Farmers, Save Your Seed.

As this is one of the most important things for the farmer to look after, and the time is drawing near for action, I thought I would give my plan, hoping it will benefit some one. In the first place, every farmer ought to have a place where he can keep his seed, for rats and mice are very fond of seed when they are nicely saved. I have often heard complaint by farmers and wives that the rats had destroyed their seed. So we will have to prepare in time against such loss. It is very foolish for us to go to the trouble of saving seed and then lose them by our carelessness in not providing a good place for them. I know we have to feed rats and mice, but it is too expensive to feed them on our seed. Therefore, prepare well for us.

I always try to get my seed from the plant that grows them in the shortest time. I save my watermelon seed late in the season, as they come to maturity much earlier in the latter part of the season, and the same with cotton and corn; I have tried. I save my melon seed and cure them in the shade. Save my seed corn by selecting it in the field and hang it up in some good place so it will cure well in the air. When well dried, I put it in some tight box and nail it so nothing can get to it. My cotton seed I select in the field and put the cotton in some good place where it will dry, always in the shade. I have it strung up every day to prevent it from heating when dry, have it ginned and put the seed in some good place to get thoroughly dry, have them stirred up every day for sometime until dry, then put them away and field peas in the same way. I cure all my seed in the shade. Most all seed will heat when put in a green state if not well stirred up every day or two. When seed once takes a heat they will not come up well, and a heat means never put any planting seed in an old smoke house where there has been salt, for salt has a tendency to keep things near it very moist and will injure seed. I once bought some ground peas from a merchant which were in the back part of a container where salt was, and my peas looked all right but did not come up well. I have heard of seed being injured in much the same way. Therefore, be careful. The loss to our Southern country by planting defective seed is immense and should be avoided if possible. I think the seed that we raise are much better for us to plant anyway, as they are already acclimated.

Oh, what a time it would be to our country if the farmers would save their own seed, or at least all that could be saved that suits our climate. If our farmers will look to these things more closely, we will be benefited. Thousands of dollars go out of the Southern country every year for seed which we ought to save ourselves. I have been out morning saving some fine peas for seed. This thing of saving seed is a big thing; we have to be ready to gather them when ripe, and all the time looking out and watching for the seed ripening at different times. I save my watermelons from planting vines; plant about 15th day of June. Save my watermelons from seed planted about the same time. Save those that come in late in the season for early spring planting. I think seed that come to full maturity in the shortest time is the seed to save. This has been my observation and experience. Hoping all my brother farmers will in the future save all their own seed and stop spending so much money for that we can save.—L. L. Wilson in Southern Farm.

Uncle George and Receiver Chamberlain.

What a wonderful healer time is, indeed! The last speech of Daniel H. Chamberlain, then governor of South Carolina, ever made on the stump, was at Midway in 1876. The man who opposed him on that occasion was Hon. George D. Tillman. Angry glances were exchanged, opprobrious epithets were hurled at Chamberlain and those with him, while hundreds of men stood in front of the stand, almost hoping that "something exciting" would occur.

Several exciting things did occur, and bloodshed was averted by the coolness of Colonel Tillman and some of the other speakers. It was a wild day. Chamberlain lurched hurriedly in a buggy, went back to Columbia, and almost immediately afterwards, declared martial law. Within a comparatively short time, he left the State, as every one believed, and as he doubtless thought, forever.

Yesterday Congressman Tillman and ex-Governor Chamberlain met for the first time since that memorable day at Midway in '76. Mr. Chamberlain is now receiver of several valuable rail road properties, and his ability as a manager has elicited the most flattering comment from the business men of Charleston, and he has been the recipient of much attention from them. The ex-Governor saluted the congressman cheerily, and soon they were engaged earnestly in conversation. What strange memories must have rushed through their minds, crowding one upon the other, as they chatted pleasantly in front of the Charleston hotel yesterday.

A man who might have suggested in 1876 the bare possibility of such a thing, would have been regarded as a fit subject for the insane asylum.—Charleston World.

—Young men in Mexico, when paying attention to the young ladies, can do so at very little expense. They cannot begin to entertain a young lady, except to invite them to theaters, parties, etc. And no wonder, for it is the custom in that country for the lady's father to pay for the tickets and furnish the carriage, etc.

He will Stay where He Is.

WASHINGTON, August 12.—The Star publishes an interview with ex-Senator Bruce, of Mississippi, relative to the movement now on foot to induce the colored people of the South to emigrate to Liberia. Bruce condemns the movement and predicts its failure, just as four previous attempts of the same kind have failed.

He says the colored people are not in sympathy with it. In fact, Bishop H. M. Turner, of the African Methodist Church, is the only prominent man in this country who favors the scheme and believes that the negro will only reach his highest development in the Dark Continent. The Bishop is a man of recognized ability and influence, but he has failed to impress his peculiar views in this respect upon the race.

