— Gen. Alfred Cummings, late of the Confederate army, and Governor of Utah from 1857 to 1861 under an appointment from President Buchanan, died at his residence near Augusta, Ga., on the 9th inst. Gov. Cummings was at his death about fifty-six years of age. He was born in Georgia, married a daughter of Dr. John Randall, of Boston, Mass. In 1835 he was Mayor of the city of Augusta, when that place was sorely smitten by yellow fever. His fidelity and fearlessness in attending night and day to the needs of the sufferers won him the admiration of all. He served in the Mexican war, and was subsequently an Indian agent. At the outbreak of the war he went with his native State, and, commanding a brigade, was wounded June 12, 1864, in the battle of New Hope Church, and at Jonesboro on the 31st of August, the same year.
