German Carp. Maj. Thomas B. Lee received from the Fish Commissioner last February fifteen German Carp, of the previous spring hatch-ing, which he placed in the mill-pond, some five miles above Anderson. A mill-boy was fishing in the pond about two weeks ago and caught one of these fish without knowing the nature of his prize. He kept the fish out of water until he went to the mill to take his grist home, when Mr. W. S. Lee recognized the Carp, and, being sur-prised at its size, ascertained its weight to be one and a half pounds. The fish, how-ever, was dead, and was therefore a great loss in the effort to stock the pond. This is a remarkable growth, and proves the Carp to be well adapted both to stocking our streams and private ponds. Every person who can make a pond should procure some of this species of the finny tribe, which it is said can be raised more easily and cheap-ly the well adapted Maj. Thomas B. Lee received from the

Each case was examined in five directions: 1, It was asked whether the criminal was under the influence of liquor at the time the deed was done; 2, Whether he was in liquor when he formed the intent to commit the crime; 3, Whether he had been led by intemperate habits into a condition which induced the com-mission of the crime; 4, Whether the in-temperate habits of others led him into a condition which induced the commission of the crime; and 5. Death of Mrs. J. B. Benson.

Death of Mrs. J. B. Benson. The Hartwell Sun of last week contains the announcement of the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Arless Benson, at her home in Hartwell, Ga., on Monday evening of last week, after an illness of some three months from bronchitis. This announcement will carry with it sadness to many relatives and friends in this county by whom the de-ceased was greatly respected and beloved for her many virtues and estimable quali-ties of mind and heart. The Sun says: "Mrs. Benson was born in South Carolina the 24th of September, 1824, near the village of Old Pickens. She was the daughter of Col. Jepths Norton, and was reared amidst the refining influences that characterized the society of that day, and which excel-lently fitted her for the life of great useful-ness which has just sadly terminated. There were other pre-cautions which tended to make the statis-tics conclusion tics conclusive.

The results obtained are exhibited in a variety of ways in a number of tables. We can only state the one fact that the investi-gation results in the addition of 12 per cent. to the 72 per cent. of crimes already direct-ly traceable to rum, making, a total of 84 per cent. due to this one cause. Most of these are crimes against persons, such as as-saults, murders, and robberries. The fig-ures which the bureau has collected at so much cost of labor and patience may w'll startle the legislator and the tax-payer, and arouse to renewed dilligence the advocates of prohibition. lently fitted her for the life of great useful-ness which has just sadly terminated. In the year 1847 she was united in marriage with Hon. J. B. Benson. For a time they lived at Pendleton, S. C., then at Fair Play, and when Hartwell was located they be-came its first settlers. During the many years the deceased has lived in this commu-nity she has become extensively known for her gentle nature, loving and benevolent disposition,' and high Christian character. tal faculties, was domestic infelicities, pro-duced by the consequences of an unhappy marriage. After living together four or five years, he and his wife separated the latter part of last February, the latter tak-ing with her the two children that had been born to them. Since that time the deceased had made repeated efforts to get the chil-dren, but failed, owing to the mother's un-willingness to give them up. This, it seems, was the trouble that preyed upon the un-fortunate man's mind most, and that made death preferable to life.

