"Tom" that was all the name he had. Who he was or where he came from, no one knew, except, perhaps, the wretched old woman with whom he lived, which meant that she let him sleep upon a pile of rags on the floor of her miserable room, and sometimes gave him a crust, but oftener a blow. When she was drunk—and that was the greater part of the time—Tom took to the streets; and by night she was very drunk. The boy was, perhaps, some six years old; but as be cowered down on the cold flagstones with his worn, pinched face and droop.

If was riding along one of the prettiest country roads you ever saw, and when I came to a certain gate my horse, without waiting for a sign from me, turned in. As we drew near the house I caught sight of two figures standing among the flowers. One was a handsome old lady with white hair, the other a young man. She was armed with an immense pair of shears, and he held in his hand his hat filled to the brim with flowers. The sunlight, creeping down through the trees, fell upon his close-cropped hair and yellow beard. As I drew in my horse and skewiching them, it all seemed to use like a fairy story. But it wasn't: for the sat watching them, it all seemed to ne like a fairy story. But it wasn't; for the with his worn, pinched face and drooping head, he might have been a hundred.

A carriage came rattling through the street and stopped close by him. The door was pushed open and two children half tumbled out, and leaving the door cair discovered and stopped close by him. Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

AYER'S

In discusses of the pulmenary organs a safe and reliable remely is invaluable. Ayer's Carrier Firenal, is as in a remedy, it is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and carative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united of such bewer as to insure the greatest possibile efficiency, and internative of results. It strikes at

By the greatest passible of the problem of restrictions of the efficiency, and the problem of the efficiency, and the problem of all pulmonary diseases, and raining research and rapid cures, and is adapted to patients of any age or efficiency seek being very palatable, the yearnest children take it readily. In endinary Coughs Colds, Sore Throat, Broachitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of Aven's Curenty Preseavant amongs and multimdes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudbanatiacks. In Whoopping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and incipful.

Low prices are incheciments to try so he of the many mixtures or syrings, made of them and indective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to disappoint the patient. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand active and effective treatment; and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great hability that these diseases may, while so trifled with, become deeply scated or incurable. Use Ayer's Cherry Pectonat, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is of acknowledged curative power, and is as cheapas its careful preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it. The test of half a century has proven its certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.
