

LOCAL MATTERS.

TO ADVERTISERS.

The Anderson INTELLIGENCER has the largest circulation of any country paper published in the State, and has more than three times the circulation of any other paper in Anderson County.

BRIEF MENTION.

See the advertisement of Mrs. M. Lesser. Persons on the Savannah side will find the Rock Mills Store ready to supply their wants.

Messrs. J. S. Murray, Jr., of Anderson, and W. W. Brown, of Williamston, are students at Furman University this session from Anderson County.

We are requested to announce that there will be a meeting of the Executive Board of the Saluda Baptist Association at Belton on Saturday afternoon, the 6th of October.

We would call attention to the advertisement of Messrs. Norris & Clarke. Persons wishing to procure a first class sewing machine on very reasonable terms would do well to consult them.

Col. James A. Hoyt, editor of the Columbia Register, paid Anderson a short visit last week. Our people are always glad to have him in our midst, where he has labored so long and so faithfully.

A little colored child, about two years old, was drowned by falling into a tub of water, in Anderson, last week. It was playing about where washing had been done, and was dead when found.

Mr. James McLees, a respected citizen of Rock Mills township, died at his residence in this County, on Wednesday, the 13th inst. He leaves a large circle of relatives and friends who mourn his death.

Messrs. Sullivan & Co. have a few words to say in this paper about the Anderson market, which they will repay our subscribers to read. Their prices are astonishingly low, and show the advantages of Anderson as a market this season.

Sloan, Lee & Taylor always keep large stocks of Bacon, Flour, Molasses, Syrup, Salt, and a full line of goods at retailing prices. You can save money by calling on them at their new store in Greenville, where Mr. R. L. Moorehead will be happy to wait upon you.

Mr. W. R. Richardson, a graduate of Wofford College, from the Saluda side of Anderson County, is pursuing a theological course at Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tennessee, with a view to entering the University of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

The advertisement of Messrs. A. J. Stringer & Co. announce to their friends and customers that they are still engaged in the mercantile business at Belton, and will be pleased to see their old customers again this season. They have a large and complete stock of goods, which they offer low for cash.

A change in the advertisement of the Emporium of Fashion arrived too late for insertion in this issue, but will appear next week. In the meantime, we will state that it announces the arrival of a full stock of all lines of ladies' goods calculated to fascinate or please the tastes of the most fastidious. Give the Emporium a call, and see for yourselves.

We would ask attention of our merchants to the advertisement of Messrs. F. W. Wagner & Co., of Charleston, which appears elsewhere. We hope these gentlemen will receive a large share of trade from the up-country this season. They are high-toned, honorable gentlemen, and sell groceries, fertilizers, &c., as low as can be bought in any market.

The live grocery store of Ligon & Hill is still at the front, and is selling goods at prices as low as can be afforded in any market in South Carolina. The members of this firm are thorough merchants, with enterprise and energy enough to compete with the prices offered in best markets. Do not neglect to give them a liberal share of patronage.

The ladies of Pendleton intend having charades on to-morrow (Friday) evening at Maxwell's Hall, for the purpose of raising funds to re-cover St. Paul's Episcopal Church at that place. From the experience of our ladies managing this entertainment, and their past success, all who are fortunate enough to be present on to-morrow evening may rest assured that they will spend an agreeable evening.

Rev. Thomas F. Gadsden has been elected to the rectorship of Grace Church, in this place, and has signified his acceptance thereof. The Episcopal congregation will, therefore, in future enjoy the privilege of regular morning and afternoon services on the Sabbath. The location of Mr. Gadsden in our midst adds a polished and pleasant gentleman to the citizens of our town.

The attention of our lady readers is directed to the advertisement of the Ladies' Store, from which they will see that Miss Lizette Williams has just returned from the Northern markets, where she purchased a large and varied stock of dress goods and millinery. Now is the time to call and purchase your fall and winter out-fits, for those who purchase first will have the privilege of selecting from the largest stock.

Rev. H. F. Christberg, the excellent pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church at this place, requests us to announce that the services of his Church will be regularly resumed on next Sabbath morning. The congregation will be glad to have their regular services again, although the cessation has been a brief one. Mr. Christberg is an eloquent speaker and, though young, stands high among the ministers of his denomination.

