The Negro in the North.
"Did Tom ever do you any harm, Edward?"
"Lord, sah, he didn't differ from the rest in that. They's all down on the nigger. If they don't insult him they cheat him or abuse him. You don't know how these people hate us colored folk, till 'long about election time—sah! look out, there's a nigger! You think the prejudices very strong against the colored man?"
"Think? don't I know—shoo! let a colored man try it on. There's Artie, now—the barber. Artie is a decent man, well—he's a gentleman, if any African ever was, and he's nearly white. I've laid up a bit of money to buy a lot and build a house for hisself and family. Do you know he couldn't get a man to sell him a lot for any money? The meanest white trash in town, as well as the best, wouldn't have a nigger living next door—not much; a-ha; look out, I tell you."
"Worse than old Virginia?"
"Well, sah, there's no better place for a colored man than in that same old Virginia—that is, if he minds his place. They won't stand no airs—not much, I tell you. But let a nigger keep well in his place, and he's at home, and don't you forget it."
"I should think, Jackson, you would prefer your old home then?"
"Not much. Yes, they're very good to the nigger, if the nigger knows his place. But there ain't no business. Lord, here, there's more business in West Liberty than in all Richmond. Why, I began livery on one horse; as you know, brother, the old nigger he brought out of the wagon. He give it to me, for I had rubbed it down, you see, for foah year in the wuh. Now, I have seven horses, three buggies, a phaeton, express wagon and rockaway, and I'm just git'in' right on."
"Well, couldn't you have done the same in Richmond?"
"Not much; not by a jug-full. Ef I'd the capital to begin with, and people patronized me, I couldn't have collected. You see, it ain't a nigger's place to collect wh—'a win' to him. Ef he collects a bill like a white man he's takin' on airs, and they don't like it, you see; and when they don't like it they ain't slow in showing it."
"That's this a better region for the colored citizens?"
"In some respects, certainly; but the worst of it is he ain't got no place here. They don't like him if he's humble, and cheat him if he's proud; and all wh—'a him if he's in the middle."
"But he has his political rights?"
"A nigger is at liberty to vote just as he pleases, provided it pleases him to vote the Republican ticket. But look out, colored man, why there was a report started on me once that I had tried it, and the Lord deliver us! I had a revolver handy. These Republican darkies have a little Ku Klux Klan of their own, and they're mighty active, I can tell you."—Sunday Capital.
—Mr. Moody is about to begin a winter of evangelistic work in San Francisco.
—A man in Philadelphia gathers slops and swill and garbage and distills it into whisky.
—Even a deacon won't say grace when he steps into a railway eating house. He knows that it would be asking too much to request that he be made thankful for anything he will get there.
—It is announced that the new revision of the Bible will be published in paragraph according to correct rule of arrangement, and not in the present method of verses and chapters. The poetic parts, also, will be arranged in poetic measure.
—The current Western Reserve opinion is thus reported: "We are for our neighbors know that Jim Carfield is an honest man, or least means to be honest, but he has had some tough wrestling with his conscience, and now and then he has been thrown and picked himself up with a good deal of mud on his clothes." His latest surrender to Grant and Conkling is the toughest exhibition of a plastic conscience yet recorded.
Commenting upon Mr. Thomas Hughes' colony in the N. Y. Herald says: "A million starchy, self-righting Englishmen could be induced to settle in the South the effect on the sentiment and prosperity of that section would be beneficial, not to the Englishmen. We will receive and cherish men of good will of all nationalities and none more than our Northern countrymen who come here for the common good."
—Here is the last discovery in photography. A Frenchman takes one negative of a sitter with open eyes. Then he makes the sitter shut his eyes and remain in exactly the same position while another negative is taken. The two negatives are printed on the same paper, one on each side, exactly coinciding. When this double-face picture is held in proper position before a lamp, and the lamp is rapidly moved or caused to flicker, the curious effect is produced of long continued winking. It is not claimed that a person looks more beautiful when he keeps winking, but it cannot be denied that it gives one a very interesting appearance.
"Grizzly Dan" has led a wonderful life. In Montana he was once set upon by a whole tribe of howling red devils and was obliged to run for his life. He headed for the brink of a cliff about 700 feet high, dodging the bullets fired at him as he ran, being able through long practice to tell the bullets as they came. The crowd that approached from the rear. Grizzly Dan unhesitatingly leaped over the cliff, to the amazement of the Indians, who gathered in a row to watch his fall. Dan turned in the air as he was falling, raised his Winchester rifle to his shoulder and pulled the trigger. An Indian toppled over with a ball through the eye, and Dan kept pulling the lever and trying to get until seventeen red devils had fallen through their left eyes and were falling over the cliff after him. The eighteenth shot only carried after an Indian's nose as the air was so full of falling Indians between him and the top of the cliff that his aim was a little confused. He struck his aim in the river below, and swam ashore uninjured.

