- The British foreign office declared a few days ago that it was asked sometime ago to take action regarding ex-tradition of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the nortorious American slacker, from Germany. It was referred to Canada and hothing has been heard of it since then. If the Canadian government decides an extraditable offense has been committed, it will ask the British government to demand that Bergdoll be given up, which will then be done. The foreign office said if the Ameri-can slacker forged a passport or bribed someone to secure one the case is extraditable, but it has to be proven. At any rate Canada will not be able to run him over to the United States, as under international law it must try him only for the offense for which he was extradited.

-The American Federation of Labor was urged to conduct a publicity of nearly $2,500,000 by John W. Hay, president of the union label trades department of the federation, in an address before the department's convention at Denver, Colorado last Thursday. He said such a campaign was necessary at this time to gain public support for the trades union move-ment. "Employers organizations op-posed to trades unions," said Mr. "have been using publicity to destroy labor organizations. Large sums of money have been expended to take public sentiment away from us. I believe the only way to direct it into right channels is to give the absolute facts to this large portion of the public that is being alienated from us."

Five cents a month from the federation, he said, would cover the cost of the campaign. Mr. Hays, who is sec-retary-treasurer of the International Typographical union, declared the tiative. "A strenuous and continued fight is being made," he added, "for the reason that the interests that buy office employers concede the 44-hour week, they will be boycotted and their business ruined."

-Rear Admiral Sims was ordered the speech, and had decided to revoke the remainder of the admiral's leave and ordered him to report here immediately. The order, however, was not expected to expedite Admiral Sims' return from England, as he had already planned to return on the liner Olympic, which sails tomorrow, and is Olympic, which sails tomorrow, and is the first available ship for passage. > Among the objections urged against the adoption of the Porter peace resolution by the house was one to the effect that its passage would evidence bad faith to the Allies. The answer was that all the Allies knew that the Versailles treaty could not be of binding force as concer is the United States until ratified by the senate, and yet the other Allies, without waiting for the United States, have gone ahead and established relations with the Central powers, leaving the United States all alone. In spite of this the United States had withheld action on the peace treaty pending a satisfactory settlement by Germany of the reparations question, in which question the United States has no direct pecuniary interest.