We are indebted to Messrs. F. W. Wagner & Co., of Charleston, for a printed schedule of the freight rates for Charleston, so far as groceries, &c., are concerned, put us on an equality with the rates which Greenville has enjoyed. Messrs. Wagner & Co. have worked indefatigably for a reduction of freight to the up-country for months, and our people are much indebted to them and other Charleston business men for the advantage of change.

The advertisement of Messrs. Sloan, Lee & Taylor, of Greenville, S. C., direct public attention to one of the most reliable and enterprising grocery and heavy dry goods establishments in upper Carolina. The firm is composed of gentlemen of fine experience and of the highest personal character. They have one of the largest and most complete stocks of goods that can be found in Greenville. Persons from this section who may trade in Greenville will find Mr. R. L. Moorehead, formerly of this County, with this firm, and they can rely upon the most satisfactory treatment from them.

THE CIRCUIT COURT.

The Circuit Court will terminate this week. The cases have so far been unimportant, except the drainage case, in which the County Commissioners are suing certain persons under the Drainage Act for assessments.

The counsel for Orr Latimer, convicted of burglary, have appealed. The Judge sentenced Ransom Blackman, convicted of assault and battery, to two months imprisonment or twenty-five dollars fine and the costs of the case. He paid the fine.

Robert Cow was found not guilty of assault and battery. The Strickland burglary trial occupied two days, and elicited the deepest interest on the part of the entire community.

The Strickland burglary trial occupied two days, and elicited the deepest interest on the part of the entire community. It was very ably argued by Messrs. J. E. Brazzale, B. F. Whitner and Gen. S. McGowan for the defense, and by Solicitor Cotran for the State. Judge Northrop delivered a fair and impartial charge, after which the jury retired, and remained out for about four hours. They found Wm. B. Strickland guilty of grand larceny, and Benjamin and Abner Strickland not guilty. The defendants counsel moved in arrest of judgment in the case of Wm. B. Strickland, and being overruled, appealed.

EXCURSION TO CHARLESTON.

Arrangements have been made by the railroad authorities for the sale of excursion tickets from all points in the upper portion of the State to Charleston and return at exceedingly low rates. The sale of these tickets will begin at the several depots on Monday next, the first of October, and continue until Saturday following, the sixth day of the month. Persons availing themselves of these tickets will have to start between Monday, the 1st, and Saturday, the 6th, of October, and will be good to return at any time within ten days from the day they were sold, and parties holding them will be allowed to stop over in Columbia, either going or returning, but not at intermediate points. The price of tickets to Charleston and return will be as follows for this section: Points above Anderson and Williamston, $5.50, and points from Anderson and Williamston to Chappell's Depot, $5. These are very low rates of passage, indeed, and do not amount to as much as half the regular fare in one direction. The excursion is also very considerably arranged to occupy six days instead of one, thereby preventing the jam which is incident to all ordinary excursions. This will afford our citizens a favorable opportunity for visiting our "City by the Sea," and will no doubt be embraced by large numbers of them.

WILLIAMSTON.

We embrace this opportunity to furnish our readers with such news as we can gather relating to our village. In the first place, we have a new council, of which Mr. S. D. Deal, the proprietor of the hotel, is the head. Under their direction and supervision the streets—or rather roads—have been well worked, so far as we have seen. The plan pursued here is to work the road alone, and leave the sidewalks to be kept in order by private residents along the line. The bar-room has been closed, and peace and order prevail throughout the community. Mr. R. V. Acker has opened a store on the western side of the creek, and is engaged in the mercantile business. He hopes he will meet with success. Capt. Ford of Marion, has located in our village, and engaged in the mercantile business. He comes highly recommended, and has been several years the chief clerk in a large mercantile establishment in Marion. He is a high-toned gentleman, and an active, intelligent and courteous merchant, who understands his business thoroughly. The other merchants are renovating their stocks of goods, and are endeavoring to make their price list please even the most captious. The Female College is in a flourishing condition. The Male Academy has thirty-one pupils in actual attendance. Yesterday Bishop Wightman preached the eleven o'clock sermon in the Methodist Church. He selected as his text, 1st Thess., 5th, 18th—"In everything give thanks, for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you." He maintained that the will of God is based upon rectitude, wisdom and goodness. He affirmed that it is the will of God concerning us that we should pray without ceasing, give thanks in everything, and rejoice for evermore. He made a nice distinction between joy and happiness—the former depending upon our character and the latter upon our condition. In his peroration he made a beautiful and touching appeal to the youth of the congregation to be distinguished alike for depth of thought and beauty of figure. It was indeed the scholar and the divine, and was delivered in an eloquent and impressive manner. His venerable appearance constituted much to the effect of the effort.

