700 persons. They have also a firstclass church choir which was led by Prof. James Evins, who was assisted by Miss Nannie Keasler at the organ and Messrs. Ross and Wherry with their cornets. The music added greatly to the pleasure of the occasion. We find a great many York county people at Lockhart, and are glad to say they express themselves generally as well satisfied with their work and surroundings. The town is made up prin-cipally of Chester, York, Cherokee and goes there will find work to do, and if he doesn't choose to join his children in demand. That our efforts in this line are appreciated is evi-denced by the large sales of Clothing that we have made since the spring season opened and are continuing to make from day to day. It is now natural for everybody to put it down just this way: "Well, I want a suit of Clothes. I want something good. I want it at a fair price. I don't want to buy something trade, because we have built it up to large proportions simply on a foundation of honest merit of our qualities, coupled to our proverbially short profits, which means low prices.
