

Not an Epidemic. Columbia Record: A few days ago, Governor Heyward received a letter from an ex-member of the legislature in Williamsburg county stating that many Negroes were dying in that section from a lung disease and that they were too poor to pay for medical attention. The governor referred the matter to Dr. James Evans, secretary of the state board of health, who sent Dr. Peter Bacot, of Charleston, to investigate. Dr. Bacot said in his report that he found a number of cases of consumption as was reported, but that no epidemic was present. He found upon inquiring that the Negroes in the neighborhood led a very dissipated life and that a considerable amount of sickness was due to this, besides that they were improperly clothed and were otherwise exposed. The disease is among both sexes. Dr. Bacot says that his first notice of consumption among Negroes was in 1876 when he was secretary of the board of health in Charleston, and after looking into the matter found that those who died from this disease, were inhabitants of damp places and lived under unhealthy conditions. The complaint made to the governor stated that the Negroes were too poor to afford medical treatment, but they are in as good circumstances as Negroes are in any place. Even if they are paupers, Dr. Bacot says that the state would not take care of them, but that they should be sent to the county poor house and looked after there. The case, distressing though it may be, is not one contemplated by the provisions of the state board of health. It is not such a disease as might be spread through the state and the powers of the board are only advisory.

Presence of Mind and Courage.—Says a Chicago dispatch of Wednesday to the New York Tribune: By drawing a revolver and threatening to kill any man who dared to open the doors of a compartment in which a gang of men were working in the northern tube of the North river tunnel, Superintendent Brady has saved his own life and the lives of fourteen other men in the compartment and prevented the flooding of the tunnel. Brady had been expecting a break in the roof of the "black hole" and when it came and the water began pouring in he quickly pushed his coat, vest and hat into the aperture. Nearly all of the men were Italians and became panic-stricken. They made a rush for the door of the compartment. Brady, pointing his revolver at the man nearest the door, threatened to kill him if he moved another step. The opening of the doors would have permitted the compressed air in the compartment (thirty-eight pounds to the square inch) to escape and the break would have instantly enlarged and the water flooded the compartment, drowning all hands. Calling upon one of the more experienced workmen, Brady instructed him to telephone to the Jersey City terminal for more air pressure and to send him a carload of saw dust bags. He had the Italians thoroughly cowed and, when the bags arrived under the persuasive influence of the drawn revolver the Italians pushed the bags into the hole and then put a jack underneath to hold them in place.

SPECIAL PENSION LEGISLATION.—A typical sample of the special legislation which characterizes every congress has just come to the attention of your correspondent. One Thomas J. Morman, of Columbus, Ga., enlisted for the Mexican war September 1, 1847. In December he became involved in a scrape, was tried by court martial in January 1848, and found guilty of being accessory to murder, sentenced to various penitentiaries at the close of the war. He subsequently deserted and was absent during January and February 1848. After the war he deserted his wife and ran away with another woman, to whom he was never married. Since that time, Morman and his wife have both died. The woman with whom he ran away has secured the passage by congress of a bill (Private No. 473) "correcting Morman's record" so as to make it appear that he was honorably discharged. Now the woman referred to has applied for a pension and it is feared that if the pension commissioner refuses the pension, as he will if possible, congress will pass a special pension bill allowing it. The prevalence of this type of legislation is well known to every person familiar with congress and is creating a drain on the government funds which is appalling.—Washington Letter.

Why Wheeler Was Snubbed.—"Fighting Joe" Wheeler, the cavalry leader of the south in the civil war, at the recent Confederate reunion in New Orleans, appeared in the uniform of a brigadier-general of the United States army. Herebefore General Wheeler has divided honors with General John B. Gordon at Confederate reunions, but the old soldiers of the "Lost Cause" resented the appearance of General Wheeler among them in a uniform of blue, and they made him feel keenly their resentment. One of the ex-Confederate generals present rebuked General Wheeler for appearing at the reunion in the uniform of the United States army. "What do you think," this general asked Wheeler, "Lee and Jackson would say to your appearance at a Confederate reunion in that uniform?" Wheeler, it is said, is deeply hurt by the attitude of his old comrades. The general says that he appeared at the reunion he wore in the Spanish-American war to show the veterans that sectionalism was indeed over, when a general officer of the Confederacy had the right to wear the uniform of a general of the United States army. The veterans think, however, that the uniform was out of place at their reunion.—New Orleans correspondence Atlanta Journal.

