

WORKED GASTONIA BANKS

Smooth Forger Gets Away With More Than a Thousand Dollars.

Gastonia, Nov. 29.—A stranger giving his name variously as Noles and Collier is richer tonight by $1,000 and the three national banks of this city are losers by the same amount as a result of robberies, forgeries and check flashing, and the smooth operator, up to a late hour tonight, had gone on his way rejoicing, although the police dragnet has been spread, and there is some hope of apprehending the bold operator; a good description of whom was secured at all the banks.

During the day each of the three banks had offered for deposit a check of eight or nine hundred dollars, each of the checks being drawn on the other banks, and being apparently signed by the Gastonia Cotton company in two instances and by R. O. Crawford & Co. in the other. The stranger in each instance took about $300 in cash leaving the balance to his credit at the bank.

When the bank official stepped to the telephone to communicate with one or the other of the two concerns against which the checks had been drawn there was no answer. It later developed that the wires had been cut so that there was no telephonic communication. The checks themselves being apparently in good shape, with every indication of having been properly drawn, they were cashed for the amounts called for on the face thereof, the stranger getting away with whatever he called for.

It was when the checks were cleared for collection on the institutions on which they were drawn, and the makers thereof were warned that their accounts were overdrawn, that the forgery came to light. Investigation revealed that each of the banks had been stung for varying sums approximately a little more than $1,000. The First National, the Third National and the Exchange National are the banks involved. The bulk of the loss will probably devolve upon the National Security company, forgery bond department, through its Charlotte office, with which concern the Gastonia Cotton company is a subscriber. Two of the checks were on this concern.

It appears that the stranger had during the night forcibly entered the offices of the Gastonia Cotton company and R. O. Crawford and stolen the checks, which were later filled in for the amounts named, the checks being placed under the stamping machine of the concerns victimized and otherwise made to appear regular and bona fide. The stranger then presumably cut the telephone wires connecting with both offices, thus precluding any possibility of his operations being revealed until he had an opportunity to negotiate with the banks and to get the checks cashed.

The office of the bonding concern in Charlotte has been notified, and it is understood that a representative of the Surety company will be in Gastonia tomorrow to adjust the loss with their client and to start an investigation having for its object the apprehension of the guilty party. In the meantime the Gastonia police have sent a description of the man broadcast over the section. The operator is described as a young man, apparently 25 years of age, short and slender and fairly well dressed.—Charlotte Observer.

Heriot Clarkson, of the Charlotte bar, head of the law firm of Clarkson, Tallafero and Clarkson, is the recipient of a handsome gold watch, presented to him by students in Steel Creek and Bethel townships as an expression of their gratitude for his assistance in securing the bridge over the river between Mecklenburg and York counties, says the Charlotte Observer of Tuesday.

The watch was inscribed: "Presented to Heriot Clarkson for services rendered in building our bridge in lower Steel Creek and Bethel townships, 1921." T. F. Carothers and W. M.
