SOUTH CAROLINA NEWS. The somewhat notable suit of Wil liam E. Lucas, president of the Laurens Cotton mills, against S. M. Milliken, has been decided against Lucas, in the Federal court, at Charleston. The presiding judge refused to remand the case and dissolved the injunction. - Columbia Record: At the next session of the legislature a bill will be introduced asking for the creation of the office of county judge, if not in all counties, at least in Richland county. The matter has been under consideration for some time and it is practically certain that the bill will pass, although there will have to be some changes in the present law regulating courts. The idea is to have a county judge or magistrate with the power to hear suits up to $1,000 and to try all criminal punishment or over ten years in the penitentiary. This court would sit al-most any time and the county solicitor would take the place of the coroner

There will probably be some objection to the proposed change, but it is thought that it will finally become a -There is a demand for the investigation of the books of Saluda county, and it is probable that the matter will be looked into soon. The grand jury has the matter under consideration. In his last report the comptroller general called attention to the many counties that needed investigating, either on account of bad bookkeeping or shortages. There were nine altogether as follows: In Abbeville county it was necessary to em-ploy an expert at a cost of $600 to straighten out the books. In Barn-well county there was a shortage which finally resulted in a settlement with the bonding company for over $11,000. In Greenwood county an expert fixed matters at a cost of $600 expert fixed matters at a cost of $600 to the county. In Greenville county the recent development of graft justified the last report of the comptroller general. A shortage of over $4,000 in Horry county is now in the courts. A balance of over $3,500 due by the treasurer of Laurens county has never been paid and the grand that the state no action. In Richhas never been paid and the grand jury has taken no action. In Richland county there is an investigation now going on. In Williamsburg county a shortage of several thousand has been settled, although this was due to bad bookkeeping. In addition to this there are two or three other counties now under investigation.

—Greenville special of July 25, to News and Courier: The special commission which is investigating the finances of Greenville county took a recess to-day until the middle of September and Avery Patton, who has been examining the witnesses, many of whom have been very unwilling, expected to leave this morning for Ashville for a brief rest. No warrants were sworn out yesterday, but some additional affidavits may be made by members of the commission today for those against whom proceedings have already begun. It is understood that there is sufficient evidence in possession of begun. It is understood that there is sufficient evidence in possession of the commission to justify the arrest of a number of others alleged to have taken an interest in grafting the county, but whether any arrests will be attempted before the commission renews its work is not known. The greater part of the taking of testi-mony has been completed, and, after mony has been completed, and, after some finishing touches in this direction have been put on, the commission will begin to prepare its report to the governor. It is estimated that the total indebtedness of the county is about $300,000, half of which is in floating claims. Many of these will be declared illegal, and will doubtless be repudiated. Since they have been purchased in times past by banks and inpocent parties the loss may touch per-dea today, an idea that he does not claim to be entirely original; but which is destined to mean great things for the Southern Cotton association if put into execution. After the meeting today Mr. McLaurin and President E. D. Smith discussed the matter fully and Mr. Smith is in full accord with the scheme outlined by Mr. McLaurin. Mr. McLaurin was discussing the menace of the Chinese boycott, the threatened closing of the Chinese market to the chinese boycott, the threatened closing of the Chinese market to the chinese boycott. ace of the Chinese boycott, the threat-ened closing of the Chinese market to cotton goods. American goods, on ac-count of the stringent enforcement of the Chinese exclusion laws. He told of the guilds of China, their perfect organization through which they are enabled to control the consumption of cotton goods by the Chinese people, and he suggested that in the end the interest of the Chinese consumer of cotton goods and the interest of the southern producer of the raw material are the same, and that this is reason for sending to China an authorized for sending to China an authorized representative of the Southern Cotton association to make peace, as it were, with the Chinese guilds and induce them to lift the boycott on American goods. It is very probable that this idea will be taken up officially by the computation and that a propagate the computation and the computation and that a propagate the computation and the computation are contained to the computation and the computation and the computation are contained to the computation and the computation are contained to the contained to th organization and that a representative will be sent to China on this mission. It is easy to see that this would, as few things could, strengthen the Southern Cotton association not only at home but abroad.

Gaffney Ledger: The Greenville News says, because we expressed very little confidence in Cole L. Blease, that it's too soon to commence "mud-slinging." Why, bless your soul, man, we did not mean to sling mud. We think Mr Blease a poor excuse for a public man, have no confidence in him whatever, and simply expressed ourselves to that effect. It was only our opinion of a man who had been spoken of as a candidate for governor of South Carolina. We brought no charges against him. We know absolutely nothing about his private character, and, so far as we know, he may be as pure as an angel. He has however, been keeping mighty bad company, "and his attitude on public questions" does not coincide with ours and we took occasion to express our sentiments. No, indeed, Mr News, we did not mean to "sling mud."