TOWNSVILLE.

Townsville merchants are beginning to look up, as once in a while you get a glimpse at a greenback dollar. Mr. Lafayette Farmer, formerly of Greenville, has located in this place, where he is engaged in the mercantile business. He occupies the new store-room on Main street. Corn crops in this section, with an increased acreage, are certainly much better than usual; while cotton, though somewhat injured by the drought, is thought to be a fair average. The schools of this township have been steadily on the wane since the suspension of the free term, until recently, when it appears that, with a single exception, they have prematurely dried up. The indications portending bad weather increased until last Wednesday, the 19th inst., when it culminated in the equinoctial gale. The rain fell almost incessantly for forty-eight hours, while a steady easterly wind, blowing cold and wintry-like, reminded us of over-coats must be long, supplied the place of linen drawers, and that the season of straw hats was being spent. Efforts are now being made to secure the services of Mr. David P. Verner as teacher for the coming year. The work on the Townville (Presbyterian) Church is progressing finely, and ere long, it will be a complete, new, and elegant house of worship, which will not only add to the appearance of the town, but will reflect greatly upon the moral energy and christian perseverance of the denomination in this community. The Baptist brethren of this place have also, within the shortest time imaginable, perfected measures by which to commence the building of a new house. Already the old, dilapidated building in which the Rev. J. K. Mendenhall but a few days ago labored so zealously, and discoursed so eloquently, has been ruthlessly torn from its foundations, and upon the same site a new church is now in process of erection. The repairs on the free bridge across Seneca at Earle's, with the exception of bolting, are completed. The contractor is only waiting the arrival of the bolts, when, in a few days, the work will be entirely finished. Competent judges pronounce this work a safe and substantial job, which, it is hoped, will preclude the liability of incurring any more useless expenditures of the people's money here for at least some time to come. The recent revivals of religion in this vicinity have wrought a wonderful effect upon the minds of our people, and it is hoped, made a lasting impression upon the moral status of this community. The colored people of this vicinity have also had a series of enthusiastic meetings, extending through a period of several weeks past. Much interest has been manifested in their meetings, and if prompted by the right spirit, they will doubtless result in much good.

County Correspondence.

The Anderson Baptist Sunday School has elected Messrs. L. P. Smith and B. Frank Mauldin to represent them in the Sunday School Institute, to be held at Belton on Friday night, Saturday and Sunday, October 5th, 6th and 7th. Messrs. E. B. Murray and Wm. Henry Strickland, as members of the standing committee on organization, will attend the Institute, also.

WM. HENRY STRICKLAND, Sept. 24. Supt. A. B. S. S.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MEETING.

A Sunday School service will be held in the Baptist Church next Sunday at 4 p. m. Addresses are expected from R. F. Diver, L. P. Smith and J. E. Brazzale. The School will sing between the speeches.

The Sunday Schools of the Town are all invited to be present, and the public generally.

WM. HENRY STRICKLAND, Supt. Baptist S. S.

HONRA PATH.

The protracted meeting closed on Monday night last. Twenty-five members were added to the M. E. Church. Besides these quite a number will be added to the membership of other churches. During the continuance of the meeting—eighteen days—a very deep religious feeling was manifested, and though the congregations were at all times large, good order prevailed throughout. Rev. W. H. Strickland is assisting Rev. R. W. Burts in a protracted meeting at Broadmouth Church. Mr. M. Nicely is making some repairs to the water station. Now, if the company will give us a new depot to match other improvements going on, everybody will be glad. Capt. S. M. Tribble was stricken with paralysis at Mt. Bethel Church on Friday last. Though reported dangerously ill, we hope he may soon recover. The Singing Convention at Mt. Bethel, we learn, was largely attended.

