

people will iron, equip and operate a standard gauge road to the terminus. The idea of crossing the mountains will probably not be entertained for sometime unless the Carolina and North-Western should fall into the hands of a great system, which is not likely. So the present proposition is, we think, the best that the people in this part of the country may expect. The people of Patterson have offered a similar proposition to the railway company in the past, as far as that place, and perhaps stand ready to do their part in the matter now, should that way be selected. The cost of grading the line twenty miles is estimated at $5,000 per mile, and it seems to us this amount could be raised in subscriptions by the people interested if the proper effort be made. The people of Blowing Rock are becoming interested in the subject. Postmaster Edminstin, Messrs. J. B. Clarke, T. H. Coffey and others being ready to subscribe liberally to the project. Rural communities and small towns must do something to get railway facilities, and those interested, by making the proper effort, can now get this road we feel assured.

Fort Mill Family Re-Unions. Fort Mill Times, August 13: The seventh annual reunion and picnic of the Culp family was held Thursday in the beautiful grove adjoining the hospitable country home of Misses Alice and Bessie White. The attendance at the reunion Thursday was scarcely as large as that of former years, which is accounted for by the fact that another and like gathering was in progress in this vicinity at the time. Nevertheless there were about 75 of the family and connections present, and the occasion was one of much enjoyment. In the forenoon the young people engaged in different kinds of games, swinging, etc., while the older ones sat in groups discussing pleasant incidents of the past and live topics of the day—candidates being excluded. Dinner was announced promptly at 1.30, and in quality and quantity it was one which is seldom excelled. After dinner the young people repaired to one of the spacious rooms of the residence and for a short while indulged in dancing. Following this a pleasant meeting, with Mr. T. G. Culp chairman, was held in which a number of resolutions for the improvement of future reunions were passed. The crowd then enjoyed a feast of watermelon. It was decided to hold the next reunion at the home of Mr. W. J. Stewart on the 1st Thursday in August, 1903. Music for the occasion was furnished by the local string band. The annual Massey family reunion was held Thursday at the handsome suburban home of Mr. J. M. Spratt. There were present 36 children, grandchildren and one great-grandchild. There were 11 others closely connected with the family, but not direct descendants of the late B. H. Massey, whose memory they are wont to cherish. It was a happy day, for everything was at hand that had a tendency to promote happiness. The dinner was a feast that lasted for nearly two hours, for one good thing followed another in succeeding courses. A feature of the occasion was the presence of five sisters of the Halle side of the family whose ages ranged from 51 to 75 years. Around them centered the popular interest of the day. The little children all but sufficed for attention on account of it. And when it came to posing for the picture they were given the front seat of the group. The five sisters were Mrs. B. H. Massey, Mrs. S. H. Stephenson, Mrs. Susan Brewer, Mrs. R. H. Mills and Mrs. Kirkpatrick Shannon. They were all once accomplished musicians and it afforded much pleasure and amusement to have each one reluctantly take her turn at the piano and endeavor to coax the former nimbleness into fingers that had attracted a stubbornness from long idleness. But they did it and very cleverly too.

The Betting in Columbia. Columbia Record, Thursday: There is still considerable betting going on to the gubernatorial outlook. Three bets, each of $100 even, were made yesterday that Tillman would not be governor. The bets, as a rule, were made up as pools, a number of men contributing to make up the sum. There was plenty more anti-Tillman money afloat at the same odds, but the three bets referred to were the only ones heard of having any considerable sum involved. Quite a number of small bets were made that Jim Tillman would not be in the second race. The Jim Tillmanites seem much more confident that their hero will get in the second race than they are that he will be governor; nevertheless they decline to offer any odds on it and bets are even on this feature of the race also. These seem to be practically all the kinds of bets that are made generally, it being conceded that Heyward will be in the second race. Talbert or Tillman are talked of for second place, and a bet made that Tillman will not be in the second race, as a rule supposes that Talbert will.
