JAMES W. DUFF.

Well Known Blacksburg Business Man Passes Away. Correspondence of the Yorkville Enquirer.

BLACKSBURG, July 15.—Yesterday at 2.20 o'clock, Mr. James W. Duff, one of our prominent young business men died at his home in this place. Although he had been quite unwell for over a week, yet he was able to go to his store every yet he was able to go to his store every day and his death was a surprise and shock to our community. Yesterday morning, after a sleepless night, he seemed more nervous and weaker than usual, but went early to his store gave directions for the day and returned home about 9 o'clock to rest and ed home about 9 o'clock to rest and sleep. About 12.30 o'clock Mrs. Duff atsleep. About 12.30 o'clock Mrs. Duff attempted to wake him, but failed. Physicians and neighbors were called in and every known means used to arouse and restore him, but all efforts proved unsuccessful. Services by Rev. Mr. McCutcheon, his pastor, are being held in the Presbyterian church this morning over his remains, when they will be taken to Rock Hill for interment. taken to Rock Hill for interment.

Mr. Duff was the eldest son of Mr.

John Duff, now residing in Gaffney, and was born in Rock Hill about thirty years ago. He has been a resident of Blacksburg about ten years and has been prominent in the business, social and church affairs of our town. He was junior member of the mercantile firm of Jones & Duff, a trustee of our graded school, and a deacon of the Presbyterian church. He also belonged to the orders of Masons and Knights of Pythias. He was happily married in 1897 to Miss Blanche May, of Rock Hill, who with two children, survives him and mourns the loss of a kind and loving husband and father. Besides these he leaves a father, several brothers and sisters with other relatives and many friends to grieve for the sudden taking off of one so young and capable. W. A.

SOUTH CAROLINA NEWS. Wanted, Legislative Candidates. August' Kohn in News and Courier: There appeared in the Spartanburg Herald yesterday this very pertinent editorial paragraph: "Wanted, Legisditorial paragraph: "Wanted, Legislative Candidates." There is a vast deal of serious significance in the paragraph. Sometime ago there appeared in this correspondence the following paragraph: "The conditions in this county are very much as they are in most of the state. Substantial business men cannot be induced to make the sacrifice of running in the primary sacrince of running in the primary and going to the general assembly. At least up to the present time there are no candidates offering from that class. If Richland county, or Charleston county, or any other county could, for instance, get on the delegations such men as are on Columnia. delegations such men as are on Colum-bia's sewerage commission, their work would be of untold value, and the com-munities would be certain to be bene-fitted. It is a great pity that experi-enced business men are not now offerenced business men are not now offering for positions in the house, as was the case before the primary system was started. Of course, it is all very well to give the young men a chance, and no one could object to this custom, but there ought to be a good leaven of wiser heads and business experience, as this state is now so deeply interested in industrial and business matters. The cry from Spartanburg is the ech of the same conditions that exist here and in Charleston, and in Union, Chester, Greenville and thirty odd other counties in the state. It is a lamentable condition and demands the serious attention of the voters of South Caro-lina. It is all very well to have a lot of young lawyers, striving for fame and experience, run for the general assembly. It is a laugable ambition and nmendable as things now go, and it is well that they run to keep out men less educated and with narrow men less educated and with narrow views. But what is needed is a little leaven of experience. Young lawyers are hard workers and ambitious, farmers are generally pretty level-headed, but what is badly needed is a larger and stronger contingent of business men—men who have made successes at their homes. The day of prejudice against the hank president or the mill and stronger contingent of business men—men who have made successes at their homes. The day of prejudice against the bank president or the mill president or the large merchant, who is a success, has passed, and what the Spartanburg Herald ought to do is to persuade some such men as John B. Cleveland and J. H. Montgomery and A. H. Twitchell and Arch B. Calvert to sacrifice their time and serve their people. They will do good. They will set the fashion and other business men will consent to serve their state, as set the fashion and other business men will consent to serve their state, as they did in the constitutional convention, and as too few now in the legislative bodies do. It has been my fortune to be intimately associated with the work of the general assembly every year since 1892, and without any exaggeration it can be said that one sound, solid, experienced business man is worth to his county three average legislators. What he says is listened to.

What he says is believed and what is more it counts and often leads the way out of the wilderness of confusion. It is a good investment for any county, and, what is more, such legislators are and, what is more, such legislators are not looking aheau to election to some state office or to get on some board. Such men can and do make more at home and they are free to act and work without fear of injuring their personal prospects. The tax and financial conditions of the state are serious. They need good and experienced workers to untangle them and to do the right thing by all interests, and it is natural that those who have worked most in such matters know best how to solve such problems. Unfortunately, however, most people seem to be satisfied ever, most people seem to be satisfied to let things jog along, until some day there will be a very rude awakening The business interests have been too indifferent. In every county at least one substantial merchant or "man of affairs" should be included in the delegation; and the masses would be the gainers, simply because those who pay the bulk of the taxes are far more interested in the vital affairs of their state than those who barely pay more than their poll tax.
