The Hog Question.

Hog?—or no hog? that is the question; Whether 'tis better for this town to suffer The nightly thefts of these outrageous niggers...

For while you dream, some black nigger comes And shuffles off your very fatted hog In his huge paws! There's the respect That makes calamitous this village life!

Oh! shall we not, sir! our own quietus make Of this high-ringing evil? or shall we hogless go Ungreased and cheerless thro' this winter all?

Alas! how can we bear these ills we have? This matter quite undoes me? This, indeed, Is subjugation! In the morn to rise And visit your loved pig-pen and to find The noble hog you fed at eventide

Indeed:—FRIENDS! COUNTRYMEN! what shall we do? In this hog-revolution now upon us? Hogs in our chambers we can never have,

And thus forth some proclamation now And save our larders! Spare us at least enough To give one sausage 'round! and then this town Bedeviled sore by freedom, will uprising And bless you as they eat.

Miscellaneous Reading.

PRESENT TO GENERAL ROBERT E. LEE.—Mr. Chas. M. Stieff, the celebrated piano manufacturer, has just finished and forwarded to General Robert E. Lee, President of Washington College, Lexington, Va., an instrument which, in point of construction, appearance, tone and finish, it is difficult to surpass.

The piano is a seven and one-quarter octave, and is one of the largest square pianos ever constructed. Its tone is rich, mellow, and of great power. The case is of rosewood, beautifully carved and of most elaborate workmanship, and certainly reflects credit upon the skill, taste and judgment of Mr. Stieff.

The name-board is richly illustrated with pearl inlaid, and contains the following: "Charles M. Stieff, manufacturer for Robert E. Lee." The piano is built on an extra scale, full iron frame, and is finished with all the latest improvements.

Mr. Stieff, who built this piano, is now carrying on an extensive business in Baltimore. His rooms for exhibition are at No. 7 North Liberty street, where instruments of all grades and prices can be examined.

The Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette—a radical Republican newspaper—is responsible for the following: "The Treasury Department is plagued to the very last with the cotton question. Every agent sent down is straightway washed out of sight at the Department under the flood of charges against his honesty."

The Mississippi Legislature has passed the exemption bill over the Governor's veto. It exempts from execution of judgment $3,000 worth of property belonging to the head of a family, child, etc.

A line of steamers has been established between Boston and Savannah.

THE CONFEDERATE DEAD.—The Tallahassee Floridian makes a suggestion which will meet with the approbation of the South, and no generous and brave, honorable man in the North will object to its accomplishment!

Not Satisfied.

The tone of the Radical press at the North is full of venom towards the South, and betrays a malignant and vindictive spirit. Not satisfied with the quiet acceptance by the South of the issues of the war, they still clamor for the further degradation of our section, and would have us, after amending our State Constitution abolished slavery, repudiating our debt, and doing everything else required by President Johnson—after doing all this, they would set themselves up as censors, and prescribe not only rules and regulations for the government of the rebels, but would select for us, as our rulers, the most odious men to be found in the South.

The people of the loyal States have been more grievously disappointed by the action of North Carolina, since the collapse of the rebellion, than they can be by that of any of the late slave States. Gov. Holden, the most tolerant of the Provisional Governor, a man of splendid abilities, of great integrity of character, known to be a favorite of the President, and fully committed to his policy of reconstruction, personally popular, and able to concentrate in the State, was nominated for Governor. His election was regarded as a certainty, and as a ratification by the people of North Carolina of the policy of respect it afforded of a speedy resumption of civil rights; and escape from the rigors of military rule.

"Elsewhere we publish the comments of the Raleigh press on the result of the election. They present a very gloomy view of the present condition of political affairs in the State, and no more cheerful prospect for the future. It is to be hoped they have somewhat overcolored the picture. But if it is a fair representation of the condition of things, there can be but very little doubt that a provisional government will be maintained in North Carolina for a long time to come. The disloyal element is, by these accounts, more active, more bitter, and more intractable than there in any of the cotton States, and will have to be restrained by the strong hand of power."