Tobacco Tax Rebates. Columbia correspondence of the News and Courier: In about sixty days the internal revenue department will commence the payment of the rebate tobacco claims in this state. Before these are made there are still about 3,000 claims of other states to be considered, the department having disposed of 46,284 warrants. The internal revenue officers have forwarded to Washington 1,521 claims, amounting to $59,913.07, and some idea of the amount of labor involved on these can be obtained when it is stated that it takes at least twenty minutes to check each claim, five comparisons being made.

THE CASE OF ERNEST HAYWOOD.—The habeas corpus proceeding in which Ernest Haywood, charged with the murder of Ludlow Skinner here on February 21, seeks bail, began today before Justices of the Supreme Court Douglass and Walker. A great crowd was present. Two witnesses were heard, their character proven and court adjourned till tomorrow.

Benard A. Schmitz, a lawyer of Baltimore, who was here that day, testified that Skinner struck Haywood, knocking him down and backed away, putting his hand to his pistol pocket, and that Haywood then fired. The second shot fired, he said, was while Skinner was in the street going from Haywood.

R. N. Simms, a young lawyer, regarded as the star witness for the defense, testified the same as Schmitz, except that he told of no attempt of Skinner to draw a pistol. The case will last well into next week, and there will be two sessions a day. Haywood is looking thin and his hair has turned almost white. He is very cool and shows no uneasiness in his face.—Raleigh dispatch of Thursday.

About Clothing. We are selling more Clothing to the particular dressers of this community this season than ever before. This is not the result of any accident or because of our having a monopoly of the business, but because of the fact that our Clothing is up to the minute in style, right there in point of fit and quality, and our prices are as low as it is possible to sell good Clothing, and much lower than lots of good Clothing is sold at. With these facts before you, don't you think it will be decidedly to your interest to see our stock of Clothing before you buy elsewhere. We think you will find our Clothing in style, quality and fit, and know that we can please you in price, if we can get together on the other points. Error—in publishing the list of ladies who have been voted for in our Sewing Machine Contest last Wednesday we gave Mrs. M. J. Walker credit for 111. These figures were incorrect. The number should have been 3. Ask for a ticket with each 50c purchase. J. Q. WRAY, The Leader.

Loan and Savings Bank, Yorkville, S. C. PROTECTION THAT PROTECTS. There are some people—some of our friends in the country especially—who insist on keeping their surplus funds laid away in "an old drawer" at home, rather than on deposit in a good Bank. There's quite a difference from the standpoint of safety. You have probably never considered the risk you take by so doing, or probably have convinced yourself that there is no risk. Think the matter over, and when you have reached the point of comparing the safeguards and protections offered by this Bank with the risk assumed by "your own banker," we feel sure we'll profit by the comparison. Why Not Make Us Your Depository? Your neighbor probably has, and we are quite sure that if you will give us an opportunity to explain the merits of an account with us, we'll number you with our depositors. Correspondence or a call invited. W. P. HARRISON, Cashier. S. M. McNEEL, President.

Edward Bok, Editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, is quoted as saying: "Making provision for the future of those we love is one of the highest things we are capable of doing in this world. It is the ordinary and not the wise man who simply thinks of the present. But we are a bit larger and wiser than that. We think of the future that lies beyond. Many a woman has been lovingly cared for by her husband while he was with her, only to awaken heartbroken some day with the double grief of the taking away of her husband and the support of herself and children. A man cannot control the former, but he can avoid the latter. Many a woman has gone through tortures of suffering by the lack of foresight of a devoted husband—devoted in all save one thought of what she should do when he was no more." The only way to be absolutely sure that your wife and your children do not drink of the cup which Mr. Bok so graphically describes, is by means of protecting them with a mutual insurance policy, and the Mutual Benefit is the Company that will stand by you through prosperity and adversity while expected, and oftentimes more for your family, when you are gone for good. An investigation and comparison with other companies is all that I ask. SAM M. GRIST, Special Agent.
