

RAIN ON THE ROOF.
When the humid shadows hover Over all the shaggy spheres, And the melancholy darkness Gently weeps in rainy tears, What a bliss to press the pillow Of a cottage chamber-bed, And to listen to the mild reproof Of the soft rain overhead.

Every tinkle on the shingles Has an echo in the heart, And a thousand dreamy fancies Into being start.

And a thousand recollections Weave their air-threads into woe, As I listen to the patter Of the rain upon the roof.

Now in men's comes my mother As she used, long years ago, To regard the darling dreamers Who she left them till the dawn.

Oh! I see her leaning o'er me, As I list to this refrain Which is played upon the shingles
By the patter of the rain.

Then my little seraph sister,
With her wings and waving hair,
And her star-eyed cherub brother—A sweet angelic pair—Glide around my wakened pillow, With their palms of mild reproof, As I listen to the murmur Of the soft rain on the roof.

And another comes to thrill me With her eyes' delicious blue;
And I mind not, musing on her,
That her heart is broken true;
I remember but to love her,
With a passion kind to pain,
And my heart's quick pulses vibrate To the patter of the rain.

Art hath naught of tone or cadence That can work with such a spell As the melody of nature, When the tears of rapture well, As that melody of nature,
That subdued, subduing strain,
Which is played upon the shingles
By the patter of the rain.

THE TIMELY WARNING.
A THRILLING STORY.
My father, after an absence of three years returned to the house so dear to him.
He had made his last voyage, and rejoiced to have reached a haven of rest from the perils of the sea. His wife, who had grown from a child to a woman, and my mother—for I was young—into a rough, careless, and headstrong boy.
Her gentle voice no longer restrained me. I was often willful, and sometimes disobedient. I thought I indicated manly superiority to be independent of a woman's influence. My father's return was a fortunate circumstance for me.
He soon perceived the spirit of insubordination stirring within me. I saw by his manner that it displeased him, although for a few days he said nothing to me about it.

One afternoon in October, bright and golden, that my father told me to get my hat and take a walk with him.
We turned down a narrow lane into a fine open field—a favorite play-ground for the children in the neighborhood. After talking cheerfully on different topics for a while, my father turned to me and said, "I have a message for you from your mother—for I was young—into a rough, careless, and headstrong boy.
Her gentle voice no longer restrained
me. I was often willful, and sometimes

A Queer Discovery in the Penitentiary.
One of the penitentiary guards, named William Lowry, of Lexington, was yesterday brought before United States Commissioner J. T. Henderson, charged with the theft of a large quantity of United States silver currency. Commissioner Stoeber decided that the prisoner must give bond or be imprisoned to await trial. He was committed to the Richland County jail last night, but will be allowed a few days to procure a surety. The circumstances which led to his arrest are as follows: Colonel Lipscomb, the Superintendent, had some information which led him to suspect that some of the convicts were making plans to escape, and in pursuing his investigations into that matter, he discovered the charge of theft. He immediately ordered the arrest of one of the suspected negro convicts.
While there, other convicts came in and engaged in conversation with the negro about the plot and let out much of their proposed plans of operations, all of which were reported to the authorities of the penitentiary.
Day after yesterday Colonel Lipscomb had fifteen or sixteen of the implicated convicts brought up and confronted with the proofs against them. When they found that they were detected in this matter, they began to confess. It was then ascertained that James H. them had made their arrangements to overpower the guard on Sunday morning, first day May take their guns away and break out of confinement. In the course of their confessions, they accused certain convicts of having counterfeited money, and it was then ascertained that a certain convict some counterfeit silver dollars were found in the possession of some of them. Investigations being pushed still further, two of the dies were found in the room of the guards Lowry and this led to his arrest.

Woman's Rights in Church.
Man concedes to women the best seat everywhere but in church. The church seat (for no very good reason) is still a straight bench with a sloping back and no arms—but for the cushion a disagreeable and offensive odor is often disseminated. The latter Colonel Lipscomb thinks has not been used. A third die was thrown into the canal by one of the convicts, and for this, search will be made.—Columbia Register, 24th ult.

GUANO FUN.—The Hawkinsville, Ga., Dispatch tells the following anecdotes:
"Some days since a guano agent in Hawkinsville, Ga., was called upon by the farmer to buy guano. The farmer finally decided to purchase a load, and driving to the warehouse, loaded his wagon with the "precious stuff" and drove home. After the farmer had left town the guano agent learned that his customer had failed for several seasons past to come to time on guano notes, and the agent immediately made plans to induce the farmer to haul the guano back. He wrote the farmer a very polite note, stating that he (the farmer) had received the wrong brand of guano, and requesting him to return the load and get the "particular brand" he wanted. The farmer brought his load back, and after unloading it, he was politely informed that the "particular brand" he desired had not arrived.
Further comment in regard to this transaction is unnecessary." And still another: "A farmer called at one of our warehouses on the other day for a load of guano, and while loading his wagon, it was observed that he was very particular about selecting the sacks containing it—picking the most serviceable sack. When questioned about the matter, he replied: 'Oh, I only use the stuff because it is fashionable, and the sacks is about all I make by using it, I want good ones.'"
—It is now estimated that the forests of America will be all used up at the end of another thirty years, and a man who wants to go hunting will have to sit on a drawbridge and shoot at salmons.
—"Never borrow trouble," said a husband to his wife. "Oh, let her borrow it if she can," exclaimed the next-door neighbor, "she never returns anything you know."