It seems from the above, which is only a specimen of the many notices we daily see in the Northern press, that because the people of North Carolina have seen proper, in their wisdom, to defeat Mr. Holden for Governor, the great work of restoration must be retarded. A suspicious and jealous spirit is displayed by the "stay at home" at the North concerning the loyalty of the South, and they would have us make still further sacrifices in order to appease their insatiable and blood-thirsty appetites. Like the eagle, after devouring their prey, they still hunger for other victims. How insatiable! However! Cannot the long train of suffering endured by the South appeal to their sympathy, and stay the radical hand that would continue to make such unreasonable exactions.

In singular contrast with the above it is a praiseworthy fact, that the brave men of the North who were in the Federal army are liberal in their views, and disposed to be more generous. The men who sided on the field of battle to restore the Union are willing to show some magnanimity, while the "home heroes" of the commercial stripe are not willing for the Union to be restored until the South shows more signs of loyalty.

GOVERNOR OF ALABAMA.—The recently elected governor of Alabama, Robert M. Patton, is a citizen of Lauderdale county, in that State. Mr. P., it is stated, for many years has been a member of the State Legislature; was an elector on the Douglas ticket in 1860, and opposed the ordinance of secession, being a member of the secession convention. Like all other Southerners, however, he yielded to the pressure of events and cast his lot with Alabama. He had two sons, both of whom were killed, as members of the "immortal fourth Alabama regiment," in the late war. His opponents were Col. M. J. Bulger, of Tallapoosa, a Colonel in the C. S. A., and Wm. R. Smith, ex-member of the U. S. and Confederate Congress. The vote of the "secessionists per se" were generally cast for Patton. Without being a polished man, he brings to the executive chair a sound, common sense, practical judgment, coupled with an honest desire to assist his State in this, the gloomy hour of need. He visited Washington city this summer, in company with ex-Confederate Senator B. W. Walker, had repeated interviews with President Johnson, and it is supposed, is generally conversant with the policy of the President. Provisional Governor Parsons, a candidate for the United States Senate from Alabama, was opposed to the election of Mr. P. and in favor of that of Col. Bulger.

Letter to Bill Arp.

Cousin Bill Arp.—Till I saw your production in the newspaper, I thought you was gone up, and consequently, I've been wareing krape on my hat—the one you gave me when we parted at Rome—and my hat has been draped in the words of sorrow in consequence of your deceased thereof. Arp, old feller, you've only been crushed—trampled down, beet, in the language of the poet, you've ris agin, and my old hat has shed his krape like a black snake in spring time when the sun scotches him too klose—yes, Arp, and I'm so all-fired mad when I see black Georgia niggers goin about plain soldier right in your streets, and makin delicate white females git out of the way for the black imps of perdition to pass along that I cry a little and cuss a little—and take a drink, which sometimes suthes me for a unit or so. It is then, that I can kast my Ise at the American flag which flotes at both ends of our streets, and raise my voice for sweet liberty, and who raw for the Union—I say it is when I'm knoised under the south-influence of than wonderful agent, that I am proud of America—and then I feel greatly like harmonizing—with white folks—never with niggers—durned cusses, and I don't kere who noes it—not that I've got anything personal agin them—but I can't see enny reason in given them barows when there are so many poor white folks that never had so much as an ebeard in all their borne days. Burows, for niggers!—they can't 'preceate such a pence of furniture a bit more than they can a white ivory fine coam. Bill Arp, I wish I had neve heard of you agin. Before I read your produkshun, I was sorter gitin used to the sitowayshun of affaros—but you've filled me chock full—of patriotism! Not that I or any body eles is sorry, for the Lord noes we aint—but every body is free! Selah. Free to steal—free to ly—free to go where he don't want too—and free for 10 niggers to gather a-round 1 apple basket and all make a decent livin by sellin fruit. Bless you, Arp, things have wonderfully changed—now four hundred niggers kongregate on market square every morning, at day brake, and they aint never more listed by no body. "Sweet land of liberty," you're bound to say, before you get a mile that way.

