YORKVILLE, S. C.:

TUESDAY, JULY 20, 1915

A wonderful change for the better has come over the editorial conduct of the Columbia Record in that Editor Banks has substituted a policy of helpful kindness for the former policy of unbridled bitterness. It is a pleasure to read the Record nowadays.

The practice of England in taking American cotton consigned to other countries and paying for it is not different in principle from the wellknown expedient of the detected embezzler in offering to make good his stealing on condition of calling the transaction square.

The Lancaster News suggests that the proposed Sims monument should take the form of a hospital to be located at Lancaster. That is just and proper and appropriate. And the people of the state could well afford to help build that hospital.

A New York dispatch says that several of the Federal reserve banks and leading state banks of New York, have taken up the matter of standardizing cotton warehouse receipts, The many-sided curriculum leaves the where the same have been issued unaverage youth no chance to develop der state supervision as is the case in der state supervision as is the case in South Carolina, Louisiana and Texas. of freedom and personal independence and the need for thinking and action. to its logical conclusion, will give immediate recognition to state warehouse receipts throughout the world as the most acceptable form of liquid security into which cotton can be con-

Various kinds of war stocks, meaning shares in concerns engaged in the employes have a chance to rise to the manufacture of munitions and the like, have become the basis of speculative frenzy on the New York exinventor and builder of submarines change. Some of these stocks have for the United States government, advanced several hundred per cent says that experiments with the new within the past faw weeks. The more within the past few weeks. The more conservative concerns connected with the stock exchange are advising caution in dealing with stocks of this kind, and several of them have retensive cruising radius is due to the fused to accept commitments on marcompany are worth five or six times and under water, replacing both the company are worth five or six times gasolene engines heretofore used to as much as they were a few months

If the United States government would guard against possible bad feeling in the south on account of England's treatment of cotton, it would do well to put through some such legislation as was proposed last winter. The thing that concerns the people of the south most in this matter, is fair price for their cotton. They know that cotton ought to be worth fifteen States government holds the specifi-cations for the new engine, which burns heavy oil, and American firms the staple would bring that price if ernment can easily valorize cotton at 15 cents if it will, and in our opinion that would be much cheaper and regional banks. Rules already have wiser than to leave the matter open against such complications as are likely to arise.

We are inclined to think that the principal purpose of the grand jury in ceptance as a bill of exchange having by way of fees and salary, is intended ceipts of the clerk of the court. Most of the other county officials are paid person or corporation on whom it is mainly by salaries, and some of them drawn. To be eligible for re-discount receive fees and commissions in addition; but it is generally understood that the aggregate amounts of their respective receipts are smaller than those of the clerk of the court. The actof goods, sold by the drawer of the bill. The bill must be drawn against ual amount of the clerk's compensation indebtedness expressly incurred by the has never been made public, notwithstanding the fact that there is much public interest in the matter, as is natural and proper. If the law had been observed heretofore, of course of there would not now be any reason a fellow convict in the Georgia state for curiosity on the subject. Evangelist John W. Ham, who is well known in Yorkville, is stirring his body. The left juguler vein had things in Newbern, N. C. Some days ago he jumped on the local merchants for selling a kind of dope drink that ure of Lloyd George's efforts to conis used up that way as a substitute for liquor, and indulged in a very decided characterization of people who were low enough down to dispense such stuff. One of the local merchants replied in an article in the Newbern Journal, and stated that if the members of the church at which Mr. Ham was preaching, one of whom owed him forty dollars, would pay along without selling dope. Mr. Ham if the merchant would give the man's name he, the evangelist, would see that the debtor was turned out of the church unless he squared the account. Somehow, we think that Mr. Ham is about right in his position; but that the "Established Church of England son, Governor Manning, ex-Senator the incident involves "strange doc- has revenues amounting to millions McLaurin and others are working trine" is evidenced by the fact that

The older men and women of this country who began the battle of life about forty or fifty years ago, are better qualified by actual experience to understand what we have in mind than are the younger people who have been the beneficiaries of the faithful self-denying toil and frugality of the older men and women referred to. Fifty years ago this county was literally poverty-stricken, and it was all it could do to produce enough provisions and clothing in one year to last to the beginning of the next year. continued for a long period.

Now, tually growing rich, and although we still have the poor among us, as we always will have, there are few adults of such small intelligence as to be unable to realize the remarkable increase that is taking place in the commonwealth.

And here is the point. Only twenty years ago the average price of farm land—the actual average purchasing price, was only $7 or $8 an acre, and $25 an acre for farm land anywhere was considered a fancy figure. Without going into details, it is sufficient to explain that the tremendous advance in land prices since that time has been because of the tremendous increase in wealth.

Miss Florence Cody of Yorkville, is who professed to be a Christian and at the same time would at any and all times take advantage of his fellowman in a business deal of any kind, was not a Christian. He also paid his respects to the evils that are coming out of the picture shows that are showing pictures that tend to exemplify and glorify crime or immorality. That such pictures are having their effect in perverting the minds of young people and causing them to commit va-rious crimes and sins that they would not do if it were not for the sugges tions of the movies. The speaker also paid his respects in most unmistakably plain language to the "double standard of living"—one standard for men and another for women—and illustrated some of the evils and penalties that grow out of this practice. He said that every community needs and must have men who lived clean lives. A type of men who think, who are big, brave, and strong enough to say no when they are tempted. Men who stand for truth and right thinking in both public and private life. A feature of the service was the singing of a number of familiar hymns by the men, lead by Mr. E. L. Wolslagel, who proved himself to be a choirmaster and leader, as well as a soloist of unusual power.

