While the review was progressing at Pendleton on last Friday, information came that the Radicals of the Fork intended to have a political meeting at Parker's Church, near Townville, at 3 o'clock that afternoon They had previously announced that they would hold a meeting at this place on the next afternoon, and the report became current that they had changed the time to Friday, so as to prevent the Democrats, who were attending the "Red Shirt" parade, from being at their meeting to take part in it. On this information, Gen. E. W. Moise, Col. J. A. Hoyt and Maj. E. B. Murray, with the companies of Captains J. M. Kidd, F. L. Sitton and R. E. Mason, left Pendleton between 1 and 2 o'clock, for the purpose of attending the meeting. As the companies in advance came upon the meeting, they found the party dispersing, and it is believed that a courier conveyed them the information that the Democrats would be at the meeting, and therefore Parker, the Republican County Chairman, announced that he would hold his meeting at 2 o'clock on the following day, as previously appointed. Gen. Moise was compelled to return to Columbia, and could not wait for the meeting, but Messrs, Hoyt and Murray remained over to take a hand in it. Capt.

Mason's company declined returning on the next day, and Capt. J. C. Stribling's Flying Artillery was sent for in its stead. At the appointed hour the arrangements were made for opening the meeting. Wm. R. Parker was to speak first, and be followed by Col. Hoyt and Maj. Murray, after which Newton Whitner was to close for the Republicans. Before the meeting was opened it was stated that a colored man named Andy had come to the meeting armed and threatening to have a row. Parker nominated this man for Chairman. but Mr. Murray announced that he nor any other man who came there to have a row should preside over the meeting, and after a little consultation, Col. Hoyt suggested that each speaker act as his own chairman, which was agreed to. Parker then made the first speech in a very conservative and general way, travelling over the landing of the slaves, the revolution, the late war, reconstruction, &c. He and the colored people were willing to join the Democrats and vote with them in this County if they would give them one representative and one County Commissioner He claimed that the INTELLIGENCER'S account of the County Republican Convention was incorrect, and misrepresented him about ruling the motion to endorse Gov. Hampton out of order. He also stated that he had always been willing to go with the Democrats if they would give the colored people a part of the offices, and that in the last campaign he had proposed it to Col. Hoyt, who agreed that Parker should call a meeting of the colored people and he would call one of the Democrats to consider the question, but they did not do so. He dwelt on the slavery question, and closed as usual with vulgar and indecent language. He was followed by Col. Hoyt, who began by denying that he agreed to call a meeting to consider Parker's proposition, and said that he told Parker to call his meeting and submit its action to him. Parker admitted that this was correct, and Col. Hoyt gave as his reason that he knew Farker's name would be on the list presented, and he wanted to let him show himself in this way. He spoke of the just and equal course pursned by the Democrats towards the colored people, and commented on the great advantages offered the colored people in our provisions for public education. He rasped Parker for the irreverent and vulgar language which he used, showing that such He advised Parker to retire from politics and devote himself to his ministry. Parker said be could not make a living at preaching, and Col. Hoyt told him if he would quit politics and try it he would agree to make a speech to his congregation, showing them the importance of supporting their preacher. He dwelt at length on the importance of friendly relations between the races, and showed that gratitude and self-interest combine to make it the duty of the colored man to support Gov. Hampton and the Democratic purty. As Maj. Murray went upon the platform, Morris Carter, a notorious colored politician of the Fork also, stepped up and announced that he intended to speak then. Mr. Murray, in laconic style, invited him off of the platform, and he accepted the invitation, saying, as he left, "I beg your pardon, sir." Mr. Murray then began by urging the colored people to be friendly with the white people, on whom they are dependent for their work and support. He said there was nothing to be gained by this political excitement. That the colored people were in a great minority in this County, and were wasting time in politics, besides keeping up strife where there was no reason for it. He said the Democrats had treated them fairly, and would continue to do so, and asked if they could point to a single instance where a law had been passed that hurt the colored man. Parker said, the fence law. Mr. Murray proved on him and made him own that he himself advocated the adoption of that law, and then advised the colored people not to follow the man who was hypocritical enough to advise them to do a thing and then turn round after it was done and say it was a bad law. He then made Parker admit that the INTELLIGENCER's account of admit that the INTELLIGENCE'S account of the Republican County Convention was correct, and asked the colored people how much confidence they could have in a man that would deny a thing that he knew was true. He then told them that the white people had been better to them than they would have been to the white people if they had had the opportunity, and cited them to the Constitution of Liberia, which prohibits white persons from voting or holding office. He condemned Parker's raking up of the past 240 years to prejudice them against the Democrats, and said that it was past 240 years to prejudice them against the Democrats, and said that it was ungrateful in him, as Col. Cothran, the Democratic Solicitor, had forgiven him of the charge of getting too much school money a short time ago. He told the colored people that they had better let the past he past and take care of the present. That they had better look after bread and meat. That the Democratic party was the party to get it in. He told the colored people that they were not prepared for filling the posi-tion of legislators yet, and proved it to them by a series of questions to Parker, none of which was he able to answer. Next he at-tacked Parker for mixing religion with politics, and made him own to taking up a politics, and made him own to taking up a collection in his Church to pay his expenses to the Radical State Convention.

