Tit for Tat .- "A case of tit for tat," said Representative Cordell Hull, apropos of an income-tax dispute. "It reminds me of the postoffice employee. "A man bought of this employee two

2-cent stamps, then turned to go, but the employee, laying a persuasive hand on his arm, cooed:

"'A few stamped envelopes this morning, sir? We have all shapes and sizes." "'No, thank you, none this morning, start of surprise. "'If then, sir, you'll step round to have a very elegant assortment.' "'No, certainly not." "'Post cards, sir? We've just got in a fresh lot. Very latest fall styles, sir.' with this resort to the vernacular, the patron jerked his arm loose and angrily retired. "The postmaster, who happened you insult him for?" the manager demanded "'I didn't insult him,' said the emevery time he shaves me he tries to sage, hair-cut, tonic, and dear knows what. I thought I'd turn the tables on kio to attend these sales. him and see how he liked it."

What a Great Blessing.-Lawrence D'Orsay, the actor, recalled an incident that happened in one of the western states. Some time since a certain rural preacher who was more or less unsophisticated, was invited to a dinner given by an esteemed citizen at his handsome country home.

During the dinner a milk punch was quietly placed at the plate of each guest, and the good dominie, like the others, quaffed the delicious beverage with evident pleasure.

"I feel, brother," impressively remarked the dominie as he set his drained glass upon the table, "that I should congratulate you on the great blessing that is yours.'

"I don't quite get you, Mr. Jones," re are you particularly referring?"

"To that milk, brother," was the earshould daily give thanks for having such a splendid cow."-Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

Entertaining Strangers.-He was undeniably from far beyond the suburbs and as he was walking along a city street he stopped in front of the fire engine house and looked in. "Have many fires in this town?" he asked. "Yes, we have them pretty often," replied the fireman.

"Ever try to see how quickly you can hitch up?" "Oh, yes." At that moment an alarm came in

At the first stroke of the gong the men rushed to their posts, the doors of the stalls opened, and within a few seconds men, horses, and cart were speeding down the street.

The young man watched the proceedings with admiration. "Well!" he exclaimed, when speech returned, "there ain't many towns where they'd go to all that trouble to show a stranger what they can do."-Exchange.

Paid for His Interruption .- Rodger the great French tenor, was a sensitive soul, and was prone to take offense at any slight, whether intentional or not. On one occasion he was engaged to sing at the house of a wealthy financier. Rodger sang his first song magnificently, but no one paid the slightest attention to him, and the guests continued to talk their loudest.

Presently the host thought the time had come for another song, and sent for Rodger. He could not be found. Next day there came a note from him, accompanied by 1,500 francs. The note ran something like this:

"I have the honor to return the 1,200 francs which I received for singing at your function, and I beg leave to add 300 francs thereto for having so disturbed the conversation of your guests.-Philadelphia Ledger.

More Than Likely.-Some time ago, while she was still Princess Margaret +9 949 484 484 484 484 848 484 848 484 846 484 848 484 848 of Connaught, the crown princess of Sweden, who had been holiday making, paid a series of incegnito visits to the Aldershot military hospital in order to learn something about nursing and

One of the doctors at the hospital, not knowing who she was, was rather inclined to patronize her. Wanting to know something more about her, he remarked one day:

"I'm sure I must know your people I go about a good deal."

"Possibly you have met my father, suggested the princess.

"It's more than likely," he said con-"What's his name?" fidently.

"The Duke of Connaught," was the quiet and totally unexpected reply.-Philadelphia Ledger.

Surely but Peaceful .- Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, discussing the impoliteness, the free and easy, over-familiar impoliteness of the customs officers of New York, said at the suffrage lunchrooms: "These men carry impoliteness to the pink of perfection. They are as perfectly impolite as an old Scot l used to know was perfectly surly. "Saunders, a Highland keeper, made surliness almost an art. A gentleman said to him one glorious autumn morn-

"'Fine day, Saunders."

"Saunders grunted.

"'Saunders, I said, 'fine day,' th gentleman persisted. "'Verra weel, verra weel,' said Saunders. 'I dinna want tae argue.' "

Accamalation-At the funeral services of an elderly darkey of Richmond, Va., the following colloquy was overheard between two aged negroes:

"There aint no use in talkin'," said Mose Barker; "Dick Williams, he was the most charitablest man dis town "I reckon dat's so," said the darkey to whom Mr. Barker imparted this information. And he paused as if waiting for evidence on the point. "Yessuh," continued Mr. Barker, "Dick Williams, he always owned a plug hat and durin' my time I ain't never heard that Dick ever refused to McNEEL BUILDING lend dat hat to anybody."-Judge.

LARGEST IN UNITED STATES Big Missouri Farm Makes Yearly Profit of $100,000.

Near Tarkio, Missouri, is the largest tillable farm in the United States, the property of four children of the late David Rankin. It contains 23,000 acres and last year there were under cultivation 14,000 acres in corn, 3,000 each in wheat and oats, and 1,500 in alfalfa. One of the axioms of David Rankin was: "Never sell the farm." But the heirs of Mr. Rankin are trying to make the farm more compact, so that it can be operated with greater economy. Don't Worry .- "Don't worry" was the recipe for long life recently given by an aged physician who had preserved his youth

"Good advice, but impractical," you say. But did you ever give it a real trial? A person can't stop worrying merely by saying, "Go to, now; I am not going to worry any more." The more he thinks about stopping the more impossible it is to stop. There is a way though. Don't consciously try to stop worrying, but get interested in something else. If you have something to worry about and give yourself the opportunity you will do a lot of worrying. But if you keep busy you won't give worry a chance. When a great sorrow comes a person may simply abandon himself to t by letting his other interests lag. But by looking about for something to absorb his attention he can put himself in a wholesome frame of mind. Worry can be fought the same way.
