ine Maria waiter. Ready to serve dud, and be helpful to all around her, she er-celled most in the passive virtues. "As a star fixed in the firmament of home" she shone with a mild and gentle light. Loving all, and beloved by all the children and the very servants in the household, her's was the ornament of a meek and quict spirit, and the peace of God was reflected upon her countenance. In the light of her example we understand better those beati-tudes of our Saviour: "Blessed are the poor in spirit; blessed are the meek; bless-ed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God; blessed are the peace-makers, for they shall be called the children of God." For her, "Death had lost its painful sting," and having finished her work, she was just at 6.30 o'clock. The patronage of the patrons and public general is respectfully Yours, very respectfully, . W. L. BROWN.

Is Consumption Incurable ?

Read the following: Mr. C. H. Morris, Newark, Ark., says: "Was down with Abscess of Lungs, and friends and physi-cians pronounced me an Incurable Con-sumptive.
