Williamston is blessed in having a live Town Council, looking strictly after the interest of the place. During the recent heavy snows they improvised a snow plough with which they had each pavement, the street through the spring park, the bridges, all of the important walks cleared of snow. Through the management and interest taken by our Council, the railroad authorities have ordered the freight trains to stand back off of the crossing of the public thoroughfare; also that the guano houses be kept in such neatness as none could object, or else be emoved from off their grounds. And rumor says they are preparing to enlarge the culvert to aid in improving the health of our town. We hope by this time next year Williamston can boast of being the most healthy town in the whole Piedmont

The town of Pelzer is crowded to overflowing this fall and winter with workers begging for work and wages. Many persons, for miles away, trying to get there, in order to obtain food and raiment for next year. Thoroughly disgusted with tertainment will be used for the benefit of cotton raising, anxious to live and not starve, they seek refuge in our manufacturing towns. Some have rented houses and lands adjoining the Pelzer Co. for three and five years. Mr. H. C. Palmer, from near Pendleton, moved his family down last week, and many others are doing likewise. We give them all a hearty welcome, for the more people the more business and prosperity. Indeed we are all looking up over this side of the old County any way; trying to pay debts and meet the hard times with a cheerful heart. We never say failure; no, never, full of energy, full of vim, we are bound to live. A. P. N.
