AND LET'S READ
BLECKLEY'S
NEW ADVERTISEMENT.

WHY, they haven't got in another new advertisement this week, have they? Yes, you know they put in a new one every week or two—their stock is so large, and so well assorted, that they have to keep changing their advertisement often, to let people know what "all" they keep, and even then, sometimes, they sell out just a heap of things before its ever advertised. Well, that's the way they go, where there is so much a selling all the way time. Now they offer you a large and very handsome stock of—

Cashmere, Henrietta, Mohair, Tricots, Serges, Worsteds, Flannel Suits and Suitings, Robes, Silks, &c., With Trimmings to match anything you buy.

There, a little farther down in their Store, is that long Counter filled with—
BLANKETS, FLANNELS, &c.

Why, they have got the biggest lot of Blankets and Flannels that you ever saw in one Store in Anderson, and that, really, you would think it was nothing but a "Blanket and Flannel Store," until you begin to look around and see all that Jeans, Cheeks, Gingham and Calicoes, and such like, on one side, and the other side is just covered with Shoes and Hats from the floor to the ceiling—in fact, they have got just a heap of mighty near everything you want. Then, Up Stairs, they have a big stock of—

Gents' Ready Made Clothing, Overcoats and Trunks.

NOW LISTEN!
They are selling Cloth, Flour, Buggies and Harness cheaper than anybody—cash or on time.

TO OUR FRIENDS AND CUSTOMERS.
We desire to add only a few more lines to the above comments. We will offer "special low prices" for the next few weeks, in order to reduce our Winter stock. We will sell you goods CHEAPER now than you ever bought them before. Come and see if we don't. Our trade has been extra good this Fall, and we are rushed with business all the time, but are always glad to have you come to see us—especially the Ladies. Come in to see us every time you are in the city.

Yours truly,
SYLVESTER BLECKLEY CO.

Real Estate is assessed this year, 1890, with all parties and attention to be placed on the buildings, will please look up their deeds, where necessary, and get the right number of acres, lots and buildings, and the value of the same on the 1st day of January, 1890. All buildings of any sort that are worth ten dollars and over are to be returned. A good way for the Tax Payer who has a memorandum of each building and its value, the number of Acres, Cattle, Horses, Mules, Sheep and Goats, Hogs, Watches, Organs and Pianos, Buggies, Wagons and Carriages, Dogs, Merchandise, Machinery, Concoes, Notes and Accounts (above the debts), Furniture, &c., which will enable the Assessor to prepare the work. Tax Payers return what they own on the first day of January, 1890. Assessors and Tax Payers will enter the first given name of the Tax Payer in full, also make a separate return for each party, and those who only own a share in, and where the Tax Payer owns realty, to insert the Postoffice as their place of residence, and those who only own a share in realty, to give the parties name who owns the land they live on as their residence, which aids the Tax Payer, as well as the County Treasurer, in making the collection and preventing errors.

Every male citizen between the ages of twenty-one and fifty years, on the first day of January, 1890, except those incapable of earning a support from being married, or from other causes, shall be deemed liable polls.

All returns that are made after the twentieth of February, next, shall be placed on the Additional List, and fifty per cent. penalty added thereto, unless prevented by sickness, or out of the County during the time of listing. Not knowing the time of listing is no excuse; and all owners of real estate might do their Tenants, who cannot read or take a newspaper, a great favor by making their returns or listing them the time of listing, and that they fail to make their returns, that the valuation has to be increased fifty per cent, unless they have a good excuse.

The assessing and collecting taxes is all done now in the same year, and we have to aggregate the number and value of all the horses, cattle, mules, &c., as well as the acres of land, lots and buildings and their value that is in the County, and have the same on file in the Comptroller General's office by the third day of June each year, and from that time to the first of October, each year, the Auditor and Treasurer's Office has to be completed, and an abstract of the work in the Comptroller's office by that time, which will show, at a glance, that the Auditor has no time to take in returns, or anything else much, between the first day of March and the first day of October, next, and work on the books and blanks. Therefore, hope that all Tax Payers will do us the favor of making their returns in time.

Anderson Intelligence.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 30.—The Tribune office was burned to a cinder, and it is expected that from ten to twenty people lost their lives. Shortly after eleven o'clock a portion of the wall on Fourth Street fell and a number of persons are believed to have been buried underneath. Five men, more or less injured, have been taken into a drug store in the vicinity of the fire and three others have just been carried into a restaurant near by.

The Tribune building is on the northeast corner of First Avenue and Fourth Street. Those known to be dead are Harry Cole and William McCutcheon, who were in the Tribune office. They were killed by jumping. There were nearly one hundred persons employed on the seventh floor where the fire broke out. Among the killed is Mr. James P. Igoe, the Associated Press telegraph operator, who was on the seventh floor. On this floor were situated many of the Tribune staff, editors, reporters, and compositors.