To Inspect Roads. Supervisor Boyd, Township Supervisor A. L. Black and County Engineer W. W. Miller are today inspecting the strip of road between the Pinckney road and Sharon, which road Sharon citizens are advocating the improvement of. A number of people living along the road, as well as others from Sharon, are going over the route today with the experts.

Home Caught Fire. The country home of Mr. John A. Black, which is situated a short distance from Rock Hill, caught fire early Monday morning and had it not been for the fact that a number of farm hands happened to be around and as soon as the blaze was discovered, began pouring water on the fire, the handsome home would very likely have been destroyed. As it was the damage was not great.

Estes at Rockton and Mr. Estes has just gathered a crop of peas. They have matured and dried thoroughly and are ready to be sown for the second crop. Mr. Johnson did not learn the name of the new variety, but he intends to procure some and introduce them in this community. The pea is of an early variety and it will be no trouble to grow two crops on the same ground in one season. Occa-sionally this can be done with the average cowpea, but not often. Be-sides, the new variety is splendid for eating purposes.

In discussing the sales he states that should cussing the sales he states that should there be any farmers who wish to dis-pose of their oats, he will be glad to render such assistance as possible without charge. He said he was not advising the farmers to sell, nor did he advise holding the oats. All oats handled must be sound. It is understood that quite a number of others have disposed of surplus quantities of oats. The yield in the community this year is far greater than ever before, many farmers raising from two to five times as many as heretofore. There is a good demand for the oats of goodly quality and it is not be-lieved the farmers will meet with any trouble in selling their surplus. Was Well Known in York County.

Intelligence was received in York-ville Friday of the death of Mr. W. M. Propst, which occurred at his home in Seneca early Friday morning, following a long period of ill health. Mr. Propst was about 59 years old and was born in Winnsboro, the son of the late J. H. Propst of that place. In 1874 he married Miss Floride Perry, who survives. A few years after his marriage he moved to Yorkville, where for several years he was employed as foreman of the "York Enterprise." After the failure of that publication he engaged in the insurance business. About twelve years ago he left York-ville, going to Heath Springs and after remaining there a short time he moved his family to Seneca, where he was bookkeeper for the Seneca Mercantile company, until the failure of that firm, when he secured a position in another store, which post he held until failing health compelled him to give it up. The deceased was promi-nent in Masonic circles. He was an elder in the Presbyterian church of Seneca. He is survived by his widow and one daughter, Miss Floride. The Filbert Picnic. W. F. Caldwell, the Columbia cor-

ident of the News and Courier, sends his paper the following about the Filbert picnic: "It will be of in-terest throughout the state to know that the people of Filbert have invited United States Senator B. R. Tillman to be one of the speakers at their an-nual picnic on July 29. The senior senator is now attending the Panama senator is now attending the Panama exposition at San Francisco, but there is a general hope that he will be back in time and that he will again appear on the stump in his old stamping ground. An invitation has also been extended to State Senator C. D. Lee of Darlington county to be present of Darlington county, to be present and discuss the warehouse system. Senator Lee has been a vigorous op-ponent of the warehouse system from the start. Other speakers who will be present are: Former Governor Cole L. Blease, Warehouse Commissioner Mc-Laurin, Congressman Finley and W. F. Stevenson, who is running against him. Governor Manning was also invited, but was forced to decline because of a previous engagement he had made to review the 1st regiment at Charleston on that date. The gover-nor would have liked to have been able to mingle with the industrious people of the Filbert section of York county and regretted very much that a previous engagement forced him to forego the pleasude. Philadelphia Picnic.

Two or three hundred people at-tended the annual picnic at Philadel-phia church last Saturday, the crowd phia church last Saturday, the crowd being made up practically of people living in close proximity to the picnic ground. Features of the occasion were addresses by Rev. Henry Stokes, Superintendent John E. Carroll, J. A. Marion, Esq., and J. B. Bell, Esq. All the addresses were along educational lines. Rev. Mr. Stokes consecutional lines. gratulated the patrons of the school upon the erection of the handsome new schoolhouse. Superintendent new schoolhouse. Supering Carroll spoke of the progress had been made in school work during patrons that although it was well for their children to learn the new branches of study which are being introduced in the schools, so long as they know well the three R's, "readin', 'rit-in' and 'rithmetic," they will do well. Mr. Marion, the next speaker, recalled the time when a high school in this state was something entirely unknown. He also remembered when patrons did not even think of going to the trouble and expense for the education of their children, which they now do.

Mr. Bell, the last speaker, took occasion to remark that it had been about twenty years since he had taught the school at Philadelphia. He related several incidents which occurred during his preceptorship which left no doubt in the minds of the younger folk present that he was perfectly familiar with the Delphos community which was made in a huge pot on the grounds. After dinner the audience amused themselves in various ways and most of them remained on the grounds to witness the baseball game between Philadelphia and Guthries-ville in the afternoon.