Glorious country—or will be, we reconstruct. I don't think either sexshun will ever have any more spottight to gouge each uther agin for 3 or 4 generashuns. They've smelt gun powder to their satisfaction—but, Arp, can they harmonize? Yea, vorily, the Lycin and the wlangdooles may ly down together, and the Lephud may change from spot to spot—& why shouldn't we harmonize? Aint we human? Live together mortal enemies. Never? My hare stands on edge to think of such a state of things.

We shall harmonize, whether we have a noshun that way or not. "We are going home." We aint no where in pertiklar—we tried to go out, but there was so many big shlips layin all round with guns on them, that we could just go down to the place where we tho't we could git out at, but we had to come back. We aint been out—for Andrew Johnson says so—still "we are going home"—we've got to reconstruct. And may the Lord help us on our journey home.

Your old friend, IKB SIMPSON.

P. S. I'm glad I never killed nobody. I'm glad I aint been nowhere—and I'm glad "I'm goin home."

THE CONFEDERATE DEAD.—The Tallahassee Floridian makes a suggestion which will meet with the approbation of the South, and no generous and brave, honorable man in the North will object to its accomplishment!

THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT, in the true feeling of grateful patriotism, has taken steps to rescue its dead from the many battle fields and prison uses of a war, to re-inter their remains in National cemeteries, where their graves can be marked by suitable memorials. This is laudable; and is right. But what is to be done for the Confederate dead, scattered from Gettysburg to the Rio Grande? Will the people of the South be permitted to gather their lost in like manner and place suitable memorials of affection over their graves? We know not but that the suggestion might be considered disloyal, but surely every emotion of the Southern heart would sanction a proposition to recover and honor the remains of the Southern dead. Each State should take care of its own, as there is no other power equal to the task. The United States Government has set the example—let each of the resuscitated and restored States follow in the same path of honorable devotion.

H. L. JEFFERS & CO.,

CHARLESTON, S. C., General Agents, Commission Merchants, AND LAND AGENTS. OFFICE, 118 EAST BAY,

Will give prompt attention to the sale of COTTON, and other produce. Will negotiate for the shipment of Cotton to the most reliable Houses in Europe and the North. And make liberal advances on the same when in hand for sale or shipment. Will buy Goods for Merchants and Farmers, to order. Will receive and forward goods. Will buy and sell Gold and Silver. Will negotiate the Sale of Plantations, Lands and Tenements, when placed in their care. And on this subject we beg leave respectfully to say to our friends and the public, that as we were born and raised in the State, and engaged in business for thirty years, and having travelled extensively over the State, and well acquainted with the location, soil and climate, and feeling in the closest degree identified with you, we flatter ourselves that we can be of great advantage to those who wish to sell their lands or plantations. We are now in correspondence with friends who are natives of this State, but recently located in New York, which will give us additional facilities for finding the most desirable purchasers. We therefore offer our services to those who wish to dispose of their lands, etc. To such we may send you a plain written description of your property; the District in which it is located; whether north, south, east or west, and the distance from the county site; how watered, and the character of the streams; number of acres, and how many cleared and in cultivation; and, as near as you can, the number of acres in bottom and upland; and your price per acre; with $25 to cover expense of advertising; and we will serve you to the best of our ability. In fact, give their personal and undivided attention to every interest committed to their care. H. L. J. & CO. South Carolina—our own, our native land—By which we've stood, and will forever stand.

I most respectfully beg leave to return my sincere thanks to my friends and the public for their long and liberal patronage. I thank them. And now, as the late disastrous and fatal war is over, I am again established in this city; and, as it were, commencing a new life; I therefore assure my friends and the public that my personal attention and energy shall be faithfully given to every interest committed to my care. Hence, I most respectfully appeal to all my friends and the public, and solicit a share of patronage. Born and reared among you, and thirty years devoted to business under your own eye, is my reference. H. L. JEFFERS. Nov 9, 1865 21
