EVER SAW,

Called in on Monday morning, before breakfast, and said to me: Mister Pegg, I take the Intelligencer, and always look at your advertisements to see what is going on in the world-I was reminded by it that I owed you a little, so I want to "square up." He further said, when a merchant DUNS people so gently, as you do, they ought to settle as quick as possible, for you paid cash, "I'll bet," when you went to New York, where you saw all those curiosities. He handed me twenty dollars and walked out, and I said to another man standing by,

"That's a Mighty Nice Man."
