Clover, April 21.-Clover's new school building will be crected in close proximity to the present building, according to the present idea of the trustees. The members of the board went to Fort Mill Monday afternoon where they inspected the school building at director of a local society, at Greensthat place. An architect for the building to be crected here is to be employed within a few days, and it will not be very long before construction work is under way.

Early Gardens Hurt.

Gardens of early planters in Clover have suffered a severe set back as a result of the unusually cold weather coupled with frost during the past several days. There were a number of people here who boasted of peas and beans and irish potatocs and other vegetables well advanced; but the cold snap has killed practically all of the early prospects, it is said.

Rev. Turner Preached.

Rev. A. B. Turner of Landrum, Spartanburg county, filled the pulpit of the Clover Baptist church last Sunday morning, preaching to a large congregation. Since the resignation of Dr. O. L. Jones several weeks ago, Clover Baptists have been without a regular paster; but the congregation will probably extend a call for the services of a well known minister within a short while.

Textile Industry Drags.

The textile industry at Clover still lrags. The Hawthorne Mill is running on full day time; but the Clover Mill is only running part of the time and there are no indications as to when full operations will be resumed The industry has been on the drag here now for many months greatly to the embarrassment of the mill managements, the operatives, business people and people generally. Enjoyed Fish Dinner.

The editor of the Yorkville Enquirer and The Enquirer's Clover correspondent were guests of Mr. M. L. Ford at a fish dinner at Mr. Ford's home here Wednesday. The fish which included cats, perch, suckers and other well known Catawba river and Beaver Dam species, were fried only as Mr. Ford's daughter, Miss Esther knows how to fry them and it is needless to say that the dinner was thoroughly enjoyed. A net was placed in the water at Beaver Dam Tuesday and hundreds of pounds of carp, eats and other varieties were hauled in. That is where Mr. Ford got them. He was frank to admit, however, that he bought them and did not catch them himself and that there was no real fish story connected with the dinner.

Complaint About Rents There is some complaint being voiced here about the alleged high house rents. A Clover man who was talking yesterday said that he had to pay $30 a month rent for a five room house despite the fact that his salary was only $125 a month. When it was suggested that he hunt a cheaper house he said that was impossible for the reason that there were no cheaper

Veteran Calls Roll of York County Members. ONLY A VERY FEW LEFT TO ANSWER

TERMS-$3.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

Men Came From All Sections of the State and There Was a Name For Every Letter of the Alphabet-Can Omitted Names be Supplied. Editor Yorkville Enquirer.

I am sending you the names of the men who served as Confederate soldiers from York county in the la-Fayette Light Artillery, J. T. Kanapaux, captain, which you can publish or not as you think best.

I do not claim that the list is complete, for after so many years, I no doubt, have forgotten some. I would not attempt to give the company roll, as we had men from all over the state, and a name for every letter in the alphabet, except the letter X.

So far as I know, there are only five of those named, now living in York county, viz: N. J. N. Bowen, George Brandon, W. J. Rawlinson, L. L. Smith and myself.

I have omitted the name of Edgar Williams for the reason that I am not sure that he was a member of this company. I remember to have scen him only once.

The story as told me was like this: Somewhere between the Coosaw natchie and the Tulafinny rivers, Mr. Williams was in great danger of being captured by the enemy, and in trying to make his escape, fell into a ditch and being hard pressed, crawled under some grass or rubbish in the bottom of the ditch. The enemy passed over without discovering him. After lying in the swamps for several days, and nights he finally got back into our lines. I can not youch for this story, but when I saw him he was completely exhausted from some cause. I have been told he was a brother of the late Billie" Williams of Yorkville. 'If any one seeing this, and knowing anything of Mr. William's life as a soldier and what became of him, or when or how he came to be with this battery, I would be very glad if they would furnish the "Enquirer" with, such information as they may have.

In writing these names, I can recall vividly the features of each one and their makeup. Some robust and str some thin and delicate, others was, account of their physical condition should never have been taken linto the

Chauffeur Ends Life Because of Fallure to Save Car.

A chauffeur may have a code of honor similar to that of the traditional sea captain, as was discovered by Georges Menier when his motor car was badly damaged. M. Meiner had gone to a suburb in his new automobile and, deciding to remain there, ordered his chauffeur to take the car back to Paris. Later in the day his brother, driving along the road in his own cara found M. Menier's automobile smashed along the roadside and abandoned. Failing to find the chauffeur he went to the next village, where he ascertained the man had been there and departed, leaving a letter addressed to his employer which read: "Sir: You entrusted a new motor car to my charge, I have not been able to keep it undamaged. I shall not survive this dishonor."

The letter went on in the form of a will in which the chauffeur asked about $150, to his young daughter of Fish left Laramie, Wyo., to motor to seventeen. The body of the chauffeur

> Another curious feature is the fact that because the chauffeur in this letter admitted his responsibility, the owner of the automobile will be unable to collect insurance, as according to the French law, the admission of the chauffeur releases the company of

It appears that each person within the state consumes an average of 132 pounds of flour annually. Therefore, if we have a population of 1,690,000 it will require approximately 5,500,000 bushels of wheat to supply our yearty needs. The total production for the state in 1920 has been estimated at 1,-785 00 bushels, or about 3,600,000 bushels less than our annual require-

The average pork requirements per person is shown to be about $4 pounds annually. In other words it will require one hog netting 168 pounds to supply the needs of two persons each year, or it will take about $45,000 of such hogs to meet the state's annual requirements. However, should the hogs net 250 pounds each the number could be reduced to about 560,000. It would be of interest to know which would be more economical for the state as a whole, to raise 560,000 hogs netting 250 pounds each or $45,000 hogs of 168 pounds each. Further observations made from this investigation are to the effect that the average distance of all farms in the state from market, is approximately 7 miles, and the average size load from farm to market is 1,579 pounds, the average size load from market to farm being 1,622 pounds. The average number of days spent annually per farm in hauling produce, fertilizers, etc. to and from market is estimated at 27 days, or a little less than 9 per cent, of all work days. The total number of motor trucks in the state used exclusively for farm purposes is estimated at 1,533 and the number of farm tractors at 2,956.

Mr. Hare states that another interesting feature of the investigation, as shown by the tabulated results of a large number of reports of farmers from all sections of the state, is that only 36 per cent, of the amount of commercial fertilizers used in 1920 will be used in 1921. However, a very large percentage of the last year's crop of cotton seed will not be sold or exchanged for fertilizers, as has been the practive heretofore, but will be put back on the farm from which they were obtained.