The black race in this country is not African except in color. In all the elements of civilized manhood they are American, and there is no more reason why they should abandon the land of their birth and go to the Dark Continent, because their fathers lived there, than the Irish or Germans should return to the Old World because their forefathers lived there. One of the most potent arguments made by the friends of the movement is that conditions are easier, that vast sums can be realized from the mahogany trade and other tropical productions. They seem to forget that the negro has to-day practically the monopoly of the agricultural labor of the South, producing nearly all the cotton, rice and sugar of that section. If the progress made by the colored people of the South since their emancipation were less satisfactory the colonizationists might find some ground upon which to stand. I speak of the South because fifteen states of it is in this section that all the efforts are made in this direction.

Bruce quoted facts shown by the recent census to demonstrate his assertion that the advancement of the colored race was simply amazing, and then speaking particularly of the industrial growth of the race, went on to say: "As slaves expending their physical energies under the direction and for the benefit of others, they produced great volumes of value, for their portion of the product of their section of the country, and were depending upon their own industry and energy, they are producing greater results than ever before.

The cotton crop of 1890 was the greatest ever produced. The crop of 1891 promises to be even greater. Any general and widespread movement among the population would paralyze the industries of eight States and seriously affect the business of many more. Heretofore we have contemplated the negro simply as a field hand, but under the stimulating influence of education this state of things is changing, and he is now pushing himself into every field of activity and becoming artisan, mechanic, merchant, banker, manufacturer, lawyer, doctor, teacher and preacher. The truth is, the negro is going into everything that Americans engage in.

"Then, they must have accumulated considerable property in the South since the war."

"Oh, yes," said Bruce. "Notwithstanding the disadvantages under which they labor they own more than $15,000,000 worth of property in the State of Virginia, as shown by the census, and had assessments in the States of Louisiana, North Carolina and Mississippi, and in some others been kept separate, as was done in Virginia, a far better showing would have been made. The negro is coming. Only give him half a chance."

A Boy's Religion.

If a boy is a lover of the Lord Jesus Christ, though he can't lead a prayer meeting, or be a Church officer, or preacher, he can be a godly boy. He need not be too solemn or quiet a boy. He need not cease to be a boy because he is a Christian. He ought to run, jump, play, climb and yell like a real boy. But in all he ought to be free from vulgarity and profanity. He ought to eschew tobacco in every form and have a horror of intoxicating drinks. He ought to be peaceable, gentle, merciful, generous. He ought to take the part of small boys against large ones. He ought to discourage fighting. He ought to refuse to be a party to mischief, to persecution, to deceit. And, above all things, he ought to show his colors now and then. He need not always be interrupting a game to say that he is a Christian, but he ought not to be ashamed to say that he refuses to do something because he fears God or is a Christian. He ought to take no part in the ridicule of sacred things, but meet the ridicule of others with a bold statement for the things of God he feels the deepest reverence.

—It is related as a curious fact that Paris, with a population of nearly 2,500,000, souls, has less than 100 negroes within its limits. Statisticians say that the whole of France cannot muster a negro population exceeding 500.

March-April-May

Are months when Ayer's Sarsaparilla proves especially beneficial. The free use of animal food during winter, while living in over-heated, ill-ventilated rooms, and taking insufficient outdoor exercise, tends to load the blood with impurities, which manifest themselves in liver complaint, bilious disturbances, that breed fevers, eruptions, and various other disorders. Ayer's Sarsaparilla, being a powerful and highly concentrated alterative, is the most effective and economical spring medicine ever prepared. Take it yourself and give it to your children.

"For several years, in the spring months, I used to be troubled with a drowsy, tired feeling, and a dull pain in the small of my back, so bad at times, as to prevent my being able to walk, and I had occasion to consult several doctors. Frequently, boils and rashes would break out on various parts of the body. By the advice of friends and family physicians, I began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla and continued it until the system was thoroughly purified. The result was gratifying. I feel now as well as I ever did."—Luther V. English, Montgomery City, Mo.

"I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla as a remedy for the various diseases common to the spring time, and also as a tonic for the system. I find it to be very efficacious, and think that no one who is troubled with impurities of the blood should try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I have used it as equal as a blood-purifier."—C. E. Jaquith, Nashua, N. H.

"Every spring for the last nine years I have been in the habit of taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and I can truly say that I never used any medicine that did me so much good. I am convinced that it is the best medicine of the kind in the market, and recommend it to all who are in need of a reliable and effective blood-purifier."—J. A. Stewart, Proprietor of Stewart's Rangoon Balm, 26 Pearl St., New York City.

"My wife always uses Ayer's Sarsaparilla as a spring medicine, and with wonderful good results."—J. L. Minty, St. Johnsbury, Vt.

"I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla with great benefit, as a spring medicine and purifier of the blood, and would not willingly be without it."—Mrs. S. H. Fry, Boston, Mass.

"I have received wonderful benefit from the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It purifies the blood and is the best spring medicine I know of."—Mrs. H. W. Hickey, Roxbury, Mass.

Harris, Waterbury, S. C., in regard to it, and I feel sure that it is superior to the celebrated Glens Springs water, and take pleasure in recommending it to the public for stomach, bowel and liver disorders, and for all the ailments of the kind mentioned."—*W.
