The parties contend that according to the creed of their church, Saturday being the seventh day, it is the day of rest and should be observed as the day of rest. Magistrate Stradley, who issued the warrant, has been notified that the dignitaries of their church from Atlanta and other places will be here on the day of the trial will be here on the day of the trial to look after the interests of the deto look after the interests of the defendants. They have engaged, it is said, two prominent lawyers from Atlanta and Chicago to defend them. The date of the trial has not been set, but it will take place soon, and as large crowd will be present at the trial it is thought that it will be held in the county court house to accommodate all who expect to attend.

- Columbia State: The state head-quarters of the Farmers' Union of South Carolina is busy preparing for south Carolina is busy preparation which meets in this city on the 28th instant. State Secretary Reed informs the State that all the counties in South Carolina with the exception of a few will be represented at this next annual meeting of the state union. Should the delegates who have been electal meeting of the state union. Should all the delegates who have been elected attend, there will be at least 175 here at that time. Those who come as delegates from their respective counties are among the representative and most intelligent farmers of the state. The convention will have before it for consideration many matters of great interest, not alone to the farmer but to all others whose prosperity is bound up with that of the farming class. It is planned that the sessions of the convention shall hold for about three days. The railroads will give reduced rates, and as the convention comes off at a time when farming operations are not so pressfarming operations are not so press-ing, the state officers have reason to expect full delegations from the 30 or expect full delegations from the 30 or expect full delegations from the solution more counties entitled to representation. Said Mr. Reed: "The farmers of South Carolina were never so well organized as at present. The state Farmers' union is gaining in strength the solution of the same of the solution of the same of the and efficiency every day. The farmers, more alive to their interests and ers, more alive to their interests and needs than ever before, have been stimulated through the agency of the Farmers' union to better methods of farming and to better ways of conserving their interests. It is this practical work of the union that is attracting the attention of the farming class all over the state, the effect of which has been and is a great increase of membership. Nearly every county in the state has a strong county union made up of many local unions, of which there are about 500 in the state."