—Senator Conkling when asked in Ohio the other day, "Do you regard New York as the battle-field?" replied: "Altogether as much. It cannot matter how Ohio or Indiana may go. After next week the severest part of the battle will be fought in New York, and the party which wins that State will win the fight."
—F. D. J. Lawrence, a colored lawyer of Charleston writes a letter to the New York Sun, in which he states that the people of his race are in the full enjoyment of all their rights. There is no system of oppression in the courts. "The white and the colored, the rich and the poor have even handed justice dealt out to them." Hancock will get thousands of colored votes.
—Dr. O. B. Mayer, Jr., of Newberry, has written an interesting letter to the Herald, in which he maintains the theory that Dr. Tanner, after he had fasted long to consume the nutritive materials contained in his blood, the blood commenced to absorb from his own flesh the necessary materials to sustain his life. As the weather was warm, it took very little heat-producing (carboniferous) material; much less than it would if he had fasted during cold weather consequently very little of his fat was absorbed." He says further, that Dr. Tanner would have continued to live until the available supply of oil was used up, and then he would have died. That water was absolutely necessary to the success of his fast, as there is considerable evaporation from the body going on all the time as well as loss in other ways, and therefore, without drinking water, the fluidity of the blood would have ceased. He says in conclusion: "I do not think it can be of any benefit to the medical profession. I look upon it as only proving how long Dr. Tanner could live upon his flesh."—Columbia Register.
A WISE DEACON.—"Deacon Wilder, I want you to tell me how you kept yourself and family well the past season, when all the rest of us have been so much, and have had the doctors visiting us so often."
"Bro. Taylor, the answer is very easy. I need Hop Bitters in time; kept my family well and saved the doctor bills. Three dollars' worth of it kept us well and able to work all the time. I was warranted it by two hundred dollars apiece to keep sick the same time."
"Deacon, I'll use your medicine hereafter."

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE FOR SALE.
ONE HOUSE AND LOT
on Main Street, now occupied by John R. Cochran. This House has eight large rooms, piazzas and verandahs, with iron balustrades, double self-adjusting windows, lightning rods, is covered with tin, and built with cement and brick masonry. It is the handsomest and most substantial brick house in town, with out buildings and flower yard, containing rare plants, evergreens, &c., enclosed with a wire and brick fence. Also
ONE TRACT OF LAND
lying on Generosee Creek, containing near three hundred (300) acres, bounded by lands owned by John W. Daniels, J. C. Keys, Henry Crawford and others, (formerly owned by J. C. Keys). This place contains about one hundred acres of bottom land, remainder good corn, cotton and wheat lands. Five good tenant houses on this place. Also lying West of General's road, in front of the residence of Mr. D. J. Johannon, Mr. Willis Todd, Mr. James B. Wilcox, and Mr. J. L. Pant. A portion of this tract is situated within the corporate limits of the town of Anderson. Three tenant houses on this tract.
300 ACRES OF LAND
A large proportion of both tracts of land are in cultivation. Persons desirous of purchasing should examine the lands while the crop is upon it.
Mr. John R. Cochran will show the lands, and also take any one who desires to purchase, giving information as to prices, terms of sale, &c.
If the land is not sold in a body, it will be cut up into small tracts and sold to the highest bidder.

400 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.
SINCE the introduction of this Spool Cotton to the American market, its success has been unprecedented. No other brand of thread has ever met with the same amount of public favor in the same space of time. The "O. N. T." manufacturers were the first to recognize the importance of the Sewing Machine and to make a six-cord cotton, which has ever since been the recognized standard for machines of all kinds. All the improvements in machinery that the inventive genius of the nineteenth century has produced have been adapted by the manufacturer of "O. N. T." to the "O. N. T." factories at Newark, N. J., and in England, Scotland, &c., so that the "O. N.
