

county, Messrs. Wertz and Williams. Columbia, S. C. The talk on educational circles is the wholesale changes in the list of public school text books made by the state board of education at its Thursday night meeting. Well informed educators estimate that the action of the board means an 80 per cent change in the present list of text books. A larger percentage. Expressed in money terms, this is a tax on the people of the state of very nearly a half million dollars. Mr. Swearingin, in protesting against the action of the board, is said to have stated to the members that should Winthrop college be wiped out by fire the loss would not be greater to the people than the cost which the wholesale change of text books involves. Mr. Swearingin, whose dissent from the policy of the board, of which he is the ex-officio secretary, became known Thursday night was again today for a statement of his position in the matter. He replied that he expects, as soon as possible, to present a statement, setting forth fully his position, but on account of the routine work developed on his office by the book adopted by the board, he had no time to do so. He said enough, however, to indicate that while he does not desire to appear in the role of a fighter he realizes the importance of education is generally regarded as the responsible head of the educational system and that he proposes to let it be known that the sweeping changes were not all made with his approval. The book adoption will continue in effect for five years and the total value of the books sold under the adoption now in force amounts to about $500,000. In the recent adoption the American Book company secured the largest share of the business. The most important changes made, as pointed out by Mr. Swearingin, were in the geography of Milne's and Fry's and in the history of May's, both of the winners being published by the American Book company.

NEELY'S CREEK NOTES.
Correspondence The Yorkville Enquirer
Leslie, June 27.—The cotton crop in this section of Catawba township is in remarkably good condition and well advanced, considering the long continued drought of the past year, and especially within the radius of perhaps a mile and a half of Neely's Creek church, the crop is unusually good. The stands are good and the weed is from half a leg to knee high, except in the "red spots," and in these spots the stands are poor and the weed is from one to two feet high. Last year the farmers in the radius mentioned above, were badly damaged on account of too much rain but this year they seem to be pretty well suited in weather conditions although good rains would be very acceptable and are badly needed. The corn prospects are poor because of lack of moisture and even if an abundance of rain would come now, the corn production would be near what it would have been if there had been plenty of moisture two or three weeks ago. However, the farmers of this vicinity are not especially discouraged over prospects and are very hopeful that they will be blessed with good rains within the next few days and thus save the corn crops from complete failure.
There have been local showers almost every day for the past week but these have been scattered, covering but small areas, and of short duration, in most cases hardly more than wetting the top crust. There was sufficient rain Saturday afternoon to cause the water to stand in the cotton rows, but nothing like a sufficiency.
Those of our farmers who had fall oats sowed, and the majority of them in more or less quantity, are getting satisfactory returns. There has been some peas sowed on stubbles and these appear to be coming to a fair stand. The fruit crop has almost all matured, ure, only a few having peaches. The blackberry crop is fairly good in low places and along the branches, but the berries are quite small.
Rev. M. Stevenson, D. D., of Clover, filled the Neely's Creek pulpit yesterday on the subject of "The Danger of Little Sins," and his remarks were a fair-sized congregation. The doctor's subject was "The Danger of Little Sins," and his remarks were a fair-sized congregation. The doctor's subject was "The Danger of Little Sins," and his remarks were a fair-sized congregation.

FLY SCREENS THAT FIT
Strange As It May Appear
Notwithstanding the fact that it has been thoroughly demonstrated by grueling investigations and otherwise during the past few years "that all life insurance companies are not about the same," still there are individuals here and there who still pretend to believe that "they are about the same." It is not my purpose to try to argue with that class, for the reason that life is too short. I have no fault to find with the individual who for any reason, prefers to carry his insurance in a company that cannot point to a clean record from every standpoint covering its entire existence for a period of 50 years or more, and does not guarantee as much, aside from its record, as does the Mutual Benefit, because of the fact that he pays the freight and has the right to choose his route. There is no reason to doubt the fact that any man who will make an intelligent and impartial investigation of the Mutual Benefit's contracts, its record, etc., cannot be induced to accept a policy in any other company. There is really a big difference in companies, even among the best, and as you, of course, really want to buy the best, you will do well to let me show you what the Mutual Benefit will do for you.
