which, though much smaller than the celebrawhich, though much smaller than the cerebra-ted one at Strasbourg, is, from its, description, much more complicated. We see, in a glass case, a three-story, steeple-shaped clock, four feet wide at the first story and nine feet high. The movement is placed in the first story, on four delicate columns, within which swings the pendulum. The second story consists of two tower-like pieces, on the doors of which there are two pictures that represent boyhood and early manhood. A tower crowns, as third right piece of the second story opens, and Death, as a skeleton, scythe in hand, appears, and marks the hour by striking a bell. But it is at the twelfth hour that we have the grand spectacle in the representation of the day of judgment. Then when Death has struck three blows on the top of the little bell, the cock on the top of the tower suddenly flaps his wings and crows in a shrill tone; and after Death has marked the twelfth hour with his hammer the cock crows again twice. Immediately three angels, who stand as guardians, in a central position, raise their trumpets in their right hands (in the left they hold swords) and blow a blast towards each of the four quarters of the earth. At the last

At the last be given the banks of the withdrawal of any blast the door of the tower opens, and the of the funds. blast the door of the tower opens, and the blast the door of the tower opens, and the resurrected children of earth appear, while the destroying angel sinks out of sight. Then, suddenly Christ descends, surrounded by an-gels. On his left there is an angel who holds the scales of justice, on his right another car-ries the Book of Life, which opens to show the alpha and omega—the beginning and the end. Christ waves his hand, and instantly the good among the resurrected are separated from the latter to the left. The Archangel Michael salutes the good. The Archangel Michael salutes the good.

Rates of Advertising. Advertisements will be inserted at the rate of One Dollar per square for the first insertion, and Fifty Cents per square for each subsequent insertion less than three months. A square consists of the space occupied by ten lines of this type, equivalent to one inch. No adver-tisement counted less than a square. Liberal contracts will be made with those right to gravity for the track of the set a decided yes or no. In due time an answer came. The widow said she was much changed by the lapse of years, and more still by her cares and afflictions. She had lost her cheer-fulness, beauty, all that had once made her at-tractive; still, if what remained of her former self was worth having, then her dear old friend fined to the immediate business of the firm of individual contracting. Obitnary Notices exceeding five lines, Trib-ntes of Respect, and all personal communica-tions or matters of individual interest, will be charged for at advertising rates. The "dear old friend" had waited too long to brook even a day's unneccessary delay, so the hext train after the receipt of the letter carried him to the home of his beloved in the West. A gentleman at Lancaster, Pa., has a horse that takes his children to school in the A Wonderfal Clock. A German of Cincinnati has invented a clock high though much smaller than the celebrafor the teeth, and so the twain were made one in spite of this little drawback. They are now living in Georgetown, happy and prosperous, and not even the teeth are wanting to enable the wife to enjoy all the good things offered for

tive Cochran, from Anderson, has introduced an important bill entitled "a bill to regulate early manhood. A tower crowns, as third story, the ingenious structure. A cock, as a symbol of watchfulness, stands on the top, di-rectly over the portal. When the clock marks the first quarter the door of the left piece of the second story opens, and a child issues from the background, comes forward to a little belt, in causes pending therein shall be immediately in causes pending therein shall be immediately the background, comes forward to a little belf, gives it one blow, and then disappears. At the second quarter a youth appears, strikes the bell twice, and then disappears; at the third there comes a man in his prime; at the fourth we have a tottering old man, leaning on a staff, tomes a man in his prime; at the fourth we this the bill provides that all moneys received have a tottering old man, leaning on a staff, who strikes the bell four times. Each time the door closes of itself. When the hours are full, the door of the right piece of the second story opens, and provides that all moneys received in a bank or banks designated by a State Financial Board, to be composed of the Governor, Comptroller troller General, State Treasurer, Attorney General and the Judge-of the circuit in which the moneys as a shelton south of the second story opens.

Corruption in High Places.

The christian knows that the world is bad enough. He knows it from his own experience, and from observation, and from the Bible which he accepts as the Word of God. He knows that there is none good, that all are corrupt, that there is no moral soundness in our race since the fall. He is often over-whelmed at the thought of his own wickedness as well as the wickedness of others. But just now our country is having such an exhibition of the depravity of human nature as ought to convince the most incredulous that there is a deep seated and wide spread moral disease pre-vailing among our race. Crime, high handed and bare faced, is lifting its head, not only in the alleys and purlieus of society, but in the highest and most sacred places. In our own land, how is it? In the South, perhaps, the world scarcely expects any thing better. Where ignorance, such as we have

No wonder that Governors come out of the mud and mire wonder that money will buy a passport to the United States Senate. These things, we say, are to be expected while things remain as they

A complete drama is here represented, with-out the aid of a human hand. The movements Cotton States, has completely answered the objection that it is simply a speculation in the hands of lawyers and lobbyists. The weightiest objection in the view of the opponents of the bill is that a large portion of the claims for re-bate of tax is in the hands of lawyers. To this it is replied that three-fourths of the claims before the Court of Claims and before Congress are to-day in the hands of lawyers who are prosecuting them for contingent fees-that is, settlers within the borders of the State, who claims which are being prosecuted for continsettlers within the borders of the State, who have paid their own passage to this country, and brought hither sixty thousand dollars in money. In the colony of New Sweden, situa-ted in the thinly settled northern portion of the State, there are now one hundred good houses and eighty-eight barns. Each settler has from five to twenty acres of land cleared, and the colony has two steam mills for making shingles and a saw mill run by water. Thirty shingles and a saw mill run by water. -- A recent writer believes there are only three things needed to bring about the millennium. First, a motive power to do all the work of steam, but require no fuel; second, arial navigation, by which geographical and political boundaries will be obliterated, and the whole world become one nation ; and third, chemical food, to be made in the laboratory without either animal or vegetable substances, and produced so cheaply that want will be unheard of.

WHAT IS THE "CREDIT MOBILIER ?"-This question continues to be asked, in spite of the repeated explanations already given. The in-side history of that combination, which availed itse f of an old act of incorporation passed by the Pennsylvania Legislature, and organized under the French financial designation now so notorious, is related in an affidavit of one of its members, Dr. Thomas C. Durant, of which the following is a brief summary: When the Union Pacific road was under construction a "ring" was formed inside the direction, embracing, as such a combination always does, the shrewdest, most active, and least scrupulous of the Board, for the purpose of making large fortunes for its members in an illegitimate manner, at the cost of the road and of the unsuspecting stockholders. As usual, the object was to be achieved by means of construction contracts. Through the votes of the "ring" the work was to be awarded in a lump to some dummy contractor, at a price double or more than double the cost, with a fair profit added; for, as a great many capacious appetites had to be satisfied, an ample margin was necessary. The contractor was then to make over the contract to the "ring" Directors, in the capacity of stockholders of the Credit Mobilier, the pretense being that the Credit Mobilier had the means to push the work vigorously forward, and would be better able to do so than any single individual. In pursuance of this conspiracy-for it was noth-ing else-the contract for the construction of a large portion of the road at fifty thousand dollars a mile was awarded and duly assigned to the "ring"-a price which, according to Dr. legitimate cost of the work. This, however, was not enough. By the votes of the conspira-tors many miles of the road which had already been constructed and accepted by the United States Government as complete, and which had - "Man wants but little here below, nor wants that little iong," is a libel, Josh Billings asserts.