The only body yet identified is that of John Olsen, a merchant, who had gone to the composing rooms to see about the printing of a book. He was found on the top floor and was killed instantly, his body being shockingly mangled. Seven bodies have been already taken out, but no more names are yet known. The Tribune Press (Minneapolis) forces were on the sixth floor, and some fears are entertained regarding their safety. However, the most of the loss of life seems to have been in another part of the building.

The fire started in a law office on the third story of the building about 10:30. The elevator man noticed the smell of smoke and called attention to it. The fire began to fill the narrow stairway, and the only one in the building, and everybody began to make leisurely preparations to depart. No immediate danger was feared, and the only exit from the building, which were supposed to be fire proof, were a narrow staircase wide enough for two persons to come down abreast, the elevator, and a single fire escape at the north end of the building. Several persons made their escape in the mean time, but in less than ten minutes the flames sought the elevator shaft, which, acting as a mammoth chimney, conveyed the flames to the top of the building. The fire reached the other side, where the composing room was situated.

A general alarm was turned in and all the engines in the city responded to the call. The imprisoned prisoners gathered at the windows in the south end and shrieked wildly and despairingly for aid. "Hurry the ladders!" was the awful cry. "Hurry the ladders, for God's sake!" shrieked the men with all the vehemence their souls could muster. The vast crowd witnessing the awful sight shouted back words of encouragement. The long ladders seemed to move up at a snail's pace but were finally rested against the roof and the terrified men began to descend, the flames making steady encroachments upon the corner into which they had been driven. The life belts were brought into use, and some were saved in this way.

The sparks are flying in all directions, and adjoining buildings, occupied by the Ideal Restaurant, Searn & Van Winkles saloon, and McCrystie's tailor store, are doomed. The Tribune building was 8 years old, a seven-story brick structure, valued at $200,000. Milton Pickett, in charge of the Minneapolis office of the Pioneer Press, is supposed to have been lost. W. E. Myles, the agent of the Associated Press, was among the killed.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 30.—At the morgue lay five bodies. That of Prof. Olsen has been enclosed in a plain pine coffin. On the floor are the bodies of Jerry Jensen, a compositor on the Tribune, and a woman who was found resting in position and the terrified men began to descend, the flames making steady encroachments upon the corner into which they had been driven. The life belts were brought into use, and some were saved in this way.

Dancing Turkeys.

"I've got a story," said Mr. J. W. Lincoln, animal keeper at the Green house, last night, as he boasted his skins before a coal fire at the stable-house.

"All right; fire away."

"It's a Thanksgiving story, and it is all about a pair of dancing turkeys. In 1887, I suppose George and myself were down in the West Indies with a circus. The circus had more cash than currency, and we found no trouble in making them tumble to any sort of racket. But the circus grew a little stale, and we cut about for a new sensation. One evening we were sitting in the shadow of the tent discussing the situation. We had a gasoline cook stove. A pig had been worrying us a good deal, and Popcorn George remarked that if we would catch him and put him on that stove a minute he'd cease to annoy us."

"Yes," remarked another, "if you'll throw a chicken on a hot stove he'll dance."

"By gosh," cried George; "we have it. We'll get a pair of dancing turkeys."

"The scheme was no sooner concocted than we set to work to perfect it. We had the stove in a box, and a plate of sheet iron on top of the box. We secured a pair of gobblers and proceeded to work. The box had handles and when the time came for the dancing act we would fetch the box into the ring, after having turned on the light, and then George would lead in the trained gobblers."

"After a preliminary speech announcing the only pair of trained turkeys in the world, we would lift them on the box and the band would strike up. The turkeys were held by a string and as soon as their feet struck the warm iron they would begin to dance. Up and down, around and around, as the music grew faster, those two gobblers would dance for all they were worth. When it got too hot for them we would take them down to rest. Then we would put them up again, and they would loop around and boiler as though they were enjoying the dance most heartily."

"Well, sir, the thing drew the biggest sort of crowds for several days, and then we struck a bargain that beat anything in poultry dealing that I ever knew. A green fellow came up and asked me how they were trained. I told him that it took a long and tedious operation."

"He then wanted to know what we would charge to train a pair of turkeys to dance. Before long he wanted to know if he could get a pair of turkeys to dance for him. He did not care to tell the secret, but would sell him the turkeys and the apparatus."

"What will you take for them?"

"Two hundred dollar apiece, four hundred for the outfit and outfit."

"After a moment's hesitation the fellow accepted the proposition, thinking there was millions in the snap and he paid the money."

"Did you show him the trick?"

"Yes, of course we did, after he had paid the money. He went off cursing, but I don't know what he ever did by the turn-out."