which was done on Saturday morning, when the Coroner proceeded to the resi-dence of Mr. W. L. Davis, the place at which the suicide was committed, and there held the usual inquest, at which the following testimony was taken : George Williams, being sworn, deposed as follows: as follows his mother we e talkin farmers owning bottom lands along s children. He said he was in so much trouble that he had as soon be dead, and creek and above said dam are gradually bringing all these valuable lands into cultivation, and very soon the whole of trouble that he had as soon be dead, and said if he could not get out of trouble one way he could another. I told him people could never get out of trouble in this world. He remarked that our Saviour rose on the 7th day. I told him no, it was the 3d day, and he said yes, that was so, and we will rise the same. He then said, "I must go to the plow," and went through the house. Mrs. Davis invited me in the house, and I went in and sat down at the back door. I saw Wm. Davis stop and sit down in a chair close to the chest where he had laid the pistol. His mother was sweeping the cultivation, and very soon the whole of them will be groaning under the most luxuriant crops. But we have digressed. The wheat crop of the Messrs. Glenn, although injured somewhat by the severe dry weather, will average about ten bushels to the acre. The oat crop, how-ever, will be seriously cut off. The pol-icy of Mr. Glenn seems to be to raise an abundant supply of the provision crops and as much cotton besides as the hands can thoroughly manure and cultivato well. On these two points, liberal ma-nuring and careful cultivation, turns the entire success of these enterprising young chair close to the chest where he had laid the pistol. His mother was sweeping the house. He afterwards went out of the house, and in about three minutes Theard a pistol fire, and I heard Wm. Davis hol-low, "Oh, Lordy, Mama; oh, Lord!" I knew it was his voice, but could not tell precisely the direction it came from. I then went for Mr. Leb. Davis. I was near enough to see Mr. Leb. Davis. I was near enough to see Mr. Leb. Davis. I was near found his son. This was about 2 o'clock p. m. on the 10th day of June. After the body was moved away I saw this same pis-tol lying on the ground near where he was lying. I then went back home with my wife. There was no one present about the house except myself, Mrs. Davis, and the deceased. Mrs. Davis and myself hunted about half an hour for Wm. Davis. We white and colored. One of the return is cultivating an upland field in corn, called the briar patch, which, Maj. McCann says, has been in cultivation one hun-dred years. With average seasons it will make four barrels of corn to the acre. It is planted four feet each way, one stalk in the hill, and cultivated both ways with the plough. Mr. Glean utilizes all the cotton seed on the form in manuring deceased. Mrs. Davis and myself infield about half an hour for Wm. Davis. We hunted in the woods adjoining the house. Found his body behind the smokehouse. He seemed to be in his right mind during the cotton seed on the farm in manuring for wheat and cotton. For wheat he apour conversation. GEORGE W. WILLIAMS. Mrs. Leb. Davis, being sworn, deposed as raw seed to the acre, with about one hun-dred and twenty-five pounds acid. Upon this, together with all the stable and lot manure that can be raked up, a bed is thrown with a turn plow, which lies in this condition till planting time, then the bed is completed preparatory to planting the crop. Mr. Glenn always plants all his hoed crops just as early as the season will admit. No postponing for the moon, a Good Friday, or any thing of the sort, but a pressing of the work of planting until the last seed is put into the ground. And this principle applies to the bottom lands as woll. The earlier planting, usually the better stand, the longer the season to mature the crop and the larger the yield. At least such is Mr. Glenn's experience. Another grand secret of follows: I was at home all day yesterday [Friday]. Was in the house with Mr. Williams when the pistol was fired. He was in his usual health at dinner time, and eat his dinner as usual. I came home from the field with him. I left the house as soon as I eat my dinner. I left my son William there to bring the horses to the field to plow as soon as the horses were done eating. About one hour after I left the house Mr. Williams the yield. At least such is Mr. Glenn's experience. Another grand secret of Mr. G's. success in farming is his close, personal, unremitting attention, the whole season, to the cultivation of all the came to the field where I was at work, and told me that he thought William had shot himself, as he heard him shoot and then himself, as ne heard him shoot and then heard him hollow. I came immediately to the house and found my son lying behind the smokehouse dead. It was about 2 o'clock in the evening on the 10th day of June. I saw blood on his shirt. W. L. DAVIS. crops raised. On this point Mr. G. will not admit of any interruption. Mr. John Glenn attends specially to the garden, potato and water-melon patches, and succeeds as well in these departments and succeeds as well in these departments as his other brother in the field. His prospects for early melons, however, was well nigh utterly destroyed this spring by a small bug, like the lady bug, which, in a few hours, nearly destroyed all the early plants. By a liberal application of ashes he arrested their ravages, has re-planted his crop, and all is well now. From a friend in Alabama Mr. G. re-ceived a few cotton seed of a noted va-riety, name unknown. One stalk of last year's growth is now on exhibition in After making a thorough examination of the wound in the body of the deceased, Dr. J. T. McFall, being sworn, deposed as fol-

The investigation was limited to Suffolk County, as it was assumed that the figures for it might be accepted as a suffi-ciently accurate index to those of the whole commonwealth, and, indeed, to the whole country. In one respect the statistics of the county chosen differ front those of the whole State; they give 75 per cent. as the proportion of crimes directly traceable to liquor, such as drunkenness, and they leave but 28 per cent. to be investigated. The inquiry was conducted with great care. In every court of the county an agent was paid to investigate each case. He was to talk with the criminal, with his convictions indeterminate, and it was the When the Fields are White with Cotton.