The day was a most successful one, and it is believed its results will be very beneficial to the Democratic party in this County.

We have only given a very brief outline of portions of the speeches. They were com-prehensive and judicious, and evidently prehensive and judicious, and syndaus, made a fine impression upon the colored people. They also rasped Parker to such advantage as to place him in a very undesirable position before both white and colored and will no doubt cause him ored people, and will no doubt cause him to think carefully before he attempts to hold another Republican meeting. The conduct of the members of Capts. Kidd, Sitton and Stribling's companies on this occa-sion is worthy of the highest commenda-tion, as there was not an improper act m indiscret word uttered by any of the They are entitled to the credit for the cess of the meeting, which was qui harmonious—in abort, it was a fir Democratic revival.

THEY CELEBRATE THEIR SECOND ANNIVERSARY AT PENDLETON.

THE RED SHIRTS.

A Grand Military Display in Honor of the Adoption of the Famous Political Uniform.

Four to Five Thousand Persons Present-An Array of Beauty Smiles upon the Celebration—The Review, Speeches, Music, Artillery and Dinner Oc-cupy the Entire Day.

The celebration of the Second Anniverpolitical campaign uniform came off on last Friday at Pendleton, and was in every re spect worthy of the important event it commemorated. Early in the morning the ar rival of the military companies, who came to signify their appreciation of the occasion and participate in perpetuating its memory, were alive with mounted Red Shirts, and eview and attend the mass meeting. Gen. Humphreys and staff, with the greater portion of the Eleventh Brigade, were present, and also a number of campaign companies, all of which were formed in line of review along the street entering the Square from the south. This line of review consisted of the following commands:

Eastern Regiment of the Eleventh Cavalry Brigade-Colonel M. P. Tribble commanding. Captain Joseph B. Moore's Company, Capt. C. O. Mitchell's Company, Capt. E. M. Snipes' Company, Capt. J.-W. Dacus' Company, Capt. J. P. Cox's Comsany, Capt. A. M. Gnyton's Company, and Capt. Breazeale's Company.

Western Regiment of the Eleventh Cavalry

Brigade-Lieut.-Col. J. T. C. Jones commanding. Capt. J. M. Kidd's Company, Capt. W. D. Garrison's Company, Capt. C. B. Gilmer's Company, Capt. S. L. Eskew's Company, Capt. W. S. Hall's Company and | it a hearty and united support. He urged Capt S. A. Jones' Company.

A Regiment of unattached Companie was formed and commanded by Lieut.-Col. R. W. Simpson, as follows: The Connor Light Dragoons, commanded by Lieutenant J. P. Glenn, Capt. J. A. Rankin's Company, Capt. J. J. Lewis' Company, Capt. R. E. Mason's Company and Capt. F. L. Sitton's Company.

The Battalion of Artillery, commanded by Capt. J. C. Stribling, consisting of the Red Shirts, Lieut. J. G. Richards commanding; the McGowan Artillery, Capt. John S. Smith commanding.

The Palmetto Riflemen, Infantry, comanded by Capt. John E. Allen.

The Anderson Palmetto Band was placed at the head of the column, and the Pendle ton Silver Cornet Band at the rear. Both of these bands made excellent music, and added much to the interest of the review.

The ladies of Pendleton evinced their interest in the celebration by the taste and elegance with which their skill adorned the stand. There was a very general disappointment made upon the subject.

