Estimate of the Growing Cotton Crop. Washington, September 15.

No cotton *eports, purpoting to have come from the Department of Agriculture during from the Department of Agriculture during the past month, have been genuine. The items in circulation, often contradictory in tenor, and assumed to be official, have had no origin in the statistical data of that office. The returns of August and September include reports from about four hundred cotton-growing counties, representing a very large proportion of the cotton area. Those for August point to an average condition of the crop, almost indentical with that of the preceding report, the averages for Alabama and Mississippi being the same, those of Louisiana, Arkansas and Tennessee being higher, and those of the other cotton States lower. The State averages of the September report are somewhat lower than those tember report are somewhat lower than those of August, though the principal depreciation occurs in the States which yield a small proportion of the crop, while the reduction is small in the important districts represented by the State of Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana. The percentage of the full condition in the first week of September, as averaged from all the attainable data, is thus stated; North Carolina eighty-two, South Carolina eighty, Georgia seventy-eight, Florida seventy-five, Alabama eighty, Mississippi eighty, Louisiana seventy-seven, Texas eighty-one, Arkansas hinety-five, Tennessee ninety-six. There are reports of injuries by the boll worm and caterpillar mainly in Mississippi and Louisiana, but no evidence that a general or very serious loss tember report are somewhat lower than those no evidence that a general or very serious loss from insects is probable. The rust is common in the Atlantic States, and to some extent on the Gulf coast, The drought has been injuri-pus in the Carolinas and Texas, though the reports of rain-fall through the South indicate a fair supply of moisture, the distribution of which has been somewhat more unequal than usual. At one point in Georgia the fall in August was nearly fourteen inches, and in parts of Florida it amounted to twenty-three inches. These variable atmospheric conditions have increased the prevalence of rust, and caused the destruction both of leaves and fruit. These draw-backs, though greater than those reported in September of last year, are not sufficiently serious to excite apprehensions of a greatly de-preciated yield. They are reported each year in some portions of the cotton area. In the record of last year there was considerable complaint of damage to the cotton crop from rust, worms and unfavorable August weather .-These facts do not point to an enlargement of the expectation hitherto indulged. If they are reliable, the most favorable season would scarcely bring a crop exceeding three and one-third million of bales. If the growing season should be short or unfavorable, three millions would be a good result, and with a combination of unfavorable circumstances, the product might be still further reduced.

THE CULTIVATION OF RICE.—This valuable grain, which probably subsists more of man-kind than any other single article, can be cul-tivated in suitable localities in many of the higher portions of our State. Messrs. Wagener & Monsees have left at our office a fine specimen of rice on the stalk which was taken a few days since from the farm of Mr. J. C. Keys, near Anderson Court House, South Carolina. The specimen exhibits a well developed grain, and its appearance would indicate an abundant product. Those interested can inspect the sample at this office. - Charleston News.

Exuberant Health

Is a blessing vouchsafed to few. Even those who have been favored by nature with strong constitutions and vigorous frames are apt to neglect the precautions necessary to preserve these precious endowments. Indeed, as a rule, the more healthy and robust a man is, the more liberties he is inclined to take with his own physique. It is some consolation to the naturally weak and feeble to know that they can be sprinvigorated and built up, by a proper use of the means which science has placed at their disposal, as to have a much better chance of long life, and exemptions from discuse and pain, than the most athletic of their fellows who are foolish enough to suppose themselves invulnerable, and act accordingly.

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need an occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions. In fact, a pure, wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideration of the busy millions, and they have the article in Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It is a staminal medicine, i. e. it imparts permanent strength to weak systems and anvigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have been introduced ad libitum, and, as far as the public is concerned, ad nauseum, in the hope of rivaling it; but they have all either perished in the attempt, or been left far in the rear. It has been the great medical success of the present century, and it medical success of the present century, and it is quite certain that no proprietary medicine in this country is as widely known, or as general-

Ten lightning presses, running incessantly (Sundays excepted.) the whole year through, barely supply the demand for the illustrated Almanac, in which the nature and uses of the preparation are set forth, the circulation now being over eight millions a year.

Important to Builders and Contractors.

We learn from our Charleston exchanges that Mr. P. P. Toale, the well-known mannfacturer of Doors, Sashes, Blinds, &c., has established a depot at No. 20 Hayne street, where he keeps constantly on hand not only all articles from his own manufactory, but also every variety of builders' hardware, French and American window glass, both plain and ornamental, slate mantels, and, in short, everything necessary to finish handsomely a residence, a store,