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

Editor Anderson Intelligence:

A humorous writer says, "If you want to do well in the music business, have a top note." My verdict is, "If you want to do well in the fashion business—i. e., if you wish to be fashionable—wear beads." Have them on your bonnet, shower them on your costume, wear them peeping forth from beneath your dress, bestrew plentifully on your stockings, and even on your shoes. The beads just mentioned are bronzed, or made to glitter with metallic effect, the latter style being the clair de lune jet, of which we shall see and hear a good deal before the expiration of the winter. Bronze will be the leading color. Tin going to be bronze, bronze—i. e., in silks, dress goods, millinery, and I know not what. Now, "why is this thus?" one asks, and I answer for several reasons. Firstly, because the various bronzed shades harmonize well with the different yellows now so fashionable. Then, again, bronze is a handsome color, and affords a variety from brown, on which the changes have been rung so everlastingly that, despite its many advantages, we have grown somewhat tired of it. Runners and gaiters of color, now, we find that bronze is more generally suitable than blue, green, plum or grey, and therefore while we shall see all the above hues patronized, yet bronze will be the color.

Is it a dress of woman's rights that dress materials look rough enough to suit only Amazons going to war? To be that as it may, it is a fact that they do. Yet, the vanity of the sex comes out in the bright interminglings of color which are apparent—gay dashes or dotings (maybe both) of red, blue or yellow scattered broadcast, and at random over the goods, as one would sow wheat in a field. The ground work may be plain, or, again, it may be wrought in mosaic figures, but regularity of design is thus set at naught and counteracted. New silks also are devised in similar fashion, and both come under the heading of "boursed goods." But should some doubt be put on your mind, you would do well to see that which is the leading color. "So I have, and so I do now. Let me explain. Bourette goods being so rough need an offset, and here comes in your bronze, effective in plainly worn woollens and silks, which will appear as parts of combination costumes. Standard materials are among the first importations, and as for general wear nothing is so desirable as black. We find that special attention is paid to the better class of black goods. In cashmeres the "Grand Opera" brand is preferred by purchasers of discrimination, and in mohairs the "Beaver" brand is excellent. In silk finished, and a fast black, while the sable brand of "Turkish Brilliance" possesses the highest degree of brilliancy, and is the most beautiful black lustre goods ever imported.

MILLINERY.

We are rushing after satin and plush with the rapidity of a widow "along in years," who seeks to fascinate a girl of sixteen. Velvet is classed as thoroughly respectable, but who wants to dress "respectably?" We want something stylish—something which is new, and which causes Mrs. A— over the way to look at us and feel jealous. In millinery, especially, sparkles the clair de lune jet. The crown, the brim, the narrow bands, busting on aigrettes, hanging as petals, bestrewn on leaves, glistening on buckles, and giving out changing hues with every change of light. Shapes are various—with square or slightly pointed crowns, and narrow brims, and foliage is massed in heavy mountures, occasionally lightened by flowers.

COSTUMES.

Princess polonaises lead, but close fitting basques and overskirts are not discarded, or, again, we find the princess dress all in one. One of the handsomest dresses of the last named style is the "Davenport" dress, having the front draped across, quite low down, and a plaited train inserted about midway down the back, producing a fan-like effect. The "Cyrano" polonaise is also novel and distinguished, being a unique design in which the waist, both back and front, is partially draped and confined in a deep yoke. The "Camille" basque is a distingue design, tight fitting, with the trimming arranged to simulate a vest, and the neck cut low and shawl shaped. The "Janita" overskirt is irregular in arrangement, and very stylish, the front being draped on the right in deep folds, while on the left side plain and lapping over the right at the belt. The closely clinging drapery, at present fashionable, demands a support for the dress other than that afforded by the ordinary underskirt, and hence we find different kinds of tournures designed which combine both grace and support. The "Queen" which, besides being very stylishly shaped, possesses a durability and elasticity combined with a gossamer lightness never before equalled. It is entirely new, made without pockets, clasps, buttons, or other metallic device, and the tapes are sewed to the wires by a localizing sewing machine of novel construction, made especially for this purpose. One will be sent, post paid, on receipt of $1.50 by J. L. Colby & Co., 425 Broome Street.

THERE IS GREAT CAUSE TO BE THANKFUL!

NOTWITHSTANDING the great financial depression that has pervaded all over our land, we feel thankful that in the dispensation of a kind Providence we have been enabled to supply our customers with food to sustain the physical man, and raiment to protect their bodies from—

Winter's cold and chilling blast, And Summer's scorching sun,

And as it has pleased an all-wise God, in dispensing His blessings, to reward your labors with a bountiful crop, and as we have befriended you in your great need, and you are about to reap your rich harvest, we expect you, as just men, to remember that your first duty—after returning thanks to Him who caused the earth to give her increase—is to come forward and pay "that thou owest." Thus, you will perform your duty to yourselves, to us, and to Him who has rewarded your labors.
