

STONE & MURRAY'S
COMBINATION
CIRCUS
AND
ANIMAL EXHIBITION WILL EXHIBIT IN ANDERSON,
Tuesday, Dec. 6th, 1870.
GREAT ATTRACTION!

HERR SCHROFF'S Trained Wild Beasts, will be exhibited conjointly with the Circus Performances, without additional charge. Herr Schreff, the Great Lion Hunter, will enter the Dens of Lions, giving an exciting and thrilling performance with these Ferocious Animals of the Forest; exemplifying the immense potency that Man wields over the Brute Creation.

The Opulent Resources of the Superb
CENTRALIZATION OF ARENIC TALENT,
To delight and amuse, are of a character quite new in this country. The Exhibitions this season will be enriched and adorned by Performers imitable in their special roles, and the splendor of the Entertainments will be enhanced by every necessary requisite to make them elegant in style and finish, and magnificent in their general character.

The great variety of celebrated Performers in this Troupe is potent to sustain the elevated standard of excellence acquired by this popular Circus. A perusal of the annexed list of famous Actors will serve as palpable evidences to confirm the promise that the attained eminence and conspicuous superiority of Stone & Murray's Circus will be amply maintained this season. Behold the attractions!

In order to gratify the innate desire implanted in the human mind for witnessing
SENSATIONAL SPECTACLES,

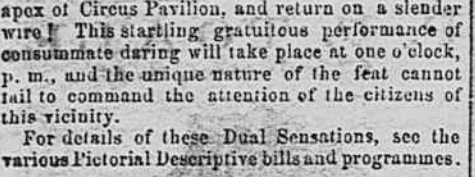

Stone & Murray will introduce two new Excitements, Free to the Public! The first will be presented on the morning of the exhibition day, in the form of a

GRAND STREET PAGEANT,
Proceeded by the Elegant Band Chariot, containing Prof. O. P. Perry's famed Orchestra, drawn by Sixteen Horses, managed by the great Maitre du Chival, Mons. J. H. Paul. This rare sight will be circumscribed with too many wonders to be minutely described in the limits of a newspaper advertisement; therefore, the reader is referred to the Parade itself for particulars.

The second Free Exhibition will be a marvellous display of human intrepidity

UP IN THE AIR,
By the daring Funambulist, Madelle, Jeanette Elisler, who will walk from the ground to the apex of Circus Pavilion, and return on a slender wire! This startling gratuitous performance of consummate daring will take place at one o'clock, p. m., and the unique nature of the feat cannot fail to command the attention of the citizens of this vicinity.

For details of these Dual Sensations, see the various pictorial Descriptive bills and programmes.

The great James E. Cooke, the Equestrian Miracle, and Champion Horseman of the World, who will exhibit for the first season in America his marvelous feats of Equitation on Six Naked Horses, in addition to his other accomplishments of brilliant equestrianism.

Mlle. Carlotta De Borge, confessedly the most daring acrobatic gymnast in the world.
Mlle. Carlotta De Borge, the astonishing and beautiful High Rope Dancer.

Miss Emily Cooke, the elegant English Manege equestrienne.
Le Jeune Bull, world renowned bare-back burdler—best in America.

Mr. Tom Barry, the famous Hibernian Clown, his first appearance in America.
Mr. Dan Stone, the popular American Clown and fun generator.

The Snow Brothers, (Benjamin, William and Alfred), the unparalleled equilibrist and acrobats.

Mr. William Duncow, the intrepid performer on Corda Volante, and his infantile son, George, the bravest juvenile equestrian in existence.
Mr. Charles Bliss, the acknowledged Champion Tumbler of the world.

Mr. William Franklin, the paragon somersault equestrian.
Sig. Columbus, the surprising Contortionist, whose strange flexibility of body and limbs has won for him the title of "Boneless Man."
Master George Cooke, the artistic and graceful principal rider.

Mr. Eugene Leach, the remarkably skillful and fearless gymnast.
Mr. B. Lamont, the gifted exponent of Panoramic Exercises.
Mr. George Adams, remarkable Scenic Protean Character and Funny Clown.
Mr. Thomas Murray, the versatile Pantomimic Wonder.

The above Performers will be assisted by such subordinate aids as will be required to give color to the varied acts.
Mr. John H. Murray, the unequalled Equestrian Director, will personally superintend the Entertainments, a guarantee that they will be given entirely devoid of objectionable features, and invested with the characteristics of refinement and purity in their representation.
The popular rules inaugurated by Stone & Murray for the preservation of strict order in their Pavilion will be adopted this season.
No smoking allowed inside the Pavilion.
We will exhibit in Greenville, December 5; Abbeville, December 7; Newberry, December 8; Unionville, December 8.
Exhibitions will be given Afternoon and Night, commencing at 2 and 7 1/2 o'clock. Does open one hour previous. Admission 75 cents. Children under 10 years, 50 cents.

'EMPORIUM OF FASHION,'

Abbeville C. H., S. C.

From the Charleston Courier, Oct. 1, 1870.

Hear what the traveling correspondent of the Charleston Courier says of the "Emporium of Fashion" at Abbeville, S. C.:

"ABBEVILLE, Sept. 28, 1870.
"Strange as it may appear, the handsomest and most unique Millinery Establishment and Ladies' Furnishing Store generally, in the whole State is to be found in this same little town of Abbeville. The proprietor is Mr. James W. Fowler, and with a display of taste for which only woman usually receives credit, he has fitted up a Fashion Emporium and filled it with an assortment of goods in his line which is irresistible. I reckon that more than half the ladies who have been assailed by Fowler's beautiful headgear presented by penitent husbands than would fill the largest church in this place."

The Proprietor of the "Emporium of Fashion" takes pleasure in proclaiming to the public that he is now prepared to show a handsome stock of Dry Goods and as grand a display of Millinery as can be found in the State.

In Dress-Making he is prepared to insure satisfaction to the most fastidious.

The Ladies in charge of the Millinery and Dress-Making Departments have returned from their visit to Baltimore with a complete understanding of the Fall styles in their respective Departments. I am not going to charge high prices, neither am I going to charge such low prices as will cause a failure in either branch. No business is worth following unless such prices are realized as will insure success. Bridal outfits gotten up at very short notice. Goods suitable for any kind of Dress always on hand. Trimmings to match. Dresses cut and basted at short notice.

Ladies sending orders by mail for Hats, Bonnets, &c., will please mention color of hair and eyes, whether married or single, and any other particulars that would be of use to us in getting up any article of Dress. When selections are left to us and the goods do not please, they can be returned. Samples of Dress Goods sent by mail upon application.

We have every article kept in a first class Dry Goods and Millinery House. Our stock is always bought with great care. We are now giving employment to eight ladies, and hope to be able to employ others.

Very Respectfully,
JAMES W. FOWLER.