He may justly be regarded as the pioneer in the use of Peruvian guano and the cultivation of clover and grass. He maintained the fertility of the farm in a high condition by the liberal application of stable and lot manures, supplemented with a judi-clous use of guano and cotton seed. Consequently when the purchase was made on the part of the Messrs. Glenn the farm was already in a state of ad-vanced cultivation. Under their skillful management the high character of the farm has been not only maintained, but considerably increased. Recently, in company with Mr. John M. A Model Farmer. MR. EDITOR: A few years ago the Messrs Glenn, three sons of Mr. F. M. Glenn, purchased the valuable McCann farm of Maj. T. H. McCann. For this property they paid twelve dollars per property they paid twelve dollars per acre—six thousand dollars. One-third of this amount was paid in cash, the balance has been made on the farm, and the pay-ments promptly met. The elder of the three brothers, T. S. Glenn, has had special charge of the farm, and well and successfully has he performed the respon-sible duty. The McCann farm is one of the oldest settled places in the upper edge of Anderson County, and has been in the

I said to him we would go to the well and get some water, and we done so. He re-marked he had to go to plowing pretty soon, but did not start immediately. He said he was in a heap of trouble. Before we went to the well for water, Wm. Davis, deceased, and his mother were talking about his company with Mr. John M. Glenn, we passed over the various crops in cultiva-tion the present year, and think the man-ager of the farm is justly entitled to the appellation of the model farmer. He has made no attempt at special crops or pre-mium acres, but prefers by careful culti-vation and liberal manuring to bring up all the crops to the point of liberal and remunerative yields. While cotton is the leading crop, yet the corn and small grain crops receive equal attention, and are always arranged to yield a liberal supply for the farm itself. The corn crop is mostly planted on the fine bottom lands lying on the creek immediately above Rankin's old mill-site, which, a few years ago, was lost to cultivation by overflow and otherwise, but since the re-moval of the dam it has been nearly all reclaimed (53 acres) and brought into a high state of cultivation. EDGEFIELD, S. C., May 3, 1879. Dr. L. T. Hill: Dear Sir—Having tried Hill's Hepatic Panacea, and thoroughly tested its merits, I recommend it with the greatest confidence to the people, and begreatest confidence to the people, and be-speak for it admittance into every house-hold. It has given perfect satisfaction in my practice, and I feel assured the people will find it a healing "panacea" for all irregularities incident to the liver. I do not speak as one who has heard and seen not, but from my personal experience as a practicing physician. It should be kept in every household, and meet with that re-ception that its virtue and merits demand. I heartily endorse it as an effective liver regulator. Very truly yours, Very truly yours, W. D. JENNINGS, M. D. egulator.

COLUMBUS, GA., Jan. 17, 1878. Dr. C. J. Moffett: Dear Sir-Last sum-mer, when our little girl was teething, we tried a great number of prescriptions, but none of them relieved her. We finally had brought to our notice your Teethina (Teething Powders), and used them with the happiest result. They gave her a speedy and permanent relief. I very heartily recommend them to others. Yours very truly.

A Cough, Cold or Sore Throat should be stopped. Neglect frequently results in an Incurable Lang Discuse or Consumption. Brown's Bronchial Troches are certain to give relief in Asthma, Bronchitis, Coughs, Catarrh Consumptive and Throat Discases. For thirty years the Troches have been recommended by physicians, and always give perfect sat-isfaction. They are not new or untried, but having been tested by wide and constant greens, and as the curtain was raised Miss Ella Dean, seated on a beautifully decora-ted throne was revealed as the "Flower use for nearly an entire generation, they have attained well-merited rank among the Queen," and was crowned as such by Miss few staple remedies of the age. Public Speakers and Singers use them to clear and strengthen the Voice.
