For twenty years or more the talk of a Cotton Factory has been heard in Anderson, and time and again efforts have been made to establish one here. - These efforts, however, have proved futile, and our people had almost come to the conclusion that fort. But some of our citizens had never given up hope, and whenever an opportunity offered itself they would put in a word for a cotton factory. A few weeks ago the Board of Trade determined to take matter in hand and make one more effort to build the factory. The members of the Board of Trade felt that our friends of the County felt an interest in the welfare of their County seat, and that if their ention was properly called to the impor-ce of establishing a factory in our midst, it would only be a question of time until ter, the Board, a few days ago, issued invitations to the leading farmers of the County to visit Anderson on the 23rd of May, so that the question of building a cotton factory could be presented to them. That meeting was held yesterday, and an enthusiastic meeting it was, too. The Court orthwiter 11 o'clock, when Mr. James M. Sullivan, President of the Board of Trade chiled the meeting to order. Mr. Sallivan, in an eloquent and forcible speech, stated the object of the meeting and said he wanted the assistance of every person. He also read some interesting letters from Presidents of various cotton mills, and then introduced, as the first speaker, Col. H. P. Hammett, President of the Piedmont

Manufacturing Company.

Col. Hammett said to talk about a cotton mill was a very familiar thing to him, and that it must be apparent to every one town is able to keep up in the great march in progress of the nineteenth century without a diversified industry. He referred to Atlants, Ga., as an illustration, facturing establishments that had built up Atlanta. He also said that we had the most suitable climate, with just enough of dampth, and the best class of people from which to get operatives. Col. Hammett ty were directly interested in building a erson. That it would give a market for all kinds of produce, and increase the price of cotton, and put in Mrs. I circulation throughout the County cash proved at all seasons of the year. That it would the population of our little city, increase the material prosperity Mr. A. J. Sitton, of Pendleton Manufacturing Company, was next introduced, and showed that a cotton mill could be made a paying investment in Anderson, and that no man could calculate the interest it would be to Anderson and the sur-

A cotton factory in Anderson is now s certainty, and our people are happy over the result of the day.

True it is that calamities come not single filed but in battalions. Another effort in our usually very quiet little city.

At 2 o'clock last Monday morning, when all good citizens were peacefully resting in their homes the alarm of fire was sounded. Our people responded promptly to find Mr. L. H. Seel's stables, on John street, on fire. In spite of the efforts of our firemen, the stables were soon consumed by the flames. This was the second effort to burn these stables, the first having been discovered and extinguished before it had gained much head-While the firemen were at work trying to control the fire at Mr. Seel's stables Mrs. Bewley, who had got up on account of the alarm of fire, discovered that her dwelling on McDuffie street, near the new Methodist Church, was also on fire. They cried fire! fire! but everybody supposed it was on account of Mr. Seel's staes, until some one could be reached and notified. The fire had been set under the cook room, in Mrs. Bewley's house, and had burned up through the floor, but was extinguished before doing other damage. Also under Mr. J. W. Trowbridge's house was discovered, Monday morning, the kindling and preparation for setting it on fire, but for some unknown cause the attempt was not consummated. All these were the work of incendiaries. each and all of whom deserve the punishment of death. How close akin to the devil must that person be who is so low, and so mean, and so lost to everything that is true and good and pure, as to set fire to his neighbor's house, and at that dark hour of the night when all are presumed to be asleep. A new era has certainly dawned on Anderson, and in connection with a cotton mill we are going to have a new hotel. Nature seems to have made it for that purpose, and what she has left undone, Mr. Geer has added. We reached the spring about 11 o'clock, and found everybody in their happiest moods. Here and there were scattered small groups of voters, who were discussing politics, and seated around under the trees and in bugno doubt, were discussing politics, too, though of a different kind. Near the bold, beautiful spring was a large stand, in front of which were arranged a num ber of seats. The all-absorbing topic of the city just now is the Firemen's Tournament, which is rapidly approaching. Anderson will no doubt have the largest crowd she has ever entertained. The different fire companies of the city are now busily engaged making every preparation for the Anderson tournament. The boys are getting in good trim to bring away the prizes. Of course all three of the Athens companies cannot capture the first prize, but we venture to say that no This is comparatively a young company, having been in existence only about one year, and yet it is one of the fatest in the State, and the boys expect to win fresh Iaurels on South Carolina soil.