The idea spread in a very short time over the whole State, thereby inspiriting and enthusing the champions of liberty until the movement became so strong that neither the proclamation of Governor Chamberlain. nor that of President Grant, with the United States bayonets to support it, was able to make them disband. The red shirts, he be lieved, contributed more to the great victory won than any other one factor which entered the canvass. He said that there were a number of claimants for the honor of originating the straightout movement, and sary of the adoption of the Red Shirt as a he supposed that every one of them is fully satisfied that he is entitled to the praise But this is not the case with the red shirt. Its use for political campaign purposes is ceded to this company by all. There is a claim that it was started during the war, but for that matter it has been the English uniform for centuries, and has been wora began, and soon the streets of Pendleton ever since red fabrics have been made. There was no political significance attached with an eager and enthusiastic throng of to the organization spoken of, and the spectators, who assembled to witness the claim of the Pendleton Company to its origination for campaign purposes is clear and indisputable. He then spoke of the present canvass, and said that unity of purpose and of action was necessary to preserve the redemption of our civilization. He warned the people against listening to men who seek from personal motives of ambition or of prejudice to bring into this canvass anything foreign to the simple issue of Democracy or Radicalism, and said that if these issues are permitted and encouraged now they will be found to contain seeds which will bring forth a harvest of dissatisfaction and division in our ranks two years from this time. He claimed that the government under the Democrats had illustratrated the doctrine of Penn, that the worst form of government in the hands of good men is as good as the best, and insisted that the best thing the people can do is to continue this government in power by giving upon the people the necessity of maintaining our political strength in South Carolina to help purify our national government by electing a Democratic President, and arraigned the Republican party as a party of usurpation, fraud and centralization, which, if continued in power, would seek by promoting sectional hate, and the establish ment of rings and monopolies, to build upon the ruins of State rights and free government a strong government which would be inimical to all the people, and destructive of liberty itself. He closed by expressing his confidence in the perpetuity of the union, and his belief that the North and South would unite in throwing off the rule of the party of usurpation, thereby restoring the Democratic party, which would bring our country back to its former purity and glory. And he said that South Carolina, who had stood forth in bold relief Moise responded in an eloquent, polished and exhaustive discourse, which was frequently loudly applauded. Gen. Moise began by speaking of the contrast between the condition of South Carolina today and two years ago. He spoke at length upon the troubles which came upon our people after the war, and showed the effect some picture of Governor Hampton was they had in estranging the colored people, suspended. Mrs. R. W. Reeves and daughter met with quite a serious accident on last Thursday morning. As they were driving out of town their horse took fright on the top of stunning them for some time. They were carried to the residence of a neighbor, and home in the country.

The plume drill of the Palmetto Riflemen came off on last Thursday afternoon at the appointed hour on the public square, and was very creditable to the members. After a close competition, the plume was awarded to Sergeant J. L. McGee, who evinced the most perfect knowledge of, and thorough equaintance with, the intricate manœuvers of Upton's tactics. It was presented in an appropriate manner by Maj. John B. Moore, chairman of the committee of judges.

Insertuch as we commented a short time ago on the course of certain colored preachers in this County who are paying a great deal more attention to politics than to religion, we take this occasion to commend the position of Rev. James Rosemond, (colored,) Presiding Elder of the Methodist Church, who, at his District Conference, a week ago, announced that the ministers in his congregation were desired not to meddle with politics, but to give their whole attention to their ministerial duties. His advice on this subject is excellent, and if obeyed will add greatly to the influence and success of the colored preachers. Mr. John McFall, of Williamston, one of the surveying party on the Belton, William-ston and Easley Railroad, gave us a call on last Monday morning. Mr. McFall informs us that the route now being surveyed will us that the route now being surveyed will

EDITOR INTELLIGENCER: In the last issue of your paper I observed the nomination of myself by the Belton Democratic Club for the office of Coroner. I am duly grateful for the compliment, but respectfully decline he nomination for the following reasons: 1st. The office of Coroner is not vacant. It is rather hard upon my enthusiastic friends, but such is the fact. 2nd. The list of candidates is sufficiently large without bringing out more for a place where there is no vacancy.

3rd. I am not ambitious of office, and do not consider myself qualified to fill any osition of importance in the public service. 4th. The duties of Coroner might require ne to deal with some of my respected triends by reason of their suicide from menal causes; or, were the Sheriff's duties imposed upon me, in a more public and disressing manner.

With assurances of profound regard for the partial friendship which prempted the honor of such a nomination, I am, sincerely, yours,

This is a compound remedy, prepared with scientific skill from vegetable ingredients, which rarely falls to cure the severest cases of Chills and Fever and the concomitant disorders. Such a remedy the necessities of the people in malarious districts demand. Its great superiority over any other medicine yet discovered for the cure of Intermittents is, that it contains no quinine or mineral, and those who take it are free from mineral, and those who take it are free from danger of quinism or any injurious effects, and are as healthy after using it as before. It has been extensively employed during the last thirty years in the treatment of these distressing dis-orders, and so unvarying has been its success that it has gained the reputation of being infalli-ble. It can, be safely recommended as a sure remedy and specific for the Fover and Ague of the West, and the Chillis and Fover of the South, which, once broken up by it, do not

The celebrated Dr. Heinitsh was there, obtained for Inventors, in the United States, Canada and Europe, at reduced rates. With our principal Office located in Washington, directly opposite the United States Patent Office, we are able to attend to all Patent Business with greater promptness and despatch and less cost, than other patent altorneys, who are at a distance from Washington, and who have, therefore, to employ "associate attorneys." We make preliminary examinations and Jurnish opinions as to patentability, free of charge, and all who are interested in new inventions and Patents are invited to send for a copy of our "Guida for obtaining Patents," which is sent free to any address, and contains complete instructions how to obtain Patents, and other saluable matter. We refer to the German-American National Bank, Washington, D. C.; the Royal Swedtsh, Norwegian, and Dauish Legations, at Washington; Hon-Joseph Casey, late Chief Justice U. S. Court of Claims; to the Officials of the U.S. Patent Office, and to Sentors and Members of Congress from every State. and advocated Southern Medicines for Southern people.
