While The Yorkville Enquirer hopes to see widespread emulation of the experiment of the Clover Peanut Growers' association in the raising of peanuts, it hopes that no individual and no section will go wild on the subject.

These conditions may come again and then they may not; but at any rate it is well to handle the matter conservatively.

In the first place no farmer should put all he has into peanuts, and in the second place, he should be prepared in case the crop is not salable at a satisfactory price to feed it to hogs and cattle.

Then also peanut oil is marketable at a good price and as the supply of cotton seed is diminishing each year, the mills will gladly look to peanuts with which to supply the deficiency.

By all means let us raise peanuts; lots of them but don't let us take any chances of having them rot on our hands.

"The committee discussed the matter thoroughly and decided that for the best interest of high school sports all over the state it should put its stamp of disapproval upon such action.

"By the elimination of Rock Hill only three teams are left in the upper state to enter the semi-finals, Gaffney, Thornwell orphanage and Fort Mill.

"The time for the opening and closing of basketball, baseball and track entries was also discussed and will be definitely given later, it was announced.

"Concerning the action of the committee on the Rock Hill matter, the following statement, prepared by H. T. Shockley of the Hastock school, Spartanburg, at the request of the committee, was made public:

"The executive committee unanimously voted to exonerate the Rock Hill school officials, the trustees and those citizens who received Douglas Nims into their homes as a guest from any intention to violate the eligibility rules of the State High School league; but whereas such entertainment is contrary to the policy and laws of the league, the committee voted to sustain the protest against the said Douglas Nims according to Article 6, Sec. 8, of the constitution.

"In taking this action of a technical character, one of the impelling motives leading the committee was to establish a guide for the handling of future cases as they may arise before local school authorities or may be brought before the executive committee.
