THE HOME TOWN PAPER.

Of all the sheets from East to West the local paper is the best. Deep is our love and deep to Record, Journal or Gazette.

A Soft and Juicy Answer.

While did you do James, when Edward called you a liar?" asked his mother, "I remembered that you said, 'A soft answer turneth away wrath,' so I hit him with a rotten tomato."

It's a sin to overload that poor beast," was the comment, a half mile along the road.

It's a sin to overload that poor beast," was the comment, a half mile along the road.

The merchant suggested the boy walk.

"That heartless father should be arrested for forging his little boy to trudge in the dust while he rides at ease," remarked a pedestrian.

So the merchant got off himself and led the donkey.

"Look at those poor fools who walk while their donkey goes riderless," called out an old woman.

"Ye gods," cried the merchant, "Must I listen to such stuff? Hereafter I will do as I please, and as my judgment dictates."

He did! And he did well!—Type Metal.

The Origin of Woman.—According to an ancient Hindoo legend, this is the origin of woman:

Twashtri, the god Vulcan of the Hindoo mythology, created the world, but, on commencing to create woman, he found that for man he had exhausted all his creative material and that not one solid element had been left.

This so perplexed him that he fell into profound meditation. When he arose from it, he proceeded as follows. He took:

The roundness of the moon, The undulating curve of the serpent, The graceful twist of the creeping plant,

The light shivering of the grass blade and the slenderness of the willow, The velvety softness of the flowers, The lightness of the feather, The gentle gaze of the doe, The frolicsomeness of the dancing sun-beam,

The tears of the cloud, The inconstancy of the wind, The timidity of the hare, The vanity of the peacock, The hardness of the diamond, The cruelty of the tiger, The heat of the fire, The chill of the snow, The cackling of the parrot, The cooing of the turtle-dove, All these he mingled and formed woman.

And he presented her to man.

Three Billion Dollars Experts estimate that there are in the United States upwards of Three Billions of Dollars in real cold cash that is not being put to its proper and legitimate uses. This money, so the experts figure, is scattered around in bureau drawers, old trunks, knot holes, under hearths, in "first national" banks (stockings) and men's jeans—entirely out of circulation and thus so much dead timber (in a way). If this vast sum of money were deposited in the banks of the country it would enter the various streams of trade and put thousands of men to work who are now idle because of lacking capital, and these thousands in turn would have money to spend and this in turn would create a demand for various kinds of farm products and manufactured products and thus in turn give employment to other thousands now non-producing. The hoarding of money has a back-lash that hits every person who "hides" money away. Put your surplus funds in this bank and other banks and let your idle money work for you—draw interest.
