

Chin House Burned.
J. N. Byrom, residing two miles west of here, met with the misfortune on last Monday night of having his chin house destroyed by fire. There was in the house two and a half barrels of cotton and a number of barrels of cotton seed, which were in the house, gin, press and other machinery. Mr. B. thinks the fire originated from a match, in the cotton gin. It was discovered by the fire being discovered, and it took hard work to save the mill and other buildings near. His losses about $600. No insurance.

Ten Days' Grace.
Official circular sent to all County Clerks of the State by the Comptroller, approved by the Governor, and signed by the State Treasurer, is in effect. It requires that all taxes be paid on or before the 10th day of October. The penalties are provided for in the act, but the State Treasurer has granted a ten days' grace to all taxpayers who fail to pay by the 10th. It will have both taxes and penalty to pay.

The State Fair.
Indications are that the State Fair will be the best ever held. The location is more rapidly than on previous years, and the Columbia papers are making arrangements for the occasion than ever before. It is determined to make it one of the most successful in the history of the State, and to be held in the city of Columbia.

Of a Promising Young Man.
Mr. G. Bowden, eldest son of Mr. A. G. Bowden, of Centerville township, died at his residence on Saturday night, aged 24 years, after an illness of about four weeks ago for Davidson N. C. and soon after arriving there at work, he was again taken ill, and died, and although every effort was made to stay the progress of disease, he died Saturday night. He was a very promising young man, and was well known in the neighborhood. His remains were buried at Mt. Zion church on Sunday morning, in the presence of a large number of friends.

Unreasonable Requests.
It is not a man in Anderson county did not more to accommodate a recent traveler who is not friends, but who has frequently asked through by citizens living in sections remote from the county seat, to grant favors to them, and to send them to the State Fair, to send them their tax receipts, and to give them the same, and also might possibly incur financial risk in assuming such liabilities, and in the better part of the county, all such requests for favors from gentlemen with the Treasurer has not even the pleasure.

A Word of Warning.
By a month passes that one or more than this do not suffer from a fire, that it could be controlled in any case if proper precautions were provided fire extinguishers, ladders, etc., beforehand. No incorporated mill will without an organized fire well provided with such necessary tools for fighting fire. The almost destruction of the towns of Edgefield during the past week was sufficient to show that there was a need of controlling the flames when first kindled. Our own town is in this country, and if fire were to break out in any building, the fact would be beyond control, in all probability the business portion of the town would be swept away, and the buildings are to each other for one to burn without catching. Time and again the fire of our citizens has been directed toward the town of Edgefield, and really if they are determined to turn a deaf ear to all that is said on the subject, they should do so at their peril. The fact heretofore has been controlled by apparatus at all is no surety will hereafter.

On Others See Us.
In the mention last week of the visit of A. Smith, of the Wallabi Courier, county Fair the week before, and that he tells the readers of his exchange about our town. Upon a visit to Anderson we were favorably impressed with the business appearance and the old town. Specially every where taken up in the public business houses, many new and recently been erected. There is a prominent merchant was commencing his business into the second of the buildings on Main street, and the brick building on the public square, one or two below the Hotel and one or two near the State Agricultural College, and in all of these buildings, many of which have been erected and others are in progress, is held at high figures, and everything indicates a future for Anderson. Being a citizen, I contribute largely to the growth and welfare of all towns. Anderson bids fair to get her luster and tobacco to do note such evidences of real and true progress.

A Novel Proposition.
A. James, writing from Bishopville, in the October Report of the Department of Agriculture, that, in fact, it is impracticable to establish a State Agricultural College, and that it is not a State enterprise, the State "Agriculture," publish an agricultural paper at their expense, and send a copy to every farmer in the State, and to disseminate monthly useful information to the reading citizens of the State, and to ask the Government to contribute to the cost of such an undertaking, which fully explains the novel proposition. There is in the State not less than $100,000,000 of tobacco, and we are able to write, and to furnish this State such a journal as he thinks it would be a benefit to the State, and that it should not be neglected. It is now doing in that respect. Furthermore, if the people of this State had failed of the best evidence that it is not in the State to run a good paper, and that the necessary expense of furnishing with the luxury of reading material, an undertaking would create a few places of profit to be paid from the public treasury, and the greatest benefit to the people would be the benefit derived by those who hold these positions.

The old steps to our office have been replaced by new ones, and delinquent subscribers are assured that there is now no objection of getting their legs broken in coming up to our "artificial stairs." Therefore, have some point, some relevancy to the subject matter, and not, as it generally is, a point which is merely a general expression, but one which has some bearing on the subject, and is not a mere display of profane swearing. "It is a bad habit, but I can't help it," says one. "I don't mean anything by it," says another. For these, the regretfully but habitually profane, and the profane swearing, in his swear, and in other duties, let every man stick to his trade and swear in the terms and by the implements of his calling. See the vast number of oaths which men draw. How suggestive the oath, "By the Shade of God," or "By the Powers of Heaven," or "By the Scabb of Venerer!" Lawyers, Doctors, Professors, only think what you may do by judicious and well regulated oaths. And so through all the walks of life, let the oath proclaim the calling of the man and his faith therein. Let clerks swear by their employers, and thus by the frequency and potency of their oaths will the status of their friends be firmly impressed on the minds of others. The field is too wide for me, Mr. Local. Apply your wit and wisdom to it.

One oath I do recall, wrung from a tender heart by the approaching death of one much loved, which carries with it the weight and solemnity of a prayer. "He will die," quoth Corporal Trent. "By God, he shall not die," said my uncle Toby. The necessary spirit that flew heavenward, and the Recording Angel, as he wrote it down, dropped a tear upon the word and blot it out forever. All honor to such an oath, Mr. Local, but in my judgment "Dauns have had their day."

The Barwell People declares that the State Agricultural College is an egregious failure, and advises the Legislature to "turn out" before Christmas the teachers and boys, and install a competent corps of female professors, all the classic halls with girls preparing for matrimony," and says that "future generations will not be able to understand the names in everlasting remembrance."
